THE WAR TO END ALL WARS By Louis Cook

November 11th, Remembrance Day, was once known as Armistice Day, to commemorate the finish of hostilities at the close of fighting on the 11th November 1918—the War presented as ‘the War to end all Wars’—but that was only the start of the many physical wars since that time.

An ‘ideological war’ has raged constantly since 1918 with intermittent outbreaks of fighting at other times. For those who don’t understand politics, it is a ‘battle for men’s’ minds. How men think, and particularly how people vote—it is a policy of ‘divide and conquer’ played at its best in the Parliaments with adversarial politics designed to confuse the masses. The ‘ideological war’ is carried on in places of learning, the main stream media, the Parliaments, and other places of supposedly representative government, without the blessing of ordinary Australians. There is little to distinguish the difference between the combatants—try Labor, Liberal, Greens, and Nationals—they all look the same!

The ultimate goal is to impose a centralized ‘one world government’ on ALL the peoples of the world and we are seeing it being played out at COP 26 in Glasgow. The participants will talk and argue, not appearing to make much progress in their deliberations BUT another ‘small step’ will be taken on the road to a world dictatorship. Basically it is a fight for Power, The Power of the State over the Individual.

The omnipotent Power of the State is wielded through an irresponsible, unchallengeable bureaucracy. We see it manifest in places like Communist China, and to a lesser extent in Socialist governments worldwide—they ALL practise Socialism to some extent to reach the stage of the ‘SUPER CAPITALISM’ apparent in the People’s Republic of China. It is being well played out in Victoria right now.

Dear Reader, How will you vote at the next election? Will you continue to vote for more of the same or will YOU decide YOU have had enough of this morally objectionable behaviour?

SOLIDARITY - ATROPHYING STRUCTURE By Arnis Luks

Government blackmail advocating mRNA jabs continues to increase with no relief in sight. All Governments are now owned and controlled by big Pharma, MSM being just another branch of the same international corporate mechanism, but in their case fulfilling both propaganda and censorship roles to stifle any alternative opinions.

Alternative news reports are showing massive physical harm being done by the mRNA injections - 30/35 intensive care cases being mRNA jab related in our nearest intensive care department of our major hospital. Myocarditis leads on to severe weakening of the heart and sudden death. Increasing reports of this occurring amongst our young people continue to surface - a heart transplant the only option for those injured by the jab.

The use of the drug thalidomide in the 1950s and early 1960s resulted in a range of disabilities inflicted on our unborn babies. Pharma of that day was aware of possible side effects but chose to continue marketing in spite of those suspicions. Mounting reports of adverse events from mRNA build. Pharma-MSM remain aware but silent.

The collapse of confidence in our cultural institutions and associations grows more and more each day. Government decisions are adversely affecting every family. The chaos created is deliberate. Chaos or crisis is a strategy of war leading onto opportunity. This is the purpose, to breakdown confidence in all our institutions.

The first duty of any soldier is to stay alive. Vital health information will continue to be included within each issue of OnTarget.

Nurses Association

We recently watched a video of an Adelaide nurse demonstrating against the mandated mRNA jab. She asks for freedom of choice towards mRNA jabs which is entirely correct. She mentions of local Intensive Care, of the staggering numbers of adverse events to the mRNA jabs. Big Pharma, MSM and our government are all involved in this criminal conspiracy and coverup. Government is completely out of order and must be held firmly accountable for this belligerent medical tyranny. This is an act of genocide against our own people.

Taking Union Fees Without Accountability

The nurses' union appears conspicuously silent, while thousands of member-jobs are lost, and bodily autonomy (the most basic freedom of all), is not being defended with every ounce of their being. This tactic (of not supporting their members to ensure isolation from any industrial support) is quite deliberate. While inexperienced spokespersons rise to fill the void, union officials remain seated on their hands in the bleachers, continuing to collect wages as their members lose theirs. The Courts have not provided any Constitutional relief and therefore are as much part of the problem as is government, unions and MSM (by censorship); all doing the work of big Pharma and the money-power.

CH Douglas insisted that within any social institution there must remain the opportunity to atrophy a structure if it no longer serves its purpose. This is so with the nurses' union being no longer fit for purpose. Should we do the same with government, MSM and the courts? Like King John at Runnymede, the institutions need to be preserved but the policy redirected towards an acceptable outcome - restoration of our ancient freedoms.

Organised for Corruption

Those great harlots of politics, the political parties, have been undoing Australia's freedoms since at least 1924 with the Bruce-Page government emasculating the Commonwealth Bank of Australia as the people's bank and turning it over to international forces - treachery from the highest levels of our government. This has continued by successive federal governments since, with the sale of the last tranche of CBA shares done under Paul Keating (Labor) and John Howard (Liberal). Political parties have all run their race. They do not represent the people, but only vested interests, who are prepared to pay them accordingly. Their structure is such that compliance to party-orders is of greater value than personal integrity. Very few individual members achieve any basis of representation for their electoral public.

I would dare to say that any vote for a political party candidate is not only a wasted vote, but ensures there never ever will be even a modicum of representation. This medical carnage has occurred while they have been on watch - even in opposition. The responsibility for this economic and political carnage rests at their feet and they have done nothing, while also collecting a very lucrative and unfettered income. What utter hypocrisy and humbug. Every one of them needs to be replaced at the soonest available opportunity. Who with you say? - the housewife, the nightman or the garbo would provide a better result than what we have. The only qualification necessary is candidates be honest, prepared to listen to those who pay their wages - the taxpayer - in preference to the lobbyist and corporate representatives; to pursue a policy for the benefit of their electorate in preference to any party loyalties to slush funds and bribes donations.

Lead Us Not Into Temptation

Vested interests appears to be the greatest temptation our politicians cannot overcome. Political lobbyists need to be thrown out of our parliament buildings and refused access to our politicians - similar to how local councillors are not permitted to be involved in, nor speak about, any issue before council meets. You see; 'they know' full well how to muzzle our representatives and also control them through their cheque books. We also have been asleep at the wheel of responsible and representative government.

Policy and Administration

There is a world of difference between 'Policy' - what you want to achieve - and 'Administration' - how to go about achieving that which you want to achieve. Nearly all political debates are around how to achieve the same outcome - Administration rather than Policy - that which you want to achieve. For instance, the nurses want freedom of choice over mRNA jabs and also income security. Without saying it, they relate, as we all do, to income security being provided by jobs. If there are insufficient jobs to go around then the question remains unanswered of income security. Some may desire work, but not all wish to pay the tedious price of attending work when they could more readily do other pursuits provided the financial means was made available. The means of achieving this income security is the reverse of taxation, the National Dividend - being able to buy what we are capable of producing in a debt free environment. A realistic policy towards greater freedoms becomes : making financially possible what is physically possible.

Age of Abundance

The money power are cornered and using everything at their disposal to misdirect people from understanding the obvious: the material abundance of this age. The massive loss of jobs (conditional on compelled mRNA jabs) is being felt in nearly every family. In this age of automation and material abundance, physical work for everyone is no longer necessary provided a source of income is available to purchase what is produced.

We can certainly feed ourselves, so a reliable source of income such as a National Dividend - a reverse of taxation would achieve this minimum purpose. Machines have removed the physical burden from man's shoulders. It is now a question of sufficient income across society to purchase what is produced by the machines and robots.

Governments have been "given" access to ample debt-funds for covid, but none for small business 'to remain viable', nor for debt redemption which would free all Australians from the usurer's grip unto death - mortgage. This financial strategy of compounding debt is to collapse the middle class and make all dependent on the government for income security - controlled by the money-power-world-government via irredeemable debt. Government is doing the work of their money-masters. Ample new credit is being released for this war against the people, but not for the release of debt for the people.

CH Douglas' proposal of the National Dividend was based on the cultural inheritance of technology that is a gift from posterity for today. The establishment of a National Credit Authority - above government - that would issue the Dividend (equally to all) as their unconditional and rightful cultural inheritance based on the productive capacity of the Nation measured against available spending through wages, salaries and dividends.

What difference does it make from where the money comes from as long as business can process debt?

All the difference in the world whether Australians shall breathe free air, or be as slaves under the jack-boot of the money-power. Governments are demonstrating that credit can and is being created out of nothing (in the form of debt to bankers), but could just as readily be created debt-free as one's inheritance - as was done previously by our own Sir Dennison Miller as the sole Commonwealth Bank of Australia Director from 1911-23.

What is Money?

Money is simply a claim on goods already produced. It can exist in many forms, and even in no physical form at all like electronic blips as it does today as bank credit - "debt". Provided the number-volume of debt-free money released into the community (plus wages, salaries and dividends) is balanced with the number-value of the goods already produced for market, prices can be liquidated at the point of sale. The farmer/producer's debt can be redeemed. If prices cannot be liquidated at the point of sale the farmer/producer must look elsewhere to market his products, hence the need for exports to liquidate prices. Australian economy only exists as somewhat viable due to the massive export revenue generated through our raw materials. Our real (primary) industry is non-existent due to previous governments' adherence to the Lima Agreement to hand all our primary industry over to supposedly third world nations such as China. This lack of financial purchasing power to liquidate Prices is the chronic sickness of our economic system and needs the remedy of an injection of additional debt-free funds to balance the ledger. Government is claiming the right to filch these funds and place conditions on there issue, instead of the funds being issued 'unconditionally' as a cultural inheritance. This additional money as economic-voting-power (filched by the government) makes every individual beholden to government for funds, when the economic-voting-power rightfully belongs to each individual. These funds of economic-voting-power are a claim against production already completed. Debt should be non-existent. Debt only exists as part of the usurers craft stealing people's inheritance. Government are in on this ruse and need to be called to order. This inheritance belongs to the people.

RBA Policy - Full Employment

The Reserve Bank of Australia's policy is one of full employment, when it should be one of ensuring the Australian public are able to purchase what the Australian public (with the aid of our abundant energy reserves, industrial technology and raw materials) are capable of producing - able to buy what we produce to balance our own ledger. Not what China wishes to sell, but what we ourselves are capable of producing. This same policy, once viewed by the rest of the world will de-mesmerise those also to see how obvious this issue is. Covid is the ruse to hide the material abundance of this age. The propaganda must continue to hold people's attention away from the obvious of a material abundance.

RBA Policy - Small Amount of Inflation

Inflation is the erosion of the value of the currency. Our RBA continues to promote this erosion. Home prices and now fuel (which will effect everything else) are running at astronomical rates. CH Douglas proposed a Compensated Price at the point of sale to ensure staples always sell at the same price no matter what variables are influencing the producer. The Compensated Price at the point of sale returns adequate compensation to the producer so that further efficiencies can be initiated to cause the final prices to fall further. But if other influences are putting pressure on prices, the compensation can be adjusted to hold the point of sale selling price as a constant. Australia used this mechanism during the war years for staples such as bread, milk and fuel. Britain experienced several hundreds years where the price of bread did not change, until in 1694 the private Bank of England was established and the national debt has never been repaid since - "The Bank hath benefit of interest on all monies which it creates out of nothing."

I found this chronological website about usury that may be of interest to a budding historian:

Climate Hoax

The Glasgow fiasco occurred with thousands of private jets and opulent lifestyles of the ultra rich, while others are struggling to keep the wolves from the door. China is now the largest producer of CO<sup>2</sup> for any country on the planet and also exempt from CO<sup>2</sup> assessment while we send our coal and iron-ore there for processing. The climate hoax policy is to redirect western technology and industry away from self reliant nations, so they cannot readily defend themselves against an aggressive China. Governments, as policy over the years, have deliberately caused energy prices to sky-rocket to force our industry offshore as supposedly unviable, which is rubbish. Given a fair opportunity, Australians can compete against the best in the world with our initiative, resourcefulness and ample reserves of minerals. We do not need other nations to produce our own goods, provided we have a loyal government, not one promoting the New World Order as World Government. Finance, Government, Political Parties, Unions and the MSM have all aligned to support this push for world government by the money-power and all remain silent - censorship of the entire policy-direction of the Climate Hoax. Supporting carbon sequestration through multi-crop-management as recommended by Christine Jones 'Amazing Carbon', would lift soil vitality and produce more nutritious food.

Planned Obsolescence

In 1694 the private Bank of England was established as was the national debt. All industry works towards covering total-costs reflected in final prices. Artificial obsolescence is designed into saleable products to increase sales - to improve the bottom line. With a sound financial policy, producing an item only once for a lifetime would be one of the greatest and legitimate reductions in waste and environmental pollution.

Industrial and military machinery is produced to achieve reliability and longevity; so it could also be for the man in the street with his home and his machines to last many lifetimes. Any claim by nurses for job security does not answer the pressing issue of 'insufficient spending power to purchase what we can produce'. A negative taxation called a National Dividend as proposed by CH Douglas would achieve financial sufficiency and also relief from environmental stewardship concerns in an age of plenty.

Free, Moral and Responsible

Governments deciding to manage your personal choices as regards health is an immoral abrogation of your personal responsibility to make those decisions. Asking for more and more government interference is what has put us into the pickle we now find ourselves in. The truth is: "The Sabbath was made for man and not man for the Sabbath" places your decisions in your hands, not in government, nor with the medical fraternity, as misguided as they are to inflict a toxin on the entire population so as to make never ending profit.

In USA the fightback has begun through the ballot box to regain their lost freedoms. Unfortunately they hold a confused perspective towards gold and honourable wealth. Wealth and power working together are what controls our governments, unions, industry and the MSM; all in unison. The undoing of this power base is provided through the 'National Dividend' which gives an economic-vote, an equal amount of 'financial/economic democracy' - a cultural inheritance as debt-free-credit to each individual, instead of the centralised money-power through irredeemable debt. People would again be independent, sufficient to do as they see fit, provided it does not inhibit their neighbour, in this age of plenty. Free, Moral and Responsible is an inseparable trilogy-of-virtues that cannot be abrogated or defied - Natural Law.

ACTION TARGET :

There is a massive amount of information about Covid 19 and how it has affected our freedoms, but unless the information is advanced to political action it will remain like some brand new gadget - it will be useless until the operator turns the switch to ON!

We needed to be educated but now the knowledge is out there it will remain ineffective unless we actually mobilise it into action. Actionists are encouraged to use the information as ammunition to be released upon the media and especially all politicians.

Covid is not a health matter - it is a control measure which requires a political solution

Covid is the tool being used to convince the population to accept control (we must be kept safe!!).

All readers are encouraged to write to their MP, politely stating they will only vote for a candidate willing to restore our freedom. Ask, "Will he/she be the one?" Better still, arrange a meeting with the MP.

Recommended to take only two or three along to the meeting and stick to the key issue.

Do not get into debate about Ivermectin or the lack of guaranteed vaccines etc - these are diversionary. Guiding notes are available from the League office about lost freedom arising from the discrimination between vaxxed and un-vaxxed citizens when in fact they both have equal capacity to contract or transmit Covid. There can be no justification in requiring police, teachers, shop assistants etc to be jabbed.
