Thought For The Week: extract The Social Crediter "Common Sense and The Vote" by Hewlett Edwards

For ten years nothing could stand against the armies of Napoleon. In 1808 the Duke of Wellington (then General Wellesley) suggested the diversion of a minor expeditionary force, to Spain, "This simple expedient, born in May, 1808, somewhere between the Irish Office and his house in Harley Street ... raised on the smooth surface of the Empire the 'Spanish Ulcer' which ultimately drained its strength.": The Duke's fancy - his light horse - eventually broke the heavy brigade of Napoleon Bonaparte.

THIS IS WHAT COMMUNISM LOOKS LIKE By Arnis Luks

In my research for this week, I saw many instances of state governments significantly increasing taxes against the property owner. The purpose is to initiate a compounding tax assault to make property ownership eventually a thing of the past. This policy is in accordance with the Great Reset, Sustainable Development and Agenda 2030 – to own nothing and be happy.

Last financial year, existing property owners (of average suburban properties under certain categories), were warned of coming tax increases from several hundred to multiple thousand dollars per annum for land tax. This is quite significant for owners on fixed incomes. In order to service this new land tax, property owners have had to considerably tighten their belts, or find an additional source of income, or both. Like the game of musical chairs, achieving a sufficiency from an insufficiency becomes increasingly precarious.

Downsizing or moving further out attracts other windfall taxes of GST, sales tax and stamp duties.

To build further on to this concentrated tax assault against the homeowner, are increased taxes towards property developers and now reports of mental health levies and increased payroll taxes.

This compounding tax assault against the property owner and small businessman is intended to cause a financial collapse of the middle class. After all, independent and self-reliant people cannot be readily communised.

This multi-fronted tax assault is in concert with all major political parties across all states. To compound the situation further, as inflation is eroding spending power and increasing the numerical value of property, taxes levied will not be indexed against inflation. If they don't get enough from you today, they will certainly get more from you tomorrow. But rest assured they will eventually get it from you. Young people have little prospect of achieving property ownership.

There is always an excuse for more government control over the population.

In my weekly comments I emphasise the treachery of the supposedly conservative Liberal/National coalition, but don't think I have any more time for Labor. Labor gave up any fidelity towards the traditional working man when they signed onto the Socialist International since 1982. This ended any loyalty towards the common man or the unionist. Since then, they have chosen Internationalism over the individual every time - collectivism.

A glance at the A.L.P's Platform and Rules - updated in 1982 - included:

- Commitment to an Australian republic.
- Commitment to changing the Australian flag.
- Commitment to the international socialist movement as represented by the Socialist International
- Commitment to emasculating the Senate.
- Commitment to reducing any independent power of action by the Governor-General.
- Commitment to the introduction of a Bill of Rights, based on the U.N. model.
- Commitment to regionalisation in Australia with the amalgamation of Local Authorities.
- Commitment to the New International Economic Order. -- Melbourne 'Age' February 1983

Top-end stamp duty rise to hit more buyers with dozens of suburbs to join $2m median club

<https://www.theage.com.au/politics/victoria/top-end-stamp-duty-rise-to-hit-more-buyers-with-dozens-of-suburbs-to-join-2m-median-club-20210519-p57t94.html>

Victorian Treasurer Tim Pallas' office confirmed on Wednesday the thresholds would be fixed and not adjusted annually for inflation...A purchaser of a $2.2 million property after June 30 will pay about $123,000...The land tax rises...are expected to bring an extra $1.5 billion into the state's coffers in the next four years.

The Scapegoat - René Girard

What may appear as an unrelated issue, is the work of René Girard with "The Scapegoat". Looking at the price of property and the enormous stamp duty taxes now payable, one cannot help but think that: 'that (rich) person can afford it'. That person may not be rich at all but may have frugally squirrelled away their life savings over generations to achieve their position. We do not know.

Counter to this runs the thought of that person who receives some benefit from taxes as not deserving. What have they done to deserve this windfall? - get a job! Both thoughts imply some form of guilt associated with their predicament. If they were to be suitably punished, this will reduce my pain and suffering.

Ancient peoples routinely sacrificed to appease the gods, with some form of guilt attributed upon the sacrificial victim. The old Testament records many instances of animal sacrifice to take away sin. The new Testament records the sacrifice of the innocent - Christ. The guilty murderer and insurrectionist Barabbas was not sacrificed, but escaped punishment. A different approach. God the Son sacrificed Himself, once and for all time, doing the will of God the Father.

This scapegoat mechanism was defeated on the cross at Calvary. Our modern-civilisational-cult is re-instituting the sacrifice with exorbitant taxation to destroy home ownership, small business, and also pronounces death by abortion till full term, and euthanasia for the elderly. It is a sacrificial-death-cult no matter which way you look at it. Are we better off individually and as a people by endorsing these pagan sacrifices? I don't think so.

Another perspective to consider is collective guilt. Those who can afford a property of that dollar-amount deserve to be taxed more. We don't know whether it is a single individual purchasing the property, or an extended family of grand-parents, parents and children. No matter which way we may look at this situation, the question of the individual concerned is given quite a poor showing.

The woke agenda is similar in attributing collective guilt towards the group - males, Christians, homophobes, whites, kulaks. The list goes on.

When a person is charged with a crime, they are identified as a matter of course within the court, as 'the' individual concerned. Proof of identity is critical for the court to proceed with the accused having a Christian name and a Family name. Only that individual can be considered as to guilt or innocence of a particular charge. This concept of administering a just law has taken millennia to develop. We are tearing it up in one generation because of fear of Covid, asking for security from the state while giving up many ancient freedoms.

The presumption of innocence is another development of thinking over many centuries. Who made us judge, jury, and executioner? The MSM would have us do this, as we are more easily manipulated in a crowd to come to their way of thinking. They have a team of spin doctors, psychologists and lawyers guiding them and us through this maize of human frailty with no time to think clearly.

Guilty goes the 'baying crowd' towards the Christ - crucify Him. Crucify the innocent so we no longer must look deeply within ourselves. This will appease the gods and hold us over a little longer until it is our time to be held to account. More taxes goes the baying crowds, towards all those who purchase properties above a given value. Death to the unborn or the elderly the same. The crowd and the scapegoat go together.

The crowd has no reasoning mind, only instinct - basic, primitive, even primordial. Enough time to reason places a different thought into our consciousness: 'only to Caesar what belongs to Caesar, and unto God what belongs to God', and also 'As you would do to the least of these, so you do it unto Me'.

The Christ always spoke to the individual to look internally and then externally towards his brother, sister and then neighbours. Caesar has overstepped their legitimacy, and into the realm of man's freedom to worship God. How can I or anyone else find enough time to do the things that belong to God if I am so busy servicing indebtedness towards Caesar? The masters of Caesar are the controllers of debt, the money power. Yet our Constitutions specifically attributes the authority to control our own financial system: federally to our Federal Government, and at the state level to our state governments. No greater creative opportunity has been given to government to do good for their population, than this ability to ensure prosperity. This great human drama we live in, is of eternal significance. We choose the good - God, or we choose wrong. We are our brother's keeper.

Churches 'forced' into euthanasia

<https://www.theaustralian.com.au/nation/church-forced-into-euthanasia/news-story/3f85419f2144f16f5ea1806c063cb892>

Every soul has their unique part to play in this life.

When we see governments across state boundaries acting in unison to bring about euthanasia laws, it is clear the value of every human soul is deliberately degraded by this ‘policy of their philosophy’. Queensland is the fifth state after Victoria, Western Australia, Tasmania and South Australia to enact or introduce euthanasia for terminally ill people. Likewise abortion degrades the soul of the not yet born to something of expediency.

In contrast, Christianity places the human soul as of primary importance, the justification for all institutions and government itself being one of service towards that individual, the least of these – the Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath. This cleavage of opposing philosophies cannot be resolved through the ballot box with a majority vote. They, the political parties pursuing their policy agendas, must be resisted, and overcome if we are to call ourselves Christian - followers and disciples of Father, Son and Holy Spirit - God.

The political parties have no soul and philosophically they are a collective pagan like the baying crowd. Any implied directional noise appearing to come from them is because they are on an election footing. It will go back to ‘as was’ immediately after the results come in.

This is what communism looks like, especially since state police have now been accorded the opportunity to carry machine guns. From no guns, to small guns, to high powered magnums, to machine guns in the space of 25 years. Who are the ones not to be trusted, especially since Liberal PM John Howard, after trained assassins' killing spree at Port Arthur 25 years ago, has removed the right of reasonable self-defence away from the citizenry?

Liberals for the past 50 years have been actively working in tandem with Labor to bring about the communising of Australia. China spends as much on internal security as external security as we now do with our emerging copy of the Chinese surveillance state - cameras, medical passports and monitoring everywhere, with high powered weaponry to enforce compliance.

Stazzi (secret police) do not receive the woke agenda, only the general population. They need all their manliness to control the ‘internal’ enemies of the state. Stalin used this same tactic against the kulak peasants, finally imposing liquidation of some 20 millions.

Seed Monopolies

In further attacks against the citizenry, all governments are opening the gate for seed monopolists to corner the market with GM seed. Once contaminated, a property will find it increasingly difficult to save their own seed, as will also occur via pollen drift to their neighbours.

NSW to lift ban on use of GM crops from July

<https://www.graincentral.com/news/nsw-to-lift-its-ban-on-use-of-gm-crops-from-july/>

... Gene Ethics executive director Bob Phelps:

“What the Minister announced... only sacrifices the State Government’s discretion to say yes or no to the commercial growing of individual GM crops that the OGTR (Office of the Gene Technology Regulator) may approve for release.

By relinquishing the state’s reserve powers to say ‘no’ to a GM crop on marketing grounds, Minister Marshall delivers much more control to Canberra.

The Morrison Government is implementing the Conran Report’s recommendations, to dismantle regulations and centralise federal power.

They have ended the Council of Australian Governments power-sharing arrangements, with ministerial forums on food, agrichemicals, GM and a host of other policy areas being disbanded...The Minister’s promises to GM crop farmers of billions of dollars of potential profit is a complete furphy.

The discount last week for GM canola throughout NSW regions was $40/tonne compared with the non-GM varieties.”

Farmers also pay more for GM crop seed, segregation and transport, affecting profits. Under seed contracts, they also bear all legal liability for any GM contamination, though seed companies permanently retain GM seed ownership.

GM crops yield no more than the best conventional varieties.”

The proposed WA Voting reform will consolidate the major parties' Hold on Power.

WA Voting Reforms Could See Regional Australia Lose Representation

https://www.theepochtimes.com/wa-voting-reforms-could-see-regional-australia-lose-representation_3803129.html

Despite Premier McGowan's expressed support for "enhanced regional representation in Parliament," the restructure will serve to achieve the exact opposite, says head of law at Sheridan Institute and former law reform commissioner Augusto Zimmermann.

"The plans to reform WA's Upper House voting system will result in considerably less regional representation," Zimmermann told The Epoch Times.

"The Premier objectively lied to the public during his election campaign," he said. "This sort of duplicitous behaviour is something that you would only expect from a dishonest politician."

The move to establish a Vaccination Passport is brewing among politicians and as we have written before, it will become a Licence to Live once it becomes essential for travel, banking, supermarkets, fuel stations, sport and social events etc. We have the right to choose our own method to attain good health to avoid disease and for some this will not include vaccination. If the passport is established it will change the present non-compulsory vaccination, to a compulsory status.

Strategy and Tactics

Napoleon was finally defeated by the Light Brigade, no fanfare, just guerilla tactics. Small, independent, continuously-active-groups are far more effective than a large demonstration in the city. Targeting marginal electorates with limited resources is also more effective. Informing the electorate of their politicians treachery is a civic duty, essentially the militia against unconstitutionality. Regular pamphleteering, attendance and participation at civic meetings are a minimum to ensure a sensible political voice is heard. There are 151 federal divisions, an average of 111,500 voters per division, who still cannot control their representative. I think not. It is just mesmerising sorcery over the people.
