THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: Mike Adams (naturalnews.com) has given an advanced announcement that he is set to publish a detailed acoustic analysis of the Las Vegas shooting false flag, which identifies the likely spots where a second shooter was positioned:

<https://www.naturalnews.com/2017-10-08-bombshell-health-ranger-identifies-distance-of-second-shooter-at-las-vegas-massacre-not-mandalay-bay.html>

This material is not yet available, so stay tuned, we will bring you a summary. But, a second, or more shooter(s) puts this massacre in the realms of all-out conspiracy. Who planned this?

There are growing suggestions that Paddock's substantial overseas travel and financial transactions indicates a terrorist connection: <https://pamelageller.com/2017/10/las-vegas-shooter-terror-financing.html/>

ISIS continues to claim him as one of their own:

THE POVERTY OF AUSTRALIAN CONSERVATIVE JOURNALISM By Peter Ewer

The differences in coverage of the Las Vegas shooting between Australian and American “conservative” journalists is stark. For example, Ann Coulter, who has published numerous best-selling books, said this:

<https://www.amren.com/commentary/2017/10/media-find-las-vegas-shooters-motive-hes-white/>

“If the media are going to keep wailing about how vital a free press is, could they start reporting stuff?”

There's a remarkable number of dangling facts about Stephen Paddock's mass murder in Las Vegas, which the media have shown little inclination to investigate. It's almost as if they're worried that too much investigation will ruin it. For example:

- Who was the woman shouting, “YOU'RE ALL GOING TO DIE!” right before the concert?
- Is any reporter interested in finding out? Probably a random crazy lady, but that's not typical pre-concert behavior.
- Why is it taking so long to find out if anyone else went into Paddock's hotel room since he checked in last Thursday? I'm perfectly prepared to accept that he was the only one who entered that room, but can we see the surveillance video?

The sum-total of the information we know about Marilou Danley, the woman who's been living with Paddock for years is the following: She was out of the country at the time of the attack. She's not involved. Paddock had apparently assembled an enormous arsenal of weapons. Did she know about it? Did he tell her why? Had his behavior changed recently? Why wasn't he with her on her trip? Had they broken up? And why did Paddock recently wire $100,000 to the Philippines?

Within hours of the first indictments in the Duke lacrosse case*—later, all thrown out—the media was bristling with information about the players' parents, the homes they grew up in, the ritiness of their neighborhoods, and the tuition at their Catholic high schools. Doesn't any reporter want to ask Danley anything?”

<http://www.breitbart.com/video/2017/10/06/coulter-media-strangely-reluctant-pursue-specifics-vegas-shooter/>

In other words, what we see here is something lacking from Australian conservative journalism, at least in the mainstream press, good old fashion investigation and questioning, refusing to leave mysteries unsolved.

A good journalist should be more like Sherlock Holmes, than an academic writer. Obviously, MSM journalists everywhere are lacking in this quality.

What we find when looking at the mainstream media coverage by so-called conservative journalists in Australian papers, is a cucked view of the Las Vegas shooting compared to the remarks by Coulter quoted above. The comments are superficial and amount to little more than gun banning propaganda.

Why should anyone have a gun? Why do civilians need guns? That begs the question about why anyone, including the Deep State needs a gun. The gun is a weapon which channels force, so the State has them for social control. But, what if the State goes evil? Wouldn't the politically correct need guns to fight against the evil racists? How, hypothetically, would the soft and flabby cucks in the media ultimately defend their multiracial migration creation from such evil, unless, as a final measure, force could be used?

So, the American justification in terms of preservation of liberty, has a politically correct analogue.

What then about the claim that no-one with a knife could have produced the damage done by Steven Paddock with gun fire, that guns are intrinsically more destructive than other possible weapons, including vehicles?

The problem here is that the assumption is simply false. Paddock had explosives too, and explosives are many times more deadly than guns.

THE BIOHISTORY OF THE DECLINE AND FALL OF THE WEST By Brian Simpson

In my big bag of books and material I have a copy of Jim Penman's The Hungary Ape: Biology and the Fall of Civilisations (The Author, 1992). Although Jim has a PhD in history, he is well known for his very successful businesses such as Jim's Mowing and a multitude of other Jim's businesses.

The 1992 book, produced outside of the academy showed a fine critical mind at work. He predicted a complete collapse of Western civilisation and its culture, such as science and technology, and a swamping of the West by the Third World. The decline was due to a kind of decline in biochemical vigour, and by personality and attitude characteristics, such as oral restraint, which are distinguishing features of high level cultures. The collapse of restraint will lead to the collapse of the West.

In his latest book, Biohistory:

Decline and Fall of the West:

<https://www.biohistory.org>
<https://www.amazon.com/Biohistory-Decline-Fall-Jim-Penman/dp/1443871303>

the earlier book is taken much further, this time incorporating epigenetics into his analysis. Epigenetics studies how the environment interacts with genetics, switching genes on and Explosives are even more regulated than guns, yet such things are obtained illegally, and can be chemically constructed. Just ask the old IRA, and ISIS jihadists.

Of course, the real agenda behind all of the media shock! horror! is to advance an argument for further gun control in Australia. This has already happened with the safe and security arrangements, but Malcolm Turnbull seems to be moving quickly to further gun control, not letting the momentum of the Las Vegas tragedy go to waste:

<http://www.afr.com/news/malcolm-turnbull-hints-at-gun-law-reform-following-las-vegas-shooting-20171002-gyt2s7>

The aim seems to be to move on lever action shotguns, which the gun banners have had in their sights for some time. There is no real difference between almost all of the Australian chattering class and someone like Michael Moore on this issue:

<http://www.newsweek.com/>

change-constitution-and-restrict-gun-rights-says-michael-moore-678634

* The Duke lacrosse case was a 2006 criminal case in which three members of the Duke University men's lacrosse team were falsely accused of rape. The case evoked varied responses from the media, faculty groups, students, the community, and others. The case's resolution sparked public discussion of racism, media bias, and due process on campuses, and ultimately led to the resignation and disbarment of the lead prosecutor, Durham County District Attorney Mike Nifong. ***

off, and thus having an impact upon heredity. In this book Jim argues that the changes in temperament, left largely unexplained in his previous treatise, are accounted for by epigenetics. Our fate thus seems to be set by our biology.

And, what a fate awaits the West! Penman predicts that through the loss of vigour in the West, seen in the decline of manhood, and crashing birth-rates, the replacement of the West by Islam within a century.

But, here he is surely optimistic since that process of ethno-cultural replacement is well underway, with the replacement of the German population by an Islamic one: <https://www.gatestoneinstitute.org/11100/germany-islamic-sunset> with young migrant men having what one psychiatrist called a "crazy potential for aggression":

<http://www.breitbart.com/london/2017/10/03/psychiatrist-time-bomb-germany-migrants/> and likewise for Sweden:

<http://www.breitbart.com/london/2017/10/07/swedish-lawyer-claims-majority-rape-suspects-cases-migrants/>

In America, chain migration from illegal migrants threatens to end the common language of the country, English, and then, America as we know it:

<http://www.breitbart.com/big-government/2017/10/06/daca-amnesty-chain-migration-threatens-english-as-primary-u-s-language/>

This is a civilisation committing suicide, in a wrist-slashing, skin-tearing frenzy; for what and for who? ***

STOP ACCUSING THE QUEEN. IT'S ABOUT TIME YOU BLAMED WHITLAM

by Philip Benwell, National Chair, Australian Monarchist League

The comment “‘Volcanic’: Evidence of Queen’s involvement in the 1975 dismissal uncovered” (SMH 16/10/17) is demonstrably untrue and salacious to say the least. The supposedly extraordinary revelation that “representatives of the British government flew to Australia in the lead-up to the 1975 dismissal of the Whitlam government” should actually come as no surprise to any person with a modicum of intelligence. Undoubtedly representatives of the US government and other nations also flew to Australia to find out what was happening.

Actually, it may come as a surprise to journalists but the British government has nothing to do with the Queen as Queen of Australia. As such she is advised only by her Australian ministers.

The fact is, following the iniquitous loans scandal and the ensuing blocking of supply by the Senate, shockwaves reverberated through the Western world because Australia, for the first time as a nation, was facing a severe political crisis with potentially disastrous effects on its hitherto untarnished economic and monetary stability. We should not forget that this was all caused by the Whitlam government in approving indirect and somewhat dubious methods to finance its ‘buy back the farm’ policy and then to fund its own indebtedness due to the blockage of supply which again was due to the government’s attempts to bypass normal funding protocols.

Furthermore, it is obvious that the Queen’s officials would have been communicating with Government House to keep abreast of the crisis. After all, is not the Queen Australia’s sovereign head of state? Her officials were duty-bound to be informed. To do otherwise would be a dereliction of the Queen’s responsibilities.

Journalists should cease this sensationalistic commentary and keep to the facts. The root of the problem was the Whitlam government breaching normal protocols. The reaction of the Senate in blocking supply was just that, a reaction to the misconduct of the government.

The Governor-General, Sir John Kerr, used the powers of the Constitution (Para 64), not the reserve powers of the Queen or the Crown, to resolve the crisis. He merely sent the matter to the people to decide and the people overwhelmingly rejected the Whitlam government along with its misdoings. That should be an end to the matter.

By the way, there was no constitutional crisis. It was a political crisis resolved by a double dissolution.

THE SUBSIDY THAT FLOWS WHATEVER THE WEATHER - by Eric Worrall

<https://wattsupwiththat.com/author/eworrall1/>

Power prices in the Australian Renewable Energy Paradise of South Australia have driven 102,000 South Australians to beg for help from food charities, according to a major South Australian Newspaper.

More than 102,000 South Australians seeking food donations, forced to skip meals to pay bills by Liz Walsh, Sheradyn Holderhead, The Advertiser October 15, 2017 11:31pm

MORE than 102,000 South Australians seek help from food charity Foodbank every month, as parents skip meals for days on end so children can eat and utility bills can be paid, astonishing figures show.

About one quarter — or 26,877 — of those seeking food assistance are children.

The alarming figures have been released today in Foodbank’s 2017 Hunger Report, which also shows that demand from South Australians needing food has increased 21 per cent over the past 12 months, up from 84,847 last year and 56,000 the year before.

Foodbank SA chief executive Greg Pattinson said the high number of those needing assistance was staggering, but not surprising, because more and more SA families were being forced to make the heartbreaking decision to either “heat or eat”.

“We’ve heard it from so many people; the power bills come in and they have to decide: ‘Do we feed the kids today or do we not?’” he said

...“One lady told me that she earned $1000 a month and had just received an electricity bill and simply couldn’t afford to eat for this month — and that’s only 10km south of the CBD.

“Anecdotally, we regularly see that kids are sent off to school and they are OK, but mum and dad don’t eat ... one woman told me that she had only Vegemite sandwiches for the week.”

The full Foodbank report is available here: <https://www.foodbank.org.au/wp-content/uploads/2016/05/Foodbank-Hunger-Report-2016.pdf>

This Aussie energy price madness is very quickly becoming a major political issue. Pauline Hanson, the ...leader of the One Nation Party, has refused to endorse any national policy which leads to higher energy bills.

ALOR National Seminar 2017 —WE ARE FOR FREEDOM... WE ARE FOR FREEDOM

More than 50 people met in Adelaide for the national seminar. It was a special time of fellowship with like-minded folk. The opportunity to share was pleasant and enjoyed by all. Travellers came from near and far to share their experiences and listen to our guest speakers.

Dr Alan Moran—Why is our electricity so expensive?

Dr Moran was able to show our climate is not significantly changing. Using empirical and peer reviewed data, he showed that the IPCC climate models had consistently predicted exaggerated levels of temperature warming, but there was in fact, no appreciable change over the last 20 years, and equally 'well with the variability' of the last millennium. Nor was there an increase in hurricane intensity over the last 96 years, being the period of records. Nor was there a reduction of rainfall in South Australia over the last 115 years.

Dr Moran also presented evidence of exorbitant increase in costs of electricity, specifically caused by renewable energy subsidies and the closing of baseload coal-fired power stations. Dr Moran also provided evidence that Australian energy prices have shifted from being virtually the lowest in the world, to now, comparable with the most expensive in the world.

Don Auchterlonie—Agriculture - Which way forward?

Don presented statistics from the Cancer Council of the significant % increase into newly diagnosed cases of cancer. Don drew our attention to Dr Christine Jones and her work from the website amazingcarbon.com. Dr. Jones has discovered the way carbon can "flow" into the soil by a partnership between plant roots and the soil that will receive that carbon. Somewhere between 85 to 90 percent of the nutrients plants required for healthy growth are acquired via carbon exchange, that is, where plant root exudates (oozing) provide energy to microbes in order to obtain minerals and trace elements otherwise unavailable.

Peter Davis—Celebrating 100 years of the East-West Railway—1912-1917

Peter spoke of the period of 11 years in which our nation broke free from the shackles of the privately owned and controlled financial banking system. How on the Nullarbor plain, at the remote location of Ooldea, roughly 620 miles east of Kalgoorlie and 430 miles west of Port Augusta, the two construction ends of the railway line came together, being completed on 17 October 1917.

This marvellous feat of construction, being financed by the 'People's Bank', with no national debt. Most important to remember at the time our nation was also suffering a shocking drought and the First World War had already commenced.

The People's Bank was financing major projects for the nation, carrying drought stricken farmers, helping first home owners, all from an initial investment of just £24,000. The Commonwealth Bank of Australia was initially established under the watchful eye of MHR King O'Malley and Andrew Fisher's Labour (Labor) government. The Transcontinental railway line stands as irrefutable proof of what our nation and great-grandfathers delivered... and how it was financed.

The CBA founding governor, Sir Denison Miller, served and delivered for 10 years, debt free development and prosperity for the nation.

The Commonwealth Series booklets by D.J.Amos record the great works performed by this fledgling nation Australia with the favourable assistance of the 'People's Bank'. Peter also presented the historical records of debt, fiat money and the emasculation of our sovereignty by treacherous governments, both Conservative and Labour (Labor).

Peter called for the restoration of the "People's Bank" as a fitting tribute to Sir Denison Miller, those railway workers of 100 years ago, and our children, to regain our forgotten sovereignty and title "the Lucky Country".

Peter concluded referring to his letter to Sen. Sam Dastyari to campaign for Australia Post be granted a banking license with the intention of fully restoring the function of the 'People's Bank'. The seminar continued that evening with the 71st New Times Dinner incorporating the Frank Bawden Memorial Dinner.

The Sunday 'Actionist Conference' began with a Divine Service themed around "faith without works is death". Four short papers were given around the Social Dynamics course. DVDs of the seminar will be available in the New Year. - AJL ***
