THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: “... By attacking the private ownership of property they [the socialists] struck unconsciously at the foundation on which in the historic policy of England’s individual liberty had always rested. Because the privilege of ownership had ceased to be widespread as in the past and had become restricted to the few, they supposed that its destruction would extend to the freedom of many.

They forgot that, apart from economic liberty, political liberty has little meaning. Only so long as a man knows that he can defy superior power and still support himself and his loved ones is he a free man. Without that knowledge, whatever his standard of living or theoretical status, he is a kind of slave...

GLOBALISM CRITIQUED By James Reed

A very good issue of the US anti-immigration journal The Social Contract, Summer, 2017, with some telling articles attacking globalism: http://www.thesocialcontract.com/artman2/publish/tsc\_27\_4/index.shtml

John Vinson, “Ending Nations will Not End War,” criticises the universalism involved in a song like John Lennon’s Imagine, and Vinson is a Christian as well, who as president of the American Immigration Control Foundation, has written much on immigration control from a Christian perspective: <http://www.aicfoundation.com/about.html>. So, if you are a Christian and having problems about the immigration invasion, feeling that it is only moral to allow all that the corporate elites want to happen, note that there is help out there. Vinson is clever and has some good arguments:

“Even if globalism could somehow ensure peace, would it really be worth the price? Is peace something to be sought above every other value? In answer to John Lennon’s Imagine, one might reply that if there is nothing worth dying for, then there is nothing worth living for either. Among the things that a lot of people wish to live for are homelands where they feel at home, where their heritage and culture are secure. They also cherish the liberty to make that choice. They prefer a world with genuine diversity where different peoples can pursue different policies and visions. This diversity can reveal what is successful and what isn’t by comparison. Alas, there can be no comparisons in a one-size-fits-all mono-tone globe.

A most eloquent expression in favor of nationhood was that of the renowned Russian dissident Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn, who experienced the globalist regime of Soviet Communism. He affirmed that “the disappearance of nations would impoverish us no less than if all people were made alike, with one character, one face. Nations are the wealth of mankind, they are its generalized personalities: the smallest of them has its own particular colors, and embodies a particular facet of God’s design.”

Harmony among nations is a worthy goal, but it must presume that nations will exist. The attempt to abolish nationhood is a war against humanity’s deepest sentiments and aspirations, and the waging of that warfare will not bring peace.”

THOSE WHO LIVE BY THE MULTICULT SWORD, “DIE” BY THE CONSTITUTIONAL SWORD By Ian Wilson LL.B

At the moment the political class is in panic about court rulings reinforcing the Constitutional requirement that prevent dual nationals from running for parliamentary office. At present Senator Canavan seems to be in trouble because his mother, Australian-born, but Italian, signed him up for Italian citizenship in 2006, without his knowledge: The Australian, July, 26, 2017, p. 1. The cartoonists have made fun out of this claim, but I do not see any reason to doubt the claim as being sincere, for Italian mothers could culturally do such things for their sons. Obviously, mum did not know the consequences. What now?

Well, I believe that section 44 of the Constitution is quite clear what needs to happen:

COMMONWEALTH OF AUSTRALIA CONSTITUTION ACT - SECT 44 Disqualification

Any person who:

- (i) is under any acknowledgment of allegiance, obedience, or adherence to a foreign power, or is a subject or a citizen or entitled to the rights or privileges of a subject or a citizen of a foreign power; or
- (ii) is attainted of treason, or has been convicted and is under sentence, or subject to be sentenced, for any offence punishable under the law of the Commonwealth or of a State by imprisonment for one year or longer; or
- (iii) is an undischarged bankrupt or insolvent; or
- (iv) holds any office of profit under the Crown, or any pension payable during the pleasure

FOREIGN GRADUATES AND UNEMPLOYMENT By James Reed

Migrants in Australia, we are told, have delivered an almost four-fold increase in employment growth between 2011 and 2016: The Australian, July 21, 2017, p. 7. It though is a Ponzi scheme, with the growth being caused by migrants anyway, who tend to be put into what jobs are available. The claim is made that the only jobs lost are those of the unskilled, but this is manifestly untrue, because local skilled also miss out, such as some university graduates.

For example, the new class elites want to see international students working in the state even before they finish their studies: The Australian July 19, 2017, p. 27. These jobs will be lost to locals, and it is just magical thinking to suppose that the flow of money spent by international students will create new jobs.

There is considerable flexibility in the economy to absorb workers, and to not require more for increased of the Crown out of any of the revenues of the Commonwealth; or

(v) has any direct or indirect pecuniary interest in any agreement with the Public Service of the Commonwealth otherwise than as a member and in common with the other members of an incorporated company consisting of more than twenty-five persons; shall be incapable of being chosen or of sitting as a senator or a member of the House of Representatives.

But subsection (iv) does not apply to the office of any of the Queen’s Ministers of State for the Commonwealth, or of any of the Queen’s Ministers for a State, or to the receipt of pay, half pay, or a pension, by any person as an officer or member of the Queen’s navy or army, or to the receipt of pay as an officer or member of the naval or military forces of the Commonwealth by any person whose services are not wholly employed by the Commonwealth.”

Read carefully, there is nothing at all said here about intentions; there is nothing along the lines said by one constitutional expert, that a person in defence must have taken all reasonable steps to divest themselves of their second citizenship. There is nothing here about knowledge – instead, the section explicitly speaks about being a “subject,” and people can clearly be subjects without the knowledge condition being met.

This suggests that section 44 will, if the High Court is strong, have the capacity to prune out many politicians. We will see how much they love their multicultural, after they lose their seats. Oh, and there should be a case made for losing all benefits, including super, and paying back salaries. *** output. More efficiency is simply squeezed out of existing workers. Thus, increased student loads is met by making young PhDers work harder, not by increasing the number of jobs. The money just goes as profit.

The idea that immigrants create jobs is another rationalisation produced by the priestly economic class to justify mass migration and increased profits to their masters, the corporate capitalists: <http://www.eurocanadian.ca/2014/07/environmentalist-corporate-rapprochement-around-immigration.html>.

The economic approach to virtually everything means that long-term issues, such as ethnic displacement are not examined, or are dismissed. Yet, at present in England, mothers born abroad now account for 28.2 percent of births, and rising: <http://www.breitbart.com/london/2017/07/19/mothers-born-abroad-now-account-28-2-births-england-wales/>, giving the lie to the song line that there will always be an England: <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=-GvkyKEYRnM>. ***

LAUGHING ALL THE WAY TO THE APOCALYPSE By Paul Walker

An insightful article by Miranda Devine, “Who’s Afraid of the Big Bad Climate Monster,” at <http://www.dailytelegraph.com.au/rendezview/whos-afraid-of-the-big-bad-climate-monster/news-story/5079c031c43e3de67572402640cc6fc0>, makes the point that many have got rich from peddling the idea of a climate catastrophe.

She says that Al Gore is back with a new film and we can expect more hysteria:

“In Al Gore’s latest cinematic dose of climate scaremongering, a young Asian man is crying.

“I feel so scared” he wails, before vision of solicitous uncle Al patting his hand in an attempt to soothe away his fears of the apocalypse.

Scaremongering is what Gore does best, and fear is the business model that has made him rich, though his every apocalyptic scenario has failed to materialise.

In Australia last week to spruik his upcoming movie An Inconvenient Sequel, the former US vice president tried it on again, claiming Mother Nature was “screaming” and the world would descend into “political disruption and chaos and diseases, stronger storms and more destructive floods” unless we buy his snake oil.

Silly Labor premiers bought that snake oil last week, pledging alongside the grinning Gore that Victoria, Queensland, the ACT and South Australia would embrace renewables to produce zero net emissions by 2050.

They haven’t learned the lesson from SA’s extreme green experiment with renewable energy that has produced nothing but crippling blackouts and the highest electricity prices in the world. (emph-ed)

Any normal person with such a woeful record of accuracy as Gore would be ashamed to show his face. Eleven years after his Inconvenient Truth movie scared little kids witless, his warnings of climate Armageddon have come to nothing.”

My hypothesis is that people are picking up the idea that there is a collapse coming, but it is not from the climate. The collapse is socio-economic, and this time really is human-caused. ***

CLIMATE CHANGE: Treaties and Policies in the Trump era -- by Alan Moran $24.95

The book foreshadows the collapse of the Paris agreement and gradual, if not abrupt, dismantling of the costly measures it entails – primarily involving forcing consumers to subsidise wind and solar energy.

A NEEDLESS DEATH By Sad Uncle Len

Uncle Len, who liberals would dismiss as a racist, joined Aboriginal activists, and mainly young people in Rundle Mall, in a place far away, called Adelaide, on the 24th July, to protest about the penalty given to a white man who ran over a 14-year old Aboriginal boy in his ute: <http://www.sbs.com.au/nitv/nitv-news/article/2017/07/21/driver-not-guilty-indigenous-teen-elijah-doughtys-manslaughter>.

The lad was killed after stealing a motor bike in the Western Australian Goldfields region.

One report said this: “Instead, the teenager, who wasn’t wearing a helmet, tumbled under the car after the impact and died instantly from severe injuries to his neck, chest, pelvis and right leg, a fractured skull and bruised lungs.

Footage of the crash scene played during the trial showed the small motorcycle smashed into pieces, the boy’s shoes had flung off his feet in the impact, a tyre mark on the bumper of the ute, damage to the undercarriage of the vehicle and a long trail of oil leading to where it stopped.

The vision caused family members to leave the court weeping.

The man conceded he had been driving too close and didn’t have time to stop, admitting that was unsafe.”

All this over a bloody motor bike!

And, the stupid bike was destroyed after all.

Normally I hate socialist types, but when I heard an impassioned speech by one girl, followed by an emotional address from the heart by an Aboriginal lass, I decided to stay and protest with them, although this may have turned many people in the Mall off, seeing me. But, I noticed that multicult/multiracial Australia, passing by, had no interest in this issue; no-one joined in that I could see, and there were a few cynical remarks made by some people passing by, from a variety of races.

I wonder how Aboriginal people will go in the Australia that the elites are now creating? If White Australia has been bad for them, how will the New World Order culture be any better? I have a really bad feeling about what is coming for us all. ***

LETTER TO THE EDITOR OF THE AGE

As James Paterson notes ('Radical approach to Indigenous recognition will fail', 25/7), the Referendum Council's recommendations 'have far-reaching implications for all of us.' He does not, however, seem to have grasped the problems associated with the proposal for a 'declaration of recognition.'

From one point of view, why do we need an official statement of the obvious? On the other hand, is it so obvious?

Government should be wary of making historical assertions about controversial matters. That's the stuff of totalitarianism.

There is some doubt as to whether our Aboriginals really were the 'first people' on this continent or whether they displaced an earlier group. Then again, no present-day Aboriginals existed in time before other present-day Australians.

And who knows what radical implications future High Court judicial adventurers might claim to read into even the declaration's seemingly innocuous statement about 'Aboriginal and Torres Strait Islanders'?

CHINA AND RUSSIA, ARE A TAG TEAM By James Reed

The hawks who are pining for the US to go to war against Russia, something temporarily stopped by the election of President Trump, should pause and think hard about China's recent military exercises with Russia, China's first involvement in European inland waters, in the Baltic Sea.

In September, the exercises shift to the Sea of Japan, another area of possible confrontation. China's newspapers made clear that all of this was to strengthen the Chinese-Russian strategic partnership.

The Global Times of China said that China's navy "will surely get stronger and stronger and march further and further, which the West should get used to." Well, ignore the flawed metaphor about a navy marching; the point should still be taken with deadly seriousness: "China Flexes its Military Muscle," The Australian, July 24, 2017, p. 9.

Trump will, hopefully, hold off World War III, but the criminal psychopaths who no doubt will follow, as the elites will never again allow the election of a peoples' champion against globalism, will have no such concerns.

They must believe that they can survive in their taxpayers' funded fallout shelters, to emerge in the future to rebuild the planet in their image.

Dream on, oh dark and evil lords of the bitter night. ***

THE CREATIVE AC-COUNTING OF THE TEMPERATURE RECORDS

I understand that if I 'doctored' the books of a company I would/could be charged with fraud... it is a criminal offence. But what about the 'doctoring' of weather details by the Bureau of Meteorology, a taxpayer funded institution? It seems that doesn't count as a fraud.

Do listen to Alan Jones' interviewing Dr. Jennifer Marohasy on the 'doctoring' by the BOM of the weather temperature details.... Appalling!

TARGET FOR THE WEEK:

The immigration/terrorism story will not be going away in the near future so take note of the supplement material in last week's OT and copy the appropriate section and send to your MP's and Senators.

Add a brief comment of your own but maintain the theme of stopping all immigration. To be selective will only add fuel to the fire and cause division. A policy which can unite people is the answer.

Basic Fund July 28 2017:

As the Melbourne office is now closed, the donations had increased by another $2145. Once again all amounts are greatly appreciated and we consider them a "vote of confidence to continue the good work".

The staff at the new SA Headquarters in Happy Valley would love to receive contributions from anyone who has not quite "got around" to sending in their contribution. The progressive total is $28,125. Our target for this year is set to $60k. - ND
