THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: Launched today in the wake of the High Court decision, (to allow the postal survey-ed) TransgenderMarriageVote.com.au explains why there is a mismatch between the postal survey question and the bills put forward in parliament.

“Attorney General George Brandis is wrong to claim the postal survey is only about ‘allowing same sex couples to marry’. His own department has confirmed that non-binary gender identities are included if marriage is redefined as the union of any 2 people,” said Patrick Byrne researcher for the Australian Family Association.

“Our new site claims upfront that, ‘It’s really transgender marriage, no matter what the postal ballot says’ and then explains how this is possible,” said Mr Byrne.

“This means schools would have to teach kids that their gender is fluid, that marriage can be gender-fluid, (e.g. Pangender married to Astralgender) and boys who identify more as a girl can use the girls’ facilities,” said Mr Byrne.

WESTERN CHRISTIANITY AT AN END? TIME TO WAKE UP OR DIE By Chris Knight

The threat of same sex marriage, and the assault upon traditional institutions is arising at a time when Christianity is in rapid decline in the West. This issue has been commented upon before, but there is more bad news that you need to hear.

White Christians are now a minority in the United States: http://hosted.ap.org/dynamic/stories/U/US_REL_SURVEY_WHITE_CHRISTIANS?SITE=AP&SECTION=HOME&TEMPLATE=DEFAULT&CTIME=2017-09-06-06-46-35

White Christians are now only 43 percent of the US population, and 30 percent identify as white Protestants, a product of both mass immigration and a general decline in Christian numbers. The situation is almost as bad in Britain, with 53 percent of people describing themselves as having no religion, and only 15 percent regarding themselves as Anglican.

This is a time to mention a brilliant new book by Australia’s Andrew Fraser, Dissident Dispatches: An Alt-Right Guide to Christian Theology, (Arktos, 2017). Professor Fraser relates the details about how, in his retirement he undertook theological study. I don’t know why one would want to do this knowing the state of Christian theological colleges, but maybe he did not know what he was getting into. Anyway, he soon found that the college was a “hotbed of multiculturalist ideology.” In particular, the now mainstream church advanced a cosmopolitanism, where formerly White countries must be eternally open to migrants until the whites ethnically disappear. The Bible is seen as advancing the anti-racist, anti-nation agenda of the globalists.

Professor Fraser, God bless him, opposed this at the college in his student papers, and put the case for a Christian defence of nationhood. After all, the entire Old Testament was addressed to one nation, and has been seen as reinforcing group-solidarity. So why shouldn’t Anglo-Saxons have a right to exist as well?

In essence, Fraser shows in his book how far the theological schools have gone from common sense Christianity, and indeed from common sense. It struck me that the problem with Christianity today, which is leading to its rejection, is that the Christian institutions have been overtaken by the new morality of anti-White racism and political correctness. Peter West’s articles over the past few months about all the mischief the Pope has got up to well illustrates this. Yet, it should not be surprising. It is the same situation with all the institutions, such as the schools and the universities. Traditionalists have been sleepy, and I think, cowards, and have let most of this just happen, hoping that the next generation will save the problem. Now we are facing annihilation! ***

GAYS AGAINST GAY MARRIAGE? After “Yes,” the Apocalypse By Mrs Vera West

Believe it or not, there are gays who oppose same sex marriage:

<http://australianmarriage.org/silent-majority-silent-no/>

<https://www.youtube.com/embed/a-n7IKwTySc>

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Q6HD8KLQBvA>

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Q6HD8KLQBvA>

<http://australianmarriage.org/bait-switch-really-voting/>

The same sex vote has been pushed as merely doing the right thing for “equality,” just as the Aboriginal referendum is so pushed. But, there are less than hidden consequences, as the articles above notes:

“This Marriage Bill seeks to enshrine Gender Theory into the Marriage Act. You may think there are two genders but actually, there are around 112.

Here are a few (list available at Tumblr):

- Amaregender: a gender that changes depending on who you’re in love with
- Biogender: a gender that feels connected to nature in some way
- Cendgender: when your gender changes between one and its opposite
- Condigender: a gender that is only felt during certain circumstances
- Demiflux: the feeling of having multiple genders, some static and some fluctuating
- Espigender: a gender that is related to being a spirit or exists on a higher or extradimensional plane
- Genderwitched: a gender in which one is intrigued or entranced by the idea of a particular gender, but is not certain that they are actually feeling it.

Once gender is enshrined in law as mutually exclusive to ‘Sex,’ it opens the door to a range of legal issues. Since marriage was ‘degendered’ in the USA and Canada, ‘Misgendering’ is now considered ‘Psychological abuse’ and will potentially earn you jail time in California and it’s illegal in Canada too, where SSM has been legal for a decade. In London, the home of ‘Ladies and Gentlemen,’ this greeting is now considered offensive since marriage was redefined.

‘Heteronormative’ terms are removed from Marriage Certificates, Birth Certificates, Drivers Licenses and more when ‘gender’ is enshrined in the Marriage Act. Terms like ‘Husband’ and ‘Wife’ are now ‘Hate Speech’ and you can forget terms like ‘Mother and ‘Father.’

And Sexuality/Gender Theory are now compulsory in these countries. Because once Gender Theory is enshrined in Law, it must be taught as normal. It means handing your children over to schools to be indoctrinated to believe their gender is their own choice, that it is fluid, and teachers are encouraged to assist your child to choose and transition to their preferred gender and gender pronouns without your knowledge and consent.

ON TARGET

Redefining marriage isn’t quite as simple as it seems, and the repercussions are far greater than they may appear. But Aussies are smart. Smart enough to see through the Marxist Agenda playing out before us. In September, Vote ‘No’ to stop the ‘Gender Madness.’

This madness will only be stopped by everyone seeking to act at the community level, speaking to friends, family and neighbours, tonight. Nothing stops you going on a walk with your wife and dog, and talking to all you meet. Let me tell you that the universities are full of Yes propaganda, and most young people are going to vote Yes. This is the beginning of the end for Christian values in this country. Fight as if there is no tomorrow, because there will not be if this is lost.

Labor has already told us that they will be turning up the heat with the extension of section 18C to cover sexual discrimination, among other things. If you thought Australia was already a tyrannical cesspool, then think again, because the elites are only just getting warmed up. They intend to smash tradition into the ground, and grind their high heels in, hard. They never stop and once they have this in, it will be the next agenda.

All of this conflict will ultimately lead to the destruction of the Earth, and some such as physicist Stephen Hawking, wish to see Mars terraformed because he believes that the Earth is heading to inevitable doomsday, just from environmental issues such as overpopulation alone (he has not said anything on the cultural war question):

<http://www.telegraph.co.uk/science/2017/06/20/human-race-doomed-do-not-colonise-moon-mars-says-stephen-hawking/>;

J. Morrison, “Mars Mission,” The Australian, September 11, 2017, p. 10. They are silent about where they go once Mars is destroyed by the same forces of greed destroying this planet. But, I digress.

The chattering class are saying that a No vote will “break nation’s heart.” The Australian, September 12, 2017, p. 12. This has become a manic politically correct crusade by the new class, to flex their muscles and display their power after the defeat by Trump, which they still have not recovered from. Consequently, it is the moral duty of all nationalists and Christians to oppose the same sex marriage agenda, and deliver a solid No vote. Sure, same sex marriage is law in many countries, but as noted above, it is ringing in a multitude of problems, now that the real agenda has been exposed; the deconstruction of the notion of marriage. The idea that most of human history is wrong about the notion of marriage, but modern decadent, decaying society is right, is to my mind absurd. Same-sex marriage is no more a product of natural social evolution, than anything else given to us by the 1960s and cosmopolitanism. It will ultimately fail in the coming social chaos, when all will be lost. ***

THE END OF FREE SPEECH By Charles Taylor

In Europe, to protect the ethnics at the expense of native European populations, severe restrictions on free speech are imposed. While jihadists essentially are free to advocate what they desire, such as rape and genocide rhetoric, for Whites, even “racist” memes now can land them in jail on terrorism charges, along with having copies of a book freely purchasable on amazon.com, according to this article: <https://altright.com/2017/09/12/prisoners-of-conscience/>.

This shifts things to a new level, since the same things done by Left groups does not merit punishment. Hell, even rapes get off with a warning if you belong to the right ethno-racial group:

<http://www.mirror.co.uk/news/uk-news/rapists-paedophiles-given-police-cautions-7186401>

In Sweden the police cannot even cope with the large number of rapes since migrants came:

<http://www.zerohedge.com/news/2017-09-12/swedish-police-cannot-cope-huge-numbers-rapes-migrants-arrived>

I could go on for pages, but, does anybody see an inconsistency here? Anyone? Please!

AN APPLE A DAY, KEEPS THE PROSTATE AWAY By Brian Simpson

I have a strange sense of déjà vu (/, derʒɑ: 'vu:/; French pronunciation: [deʒɑ vy] from French, literally ‘already seen’), when writing this; have I done it before, or did I think that I did it before? Anyway, not to worry, because no one else will.

Most of us men here are at that time of life when the prostate causes problems, even on a good day. To put it politely, it is like having a roof with a box gutter; you know at some point it will leak, and your house will be subjected to water damage. Even your prized comic book collection may get ruined, if things turn really bad. It can bury you, which is like the house collapsing, totally.

However, researchers have found that a combination of micro-nutrients, can knock down many prostate cancers, and may even help with benign prostatic hyperplasia:

“High-throughput screening of a natural compound library was performed to identify the most efficacious combinatorial treatment on prostate cancer. Ursolic acid, curcumin and resveratrol were selected for further analyses and administered in vivo via the diet, either alone or in combination, in a mouse allograft model of prostate cancer. All possible combinations of these natural compounds produced synergistic effects on tumor size and weight, as predicted in the screens. A subsequent untargeted metabolomics and metabolic flux analysis using isotopically labeled glutamine indicated that the compound combinations modulated glutamine metabolism. In addition, ASCT2 levels and

Then we have old Donald Trump, supposedly the defender of American, caving in to the politically correct elite who seek to bury his presidency, signing a Republican/Democrat resolution “condemning” so-called “hatred”: <http://www.breitbart.com/big-government/2017/09/13/kassam-the-swamp-just-bounced-trump-into-a-european-style-assault-on-free-speech/>.

Trump himself is called a “white supremacist” by the deranged new class, so the resolution may bite him on the bum. As well, while the resolution condemns Alt Right violence, it is silent on violence by terrorist groups such as antifa:

<http://www.independent.co.uk/news/world/americas/antifa-domestic-terrorists-us-security-agencies-homeland-security-fbi-a7927881.html>

Day by day, Trump is revealed as a pathetic figure, who has no intention of fulfilling his electoral promises.

The anger of the deplorables will continue to grow, as the vicious system continues its program of genocide.

Maybe the good guys cannot win, but be aware, that people may get to the point that winning no longer matters, that the globalists losing, may be more important. ***

STAT3, mTORC1 and AMPK activity were modulated to a greater extent by the combinations compared to the individual compounds. Overall, this approach can be useful for identifying synergistic combinations of natural compounds for chemopreventive and therapeutic interventions.”

“Combinatorial treatment with natural compounds in prostate cancer inhibits prostate tumor growth and leads to key modulations of cancer cell metabolism,” A. Lodi (et al.), Precision Oncology, 1, Article number 18 (2017).

The media reports make it sound like all that is needed is to eat apples (ursolic acid), grapes (resveratrol) and curry (curcumin), but when you research this a bit more, you will find that the doses may be too small, and curcumin has a low absorption rate.

There are tablet forms of all of these nutrients available, that could be taken with the foods, with many more bioavailable forms of curcumin, and resveratrol equivalent to hundred of glasses of red wine. But, I guess, I would probably rather drink hundreds of glasses of red wine, at least numbing the problems of male ageing. ***

BOOK REVIEW: “Dissident Dispatches” by Andrew Fraser

Andrew Fraser was for most of his career a professor of law at Macquarie University in Sydney. He was catapulted to prominence in July, 2005, by a letter to a local newspaper warning against the importation of Sudanese refugees into Australia: “Experience everywhere in the world shows us that an expanding black population is a sure-fire recipe for increases in crime, violence and other social problems.

The controversy surrounding the letter resulted in his departure from Macquarie.

In 2011, he published The WASP Question, a book which examines the failure of Anglo-Saxons around the world—the “invisible race”—to maintain a conscious ethnic identity and defend their collective interests: “The defining characteristic of WASPs [he wrote] is that they are much less ethnocentric than other peoples; indeed, for all practical purposes Anglo-Saxon Protestants appear to be all but completely bereft of in-group solidarity. They are therefore open to exploitation by free-riders from other, more ethnocentric, groups”. In the course of studying Anglo-Saxon origins, he came to appreciate the role played by the Christian Church in transforming a bunch of squabbling Germanic tribes into the English nation. It would be impossible to guess from looking at contemporary Christianity that the church could ever have served such a function. The privatization of worship since the Enlightenment has been so successful a revolution that many Christians are unaware of it, imagining it simply the nature of their faith to be a private affair.

Nothing could be farther from the truth.

Medieval Christianity “was a way of life, a communion, and a faith practiced in public and private by all manner of men and women,” as Fraser points out. The Bible did not merely “serve individual believers as witness to the word and work of God,” but also “provided the sacred charter” of the church. But if the Christian Church presided over the formation of the English nation, might the retreat of Christianity into the private realm have contributed to the downfall of proud Anglo-Saxon nationhood within the last several decades?

With such questions in mind, Fraser, already of an age to retire, made the unusual decision to enrol as an undergraduate at a nearby divinity school. The school turned out to be a “hotbed of multiculturalist ideology,” and at one point he was suspended for an entire year due to complaints of his “intolerance” from students and faculty members. But he persisted, and in 2015 was awarded a Bachelor of Theology degree.

Dissident Dispatches is the record of his experiences as a student. The book includes papers written for course credit (with his lecturer’s comments), accounts of his skirmishes with the politically correct, and subsequent personal reflections on both.
