

EMERGENCY POWERS, COVID-19 RESTRICTIONS & MANDATORY VACCINATION : A 'RULE-OF-LAW' PERSPECTIVE by Augusto Zimmermann & Gabriël Moens AM - $29.95

https://www.connorcourtpublishing.com.au/EMERGENCY-POWERS-COVID-19-RESTRICTIONS-MANDATORY-VACCINATION-A-%E2%80%99RULE-OF-LAW%E2%80%99-PERSPECTIVE_p_473.html

The main argument of this book is that vaccine mandates facilitate the creation of a fundamentally unfair and unequal society where vaccinated people are privileged and the unvaccinated become second-class citizens who are excluded from most activities of normal life and are regarded as lepers in their own country. In this context, this book discusses the concept of legality known as the 'rule of law', and the use of emergency powers in Australia. It also focuses on the unconstitutionality of mandatory vaccination, and it examines the possible use of the external affairs power in the Constitution to combat mandatory vaccination. Also discussed is the role that civil disobedience can play when protesting the imposition of vaccine mandates and other draconian measures. Finally, the reader is invited to ponder how the use of emergency powers is historically used as a means of suppressing fundamental rights and dramatically increasing the power of the State.

Quote: "The health orders issued by Australia's governments have the effect of violating the concept of legality known as 'the rule of law'. These governments have adopted extra-constitutional measures that undermine the doctrine of separation of powers and the principle of equality before the law, as well as the basic right of citizens to object to any form of medical treatment, including mandatory vaccinations, which are now increasingly imposed by the government".
