THE WISDOM OF HINDSIGHT By Arnis Luks

With the South Australian election campaign being completely overshadowed by media (propaganda) of the events in the Ukraine, we make the following observations: No political entity is campaigning against the loss of our ancient rights and freedoms. This action would give the South Australian people a clear target to vote for; this includes the (now taken over by former Labor politicians) vacillating Family First Party. PHON makes some noise about limiting population growth through reduced immigration but little about the loss of our ancient rights and freedoms - freedom of (medical) choice; and lifting of all covid restrictions. This is a huge opportunity lost that could have harvested the Canadian/Australian/USA freedom convoys/movements and the Canberra march against the lockstep/lockdown and converted this discontent into an effective opportunity for political expression.

Surprisingly, with the massive media campaign by the Clive Palmer UAP, I have not see even one candidate for the South Australian upper house. UAP have an almost full set of nominations for the federal election, so the party machinery is certainly in place within South Australia. Why would they not field any candidates for an obvious walk-in to harness community discontent against covid mandates and lockstep/lockdown? Why no candidates (as voter-targets) when all the jab and covid legislation originates at the state level, unless they have another agenda?

Democracy for sale: what did Clive Palmer get for his $50m-plus? October 25, 2019

<https://www.smh.com.au/politics/federal/democracy-for-sale-what-did-clive-palmer-get-for-his-50m-plus-20191024-p533vv.html>

What has Palmer bought? He helped to prevent a Labor victory, (stopped-ed) a tax agenda that would cost him money and (stopped-ed) a climate change policy that would hurt his coal interests. The degree to which he helped can be disputed. The fact of the help cannot. It is too soon to calculate the return on his investment...

All political parties, to be somewhat democratic require a membership base which functions in the local arena, ratepayers, associations, councillors, mayors, the public service and private service movements, all feeding into the higher levels of party administration. UAP, having only a federal-level structural-mechanism do not promote community-initiated involvement, engagement and feedback within their structure. An un-answerable authority administered from the top down, structurally less democratic than the Liberal Party phenomena of federal intervention into their NSW Liberal affairs overriding the local branches.

Has there ever been a similar political structure in history? Yes, several. All totalitarian.

United Australia Party Achievements

<https://www.unitedaustraliaparty.org.au/our-achievements/>

The UAP achievements, if you read between the lines (with a filtering perspective of the direct benefit of self-interests similar to Ludwig von Mises Libertarianism), there emerges a pattern of significant opportunity for Clive and his business interests. This would be campaign-money-well-spent if UAP ends up holding the balance of power across either, or both houses of the federal parliament. Essentially a powerful king-maker dominating our federal parliament (UAP - owned and controlled by Clive). Extraordinary.

I was once elected to the position of workplace shop steward. The state organiser for the NUW union encouraged me to think of myself as an elected 'delegate' - once elected it would be up to me to exercise my own judgement in all matters and face the shop floor at the end of my tenure. I deliberately chose to perform as 'steward' rather than 'delegate', utilising referenda many times across my two years of service. This was then, a similar perspective as I see emerging now within UAP – delegation of power and unanswerable to the public except at election time. Even less democratic than existing political party structure if there can be such a thing.

This is not a malevolent statement but rather an observation based on investigation and conclusions being drawn from observable facts on the ground and lessons of history. I am happy to be shown differently and offer suitable airtime to a counter perspective from a UAP representatives. Rhetoric, or debate, is important if we are to consider differing views across a range of issues.

ABC's Q&A

The 13,000 killed in the Donbass region while the Ukraine administration sat on their hands will not be allowed to even be mentioned says Stan Grant during a Q&A live broadcast, who had a polite and courteous dissenter removed from the audience for wrong-think.

I believe that consideration of UAP structure is critical if we are not to go from the pan straight into the political fire. Are they different or just more of the same under a cleverly-managed (propaganda) advertising label? Why no 'state presence' when all the covid, jab, and now digital ID legislation originates at this governmental level? This is a glaring anomaly, and not an easy one to forget, nor disregard as an oversight on their part.

History Lesson

(German) IG Farben, (British) Imperial Chemical Industries, (USA) Standard Oil hydrogenation technology, and (USA) Westinghouse with USA and British Banks, were instrumental in bringing Germany from Versailles' abject poverty of the 1920s, onto a massive industrial-scale chemical and manufacturing war-footing, with Hitler as dictator across the 1920-30s. Part of that political exercise to dictatorship was to utilise a 'national instrument of propaganda' – "Völkischer Beobachter". The 1920s 'cash' purchase of this printed-news-service was (Reichsmark) RM 120,000; RM 56,500 being supplied by Dr. Gottfried Grandel and RM 60,000 being supplied by Col. Franz Ritter von Epp.

Read Antony Sutton's Wall Street and the Rise of Hitler:
https://alor.org/Storage/Library/PDF/Sutton_AC_Wall_Street_and_the_Rise_of_Hitler.pdf

This method of having a nation-wide propaganda machine or campaign (to bring into existence an entity at the national level) is often repeated. France Emmanuel Macron did this very thing with central bank backing and WEF world young leaders training. Macron came from nowhere without a party behind him. Just a massive propaganda machine financed by central banks. He was not a groundswell choice from the people and has been actively resisted ever since by yellow vests, even today.

Our governmental apparatus will be 'subjected to significant influence' by the $100 Million worth of clever advertising, on the basis that UAP makes more sense than the other lot. Their (UAP) propaganda certainly makes for attractive viewing until a deeper, considered-look is taken and the filter of 'self-interest' and 'inordinate influence' is shown to the light. One man holding the balance of power to govern an entire nation, and only answerable every 3 or 6 years. Clive as saviour, but more realistically potential king-maker of self-interest.

Lord Acton's quote Absolute Power Corrupts Absolutely was written in regard to the excessive power exercised by the Holy Father. No matter which institution is under consideration, power is best placed into many hands. We are heading towards dictatorship and Clive is not helping to stop this sea-change. He is simply saying 'give me this massive power and I will sort it'. One or two senators from each state is within the UAP propaganda-driven grasp. Pauline will be lucky to hold her own senate spot.

During my tour of WA several years ago I managed to make contact with several "One Nation WA" members. Their constitutional structure was such that One Nation, or even Pauline herself could not interfere locally. Their alignment with One Nation nationally was across core policies. With issues that affected WA, they were able to manage accordingly. How novel to have a structure that represented the wishes of its members and the community rather than the party hierarchy. That structure being restored, devolution of power, is another huge opportunity for One Nation or any other political party to consider, devolving-power back to the base, trusting the members to hold onto agreed core-values but operating autonomously on every other issue to best serve their electorate - as a service movement.

Now reconsider the UAP, Australia1 and their structures.

Pauline and Australia1 Riccardo Bossi, as charismatic leaders, currently offer no long-term solution against this tyranny of centralised power. Devolution, divesting power back to the people is the only re-solution to restore our ancient rights and freedoms. Pauline may have been somewhat on the right track but has subsequently lost her way or become comfortable. That fire for freedom in her belly has gone out, as PHON offer no real alternative going into this federal election – freedom of choice and lifting all covid restrictions, with a devolving and more representative political party power base. How novel!

Formation of the 1996 Australia First Party

Graeme Campbell MHR was elected in 1980 as representative for Kalgoorlie for the ALP. He was dis-endorsed by that party in 1996 prior the federal election. He ran as an independent and won. He went on to form the Australia First party under a banner of 'core policies'. His various position papers are available within our online PDF Library, as also are 'We believe' of the early Liberal Party and 'Rural Policy' of the Labor Party. All very different creatures today. These documents make for important reading in these troubled times and offer some re-solution against centralised political-party-power-structures with devolution of power back to the people: <https://alor.org/Storage/navigation/Library6.htm>

The Struggle for True Australian Independence By

Graeme Campbell

https://alor.org/Storage/Library/Campbell_G-The_struggle_for_true_Australian_independence.htm

...Australia is faced with its fourth great challenge since Federation. The first was the First World War when Australia had to cope with severe military losses, bitter divisions on the home front over the issue of conscription and social dislocation. The second was the Depression when up to one third of the workforce was unemployed. The third was the Second World War and in particular the threat of invasion from Japan, when a limited form of conscription was introduced, but not without rancour. These three great periods of stress and the responses to them have had an enormous influence on today's Australia. All three were clear cut and part of an international experience. Australia, on the world stage was one of the smaller players, but it was not helpless in the face of international forces and pressure. It could and did make decisions to influence its own destiny and can do so in the challenge it faces today.

The fourth challenge is also part of an international experience, which is far more difficult to recognise, let alone define, but its outcome has the potential to shape the country far more completely than any of the preceding three. Australia is faced with an inexorable economic and social decline to the status of a Third World colony unless it rises to this challenge. In spite of the fact that this entails coming to terms with powerful international forces, the country's biggest battle will be won or lost at home. It will be fought between groups with two broadly conflicting views of how Australia should respond to these forces to secure its future and the skirmishes have already begun. One view can be described as basically nationalist and the other broadly internationalist.

Naturally both sides will attract extremists, but it is the moderates with coherent visions and a commitment to democracy who will determine the outcome. There will be no shortage of attempts however, given the examples of the recent past, to link the moderates, particularly the moderate nationalists, with the extremists...

Oligarchs within Russia and China

The sanctions being imposed against Russian oligarchs (as a consequence of Ukraine events) illustrates the actual facts on the ground within communist nations, that “some” are obviously more equal than others, that they were able to accumulate billions in assets while others are struggling to keep sufficient food on their table. Marxist rhetoric does not stand up to any scrutiny past ‘dictatorship of the proletariat’. Dictatorship by whom? Who are the real rulers of Russia and China that produce billionaires while all else live poorly or even in squalor?

Interestingly within South Australia, politicians and certain other elites were not 'required' to get the job. Only the plebs were mandated; or lose their income. I assume this is similar across other states being the governmental level of initiator of all these laws and decrees. Colossal hypocrisy on their part, and mute silence by all our representatives, but not inconsistent with other elites around the world.

Capitalist-communism is the same end position as Marxist-communism; a dictatorial slave state.

ON TARGET

Denmark and now Britain are lifting all covid restrictions, possibly to make way for war. The war narrative as propaganda, was created in less than two weeks since the Canadian Truckers were so conveniently removed from the news cycle. How quickly Putin has become the new Hitler campaigning against the murderous fascists in Ukraine led by the Jewish (former comedian) President. This dissonating narrative does not play out if you take a moment to consider what I just wrote. Such is the power over our minds during mass-formation hypnosis/psychosis. No looking back to Afghanistan, Libya, Iraq, or Syria. No, No, No. All eyes only on the box - Ukraine, Ukraine, Ukraine.

My little engagement with social media has highlighted a ‘climb to the top’ of virtue signalling over the Ukraine, with little thought nor engagement of the political reality of the media-driven-theatre by world players. Putin came from the same WEF school for world leaders as did Macron, Merkel, Trudeau and Arden. They are all playing from the same great-reset song-sheet.

<https://www.ukcolumn.org/article/breaking-covid-trance-how-irish-people-were-psychologically-manipulated>
What is Mass Formation Psychosis?

Psychosis of any kind is when a person loses some contact with reality. Mass formation psychosis is when a large part of a society focuses its attention to a leader(s) or a series of events and their attention focuses on one small point or issue. Followers can be hypnotized and be led anywhere, regardless of information proving otherwise. A key aspect of the phenomena is that the people they identify (with) as the leaders – the one’s that can solve the problem or issue alone – they will follow that leader(s) regardless of any new information or data. Furthermore, anybody who questions the leader’s narrative are attacked and disregarded.

There are four key components needed to bring into being mass formation psychosis:

- lack of social bonds or decoupling of societal connections, (1960s-70s onward hippy/freedom movement, deconstruction of our history, cultural achievements, our Christian religion)
- lack of sense-making (things don't make sense – cognitive dissonance, constant propaganda)
- free-floating anxiety, and free-floating psychological discontent. Free-floating anxiety is a general sense of uneasiness that is not tied to any particular object or specific situation or event (climate, covid, 9/11, millennium bug, weapons of mass destruction, Ukraine war, Armageddon)
- When followers start to participate in a strategy to deal with the object of anxiety, new social bonds typically emerge, and people change from a highly aversive negative mental state and isolation, to the exact opposite to the extremely high-level of connectedness that exists (putting faith into one leader, saviour, dictator)

I personally witnessed, and many before me have written about, the subversion of our nation from the 1960s on, with the deliberate infiltration of communists into all our learning institutions, degrading of our culture through subversive 'leaders of influence' and perversion and subversion of our religious institutions and cultural achievements and self-worth beliefs. Building upon this is the seditious media constantly maintaining these levels of anxiety to usher in the great-reset world dictatorship.

Mastercard and Visa suspending operations in Russia in response to Ukraine invasion

UK Column News - 4th March 2022

<https://www.ukcolumn.org/ukcolumn-news/uk-column-news-4th-march-2022>

If, as the UKColumn is presenting, is as accurate as I believe it to be, the next round of propaganda-driven manoeuvring is to have both Russia and China rolling out a CBDC central bank digital currency as the necessary consequence of sanctions, this being one further step towards the communist world slave state.

BOOM, Trudeau Reversal Motive Surfaces – Canadian Banking Association Was Approved by World Economic Forum To Lead the Digital ID Creation

<https://theconservativetreehouse.com/blog/2022/02/23/boom-trudeau-reversal-motive-surfaces-canadian-banking-association-was-approved-by-world-economic-forum-to-lead-the-digital-id-creation/>

As an aside but not-unrelated to this conversation of CBDC, I was drawn to the review of the Bio-Security Act and Framework progressing towards the South Australian parliament. It appears that under the review of this act, is to be the banner to introduce a fully-functional digital ID system to compliment an emerging CBDC central bank digital currency. This Bio-security Act is currently not on the SA government website for scrutiny, however external sources are specifically pointing towards bio-security legislation as being the legislative-vehicle utilised for this objective. The Chinese surveillance state by another name. <https://www.ukcolumn.org/ukcolumn-news/uk-column-news-7th-june-2021>

These observations across differing topics, while appearing disconnected are the actual coming together of a much bigger plan - the great reset to world government. The SA election result will not change the Bio-Security Act policy-direction one iota no matter which political party dominates the next SA parliament. Interestingly South Australian MP David Basham (introducing 'GMO by decree' fame), was the minister to initiate this bio-security review, of which the actual legislation is not able to be scrutinised (before the election). How convenient.

Unlocking Censorship - One News Item At A Time

Election Censorship

I and another helper have spent several days searching across many obvious resources to finally chase down (through social media interaction), a candidate's contact details for the upcoming state election. The Electoral Commission of South Australia would not provide any assistance – deemed as 'support' for a particular candidate (to provide contact details), which of itself, is extraordinary. Is there censorship to ensure all non-mainstream candidates find it increasingly difficult to have a social presence? Of course there is. My current experience across many internet and media platforms supports this thesis. I will test further once I get around to speaking with the candidate about this experience and their (f)actual media presence, as well as their policy position on several political issues close to heart.
