Who's Behind Dollar Imperialism?

Jews Plot For World Control

Mrs. Sarah G. Millin, in her war diaries, quotes General Smut's as telling her in 1942 that American Big Business was going to run the British Empire and the entire world after the war.

When he spoke of "American Big Business" Smuts was probably referring to the Jewish International Financiers, whose headquarters are in Wall Street, New York.

Those people who urge us to break down our immigration standards and allow all types of people into the country, point with pride to America, which they claim as a successful "melting pot" of all nations. It has been rather brutally stated that, as with all melting pots, the scum tends to come to the top. The "melting pot" idea has not worked out in America; it has resulted in the destruction of the genuine culture and traditions of all types.

In his latest book, "The Struggle for the World," the famous American writer, James Burnham, frankly answers the question whether America, if it became world leader, would become a world tyrant. He writes:

THE "MELTING POT"

"There is in American life a strain of callow brutality. This betrays itself no less in the lynching and gangsterism at home than in the arrogance and hooliganism of soldiers or tourists abroad. . . . There is in many Americans an ignorant contempt for ideas and tradition and history, a complacency with the trifles of merely material triumph. Who, listening a few hours to the American radio, could repress a shudder if he thought that the price of survival would be the Americanisation of the world?"

America is subjected to more Jewish influence than are most countries. It can be said that America is a base from which the International Zionists work to control the entire world. The films and radio have been used to break down the standards of all peoples.

HUGE DOLLAR LOANS

But the most dramatic attempt to conquer the entire world for the Jewish ideal of the World State, in which all national sovereignties are to be swept away, is being made on the economic front. This is the real meaning of the proposals to pour enormous dollar loans into Europe.

Needless to say, American dollars will not actually be shipped to European countries. These countries will be granted dollar "credits" in America, which can be used to buy American goods.

Well may it be asked how these dollar loans are to be repaid? Obviously these loans are to be so immense that the borrowing countries could only repay them by exporting goods to America but the Jewish financial policy dominating America will not permit this. Recent figures published in America reveal that America is at present exporting £5,000,000,000 worth of goods annually, but is only importing at the rate of £2,500,000,000 annually.

A LONG-RANGE POLICY

It has been truly said that America emerged from the war an economic giant. We know that the International Jew was responsible for World War II as he was responsible for World War I. It is also true that he was responsible for the creation of Communist Russia and backs the destructive Socialist policies being imposed upon the British and other peoples. Europe having been reduced to ruins by his damnable policies (policies which were operating at least as far back as the French Revolution, when a major step was taken toward demolishing European culture and civilisation) the International Jew now steps in and offers what he terms salvation—at his own price, of course.

The manner in which the American Government has been used to erect protective tariffs against Australian wool, for example,

WORLD FOOD BOARD

Less Meat For Britain

"WASHINGTON, Wednesday"—The International Emergency Food Council has fixed meat shipments to Britain for the first half of this year at 1,805,400,000 lbs. This is a drop of 25,400,000 lbs on the tentative allocation made last February. —Reuter."

—London "Daily Mail," 22/5/47.

proves quite conclusively that American policy—or, Jewish policy—is to export more goods than are imported. This can only mean that all those countries, to whom dollar loans are made for the purpose of buying American goods, will have to remain permanently in debt-slavery or hand over control of local policies and selected fixed assets. The bondholders will be in the position to demand a price.

At this stage someone will probably say: "It appears, then, that American citizens are being kept hard at work producing goods that are virtually given away in order that Jewish International Finance can bring all other countries under its domination?" That is so.

If it is asked further, "Why does the American citizen allow himself to be used in this way?" it must be pointed out that the American people, like all other peoples, have been carefully conditioned to believe (Continued on page 4.)

Significant Political Pointers

Mr. John Strachey, the "British" Food Minister, who says that he is no longer a Communist, is quoted extensively in the Australian press as saying that there is no food crisis in Great Britain and that the British people are being adequately fed. This statement by Mr. Strachey must have a serious effect upon public opinion in this and other parts of the British Empire.

The truth of the matter is, of course, that the British people are in the hands of gangsters who have reduced their food rations to such a low level that the health of the British people is being seriously undermined.

Mr. Strachey has tried to reply to Dr. Franklin Bicknell's article, "Dying England," stating that the average man eating entirely at home obtains 2900 calories as against the 2100 mentioned by Dr. Bicknell. However, in the British "Medical Press" of May 14, Dr. Bicknell effectively reveals Mr. Strachey for the trickster he is: "The only way that Mr. Strachey can prove the correctness of his figure is to give a week's menu showing how 2900 calories can be obtained. . . . Nothing would please the whole public so much as to hear, in detail, how to obtain 2900 calories every day. . . ."

More and more people are beginning to realise that the imposition of such food rationing in Great Britain is part of a campaign to drag down the British people as a prelude to breaking up the British Empire. There is an economic blockade against the British people and the Australian Government is a party to that blockade. Australia's food reserves must be tapped and placed at the disposal of the British people immediately. Every Federal Member of Parliament must be asked to state publicly where he stands on this issue.

MORE BUREAUCRATS

As the Socialist State continues to be imposed upon us, so does the number of officials increase.

The Melbourne "Argus" of July 5 reports that there are now 556,800 "public servants" in Australia. The Commonwealth Government now employs 156,600 persons, compared with 68,322 before the war. State authorities employ 400,200, compared with 295,000 before the war.

It will be noted that large as has been the increase in the State spheres—primarily as a result of the policies of the Federal Government—the rate of increase has been much greater in the Federal sphere.

Won't it be grand when we are all "public servants"?

RED FRANKENSTEIN

President Roosevelt's view of Stalin: "I like this man and I want to keep on good terms with him" (vide "The Roosevelt I Knew," by Frances Perkins.)

And so Roosevelt surrounded by International Jewish advisers, allowed Stalin to take over all Eastern Europe.

From the London "Tablet" of April 26: There is little sign of embarrassment in Moscow at the way in which, reversing Marxist priorities, M. Molotov has been sacrificing material advance to the propagation of dogma in his plans for the Germans. There is no surprise that he has been arguing in favor of the ambitions of the Germans on the political level and against their most elementary claims on the economic level. It is not that he is afraid of making them too capable of building up their war-potential again. On the contrary, his reparations programme could only be carried out if Germany became second only to the United States in its manufacturing power, with the biggest and most modern industrial and war potential in Europe, although Europe would draw no advantage from it. So far as the German people is concerned, M. Molotov is content to play upon their most dangerous political instincts and thereby distract their minds from their material future. He has been asking, for instance, for a politically centralised Reich, trying to bring political Germans as "advisers" to the Foreign Ministers' Conference, and proclaiming that except in the east there (Continued on page 4.)

PETITION TO END McKELL APPOINTMENT

As previously reported, the South Australian League of Rights has been getting thousands of signatures to a petition for the termination of Mr. McKell's appointment as Governor-General. This picture shows (left to right) Messrs. E. C. Finn, A. S. Tillet and C. H. Allen, in charge of one of the League's stands in Adelaide.

Mr. Calwell is now seeking non-British immigrants to bring to Australia for "defined work"—presumably labouring on certain public works where the Government is not prepared to pay proper wages.

Apparently Mr. Calwell expects to obtain ships to transport these aliens, even though practically no shipping is available for Britishers; likewise, he evidently has plans for housing these aliens while some of our own people in his electorate and elsewhere are sick and dying through being forced into overcrowded slummy dwellings.

Nothing of this kind has been suggested in Australia since the admittance of Kanakas to work in the "specified" cane-fields many years ago. This proposal is more than passing strange, coming from the Labor Party, which violently opposed the Kanaka scheme. Perhaps, after all, the leopard can change its spots?

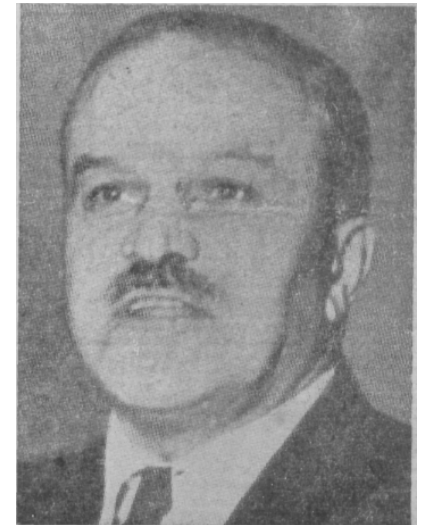

THIS "FREE" MEDICINE

The mis-called Free Medicine scheme soon to be imposed is estimated to cost between £2 millions and £5 millions, which will be borne by taxpayers, including the victims whom it is supposed to benefit. A similar scheme operates in New Zealand; it commenced at 4/- per head per year, now raised to 13/6 per head a year—and, of course, there is no improvement in the health of the people, so it must be accepted as a failure. Good food, housing and clothing are much more important than colored fluids in medicine bottles; but our Socialist Government is determined not to heed the failure of the N.Z. scheme. Judging by the recent press disclosures of poverty and slums in Melbourne, there are many more important uses for the people's money than wasting it on chemical dopes; in any case, if the Government stopped robbing the people of their money by taxation, they could buy their own choice of poison.

PEOPLE v. BUREAUCRATS

New light was thrown on the chaotic situation in France by a report in the Melbourne "Age" of June 14, entitled "Protest Against Officialdom," which states: "The food crisis of the past few weeks has developed into a large-scale movement on the part of traders and the general public against economic controls and bureaucratic methods." Actually, the original shortages, which provoked the crisis, are no longer acute. 20,000 were turned away from a demonstration against governmental restriction on trade and the 50,000 present voted for a half-day strike against economic controls and the abuses of officialdom in general. There was much more of this, and it is quite clear that the socialistic bureaucracy is preventing the French people—and indeed all others—from rehabilitating themselves. This and many other examples of Socialism in practice over the past few years should be sufficient to satisfy even the most fanatical advocates that it just will not work. (Continued on page 3.)

SOVIET FOREIGN MINISTER MOLOTOV

ALBERTA S.C. BOARD REPORT

More Evidence of International Plot

In our issues of June 13 and June 20, we published the first two instalments of the Alberta Social Credit Board's Report, recently presented to the Alberta Legislative Assembly. Here is a further instalment of this notable document:

For the benefit of those who still have lingering doubts regarding the existence and identity of a ruthless group of World Plotters, the following evidence added to that contained in previous Reports will provide additional proof:—

1. Early this year, Eugene Meyer was requested by President Truman to accept the presidency of the new World Bank. It is the largest bank in history with a capitalisation of ten billion dollars. It is controlled by individuals who are not responsible to national or international Governments. Being irresponsible, these individuals can wield incalculable economic power and determine the financial policies of every nation.

The "Magazine Digest" (November, 1946) quotes Meyer as having said, while still an undergraduate at Yale, "I intend to devote the next twenty years in making a fortune, then contribute twenty years to the public service."

He is said to have explained to Gutzon Borglum, the famous sculptor, "if you want to get ahead in politics keep out until you have made your pile. That's what I did. Once you have money, everything opens up for you."

What Meyer meant by "public service" and in whose interest, is open to question in the light of the foregoing quotation.

Six months after he became president of the World Bank, Eugene Meyer resigned from that position. He said that he felt that he had got the bank started.

More Jewish Key Men

2. "Time" Magazine (September 2, 1946) reports as follows in regard to U.N.N.R.A. and Britain's Lieutenant-General Sir Frederick Morgan, U.N.N.R.A. director for Germany:

"Morgan recently charged that U.N.N.R.A. is an umbrella under which Soviet spies are working. The next day, General Joseph T. McNamery, U.S. commander in Europe, announced that one Russian U.N.N.R.A. employee had just been arrested as a Soviet M.G.B. (secret police) agent. The Russians had taken a violent dislike to Morgan. So, apparently, had La Guardia."

It should be noted that the first chairman of U.N.N.R.A. was Herbert H. Lehmann, no doubt nominated by the President of the United States, acting on the advice of the "adviser" of all Presidents, Bernard Baruch. When Morgan refused to resign after exposing the inner workings of U.N.N.R.A., La Guardia was appointed chairman and Morgan was then displaced. Mr. La Guardia then appointed Meyer Cohen in Morgan's place.

[La Guardia, Lehmann, Baruch and Cohen (obviously) are Jewish.—Ed., "N.T."]

* * * * *

3. In March of this year, Bernard M. Baruch was appointed by President Truman, as the United States representative on the United Nations atomic energy commission. Mr. Baruch announced his team of "alternates and co-workers," to consist of: John Hancock, Wall Street banker; Ferdinand Eberstadt, New York investment banker; Herbert Bayard Swope, publicist and journalist; Fred Searis, New York mining engineer.

Recently Russia has refused to agree to allow her frontiers to be open for plant inspection as a solution for global control of atomic energy. Russia also insists on the destruction of all existing stocks of atomic bombs.

Examples in England

4. The following paragraph appeared in the "Monetary Times" magazine, November issue of 1946:

"The Bank of England has in nowise been changed by nationalisation, Lord Catto, the Governor, declared on arrival in New York. 'It is working as smoothly as ever. The same people run it, it's in the same place. I was governor before, and I am governor now,' he said."

Note: The Bank of England was nationalised by paying the 17,000 stockholders in three-per-cent bonds, which guarantee them three per cent, interest on the equivalent of $230,000,000 in our money. The par value of the stock was $60,000,000 paying 12 per cent, dividends. In other words, the stockholders will get the same income with the advantage that it will now be guaranteed by the Government. In the final analysis the taxpayer pays it all.

* * * * *

5. In England the policies of the Socialist Government have moved rapidly towards the complete centralisation of power during the past year. In December, 1946, the "British" Government introduced the Farm

Bill designed to effect the gradual nationalisation of the land. The Bill will fix prices on various agricultural products. Its most drastic feature is the provision that will empower the Government to step in and condemn and purchase forcibly any farm. This can be done at any time Government officials think the landowner is not growing as much as they think he should or fails to grow the products he has been ordered to grow.

U.N.E.S.C.O. and Rothschild

6. During this year another international body was formed under the imposing title of "The United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organisation," but commonly referred to as U.N.E.S.C.O. A sub-committee of the Paris conference of the organisation has decided that U.N.E.S.C.O. is to keep an eye on the educational textbooks of all countries and will bring to the attention of the United Nations Security Council any that contain statements, which in the opinion of U.N.E.S.C.O. are undesirable. It is obvious that tremendous power to control education is thus being placed in an international and irresponsible group of individuals.

The head of this new international control group is Dr. Julian Sorell Huxley, who is a declared atheist. His influence on education would not likely be in line with the Christian ethic. Dr. Huxley is also a member of P.E.P. and, consequently, is a Socialist.

"Time" Magazine (December 16, 1946) quotes Dr. Huxley as follows:

"I do not believe in God, because I think the idea has ceased to be a useful hypothesis."

7. Lord Rothschild, who is one of the wealthiest men in the world, and who occupies a prominent place in the inner circle of International High Finance, leads the Socialist group in the British House of Lords.

Socialism and Finance

8. Prime Minister Attlee of Great Britain was at one time a lecturer in the London School of Economics, an institution devoted to the training of Socialists and endowed for that purpose by Sir Ernest Cassel who was also a member of the inner circle of International High Finance.

9. Sixty-seven Members of the present British House of Commons and members of the Socialist group in that House, were pupils of Harold Laski when he was one of the star lecturers in the London School of Economics.

The events of the past year offer further proof of the existence of a deliberately planned scheme, which will impose the tyranny of a World Slave State on the people of all nations. The foregoing facts are only a fraction of the evidence which may be added to that given in previous Board Reports, revealing the close kinship which exists between the leading figures in the Socialist ranks and those of International Finance. It also becomes more evident as their plans develop that the forces of Socialism and Finance are both working with all their might to reach the same objective,—the establishment of the totalitarian World State.

COUPON SURRENDER IN VAIN

ADELAIDE, Thursday. — People's sacrifices in giving up their meat ration, ostensibly to make more meat available for export to Britain, have achieved "exactly nothing" because of the Federal Government's apathy, the president of the Stock-owners' Association (Mr. J. Keith Angas) said yesterday.

The public was still being encouraged by the Commonwealth to surrender meat coupons, but the Government had taken no definite action to get meat, he claimed.

Although the Federal Government had been advised that this sacrifice would be in vain unless definite action was taken to acquire the equivalent weight in meat, nothing had been done.

Almost all the meat obtained in response to the appeal had been voluntarily submitted by the producers, who had thereby collectively suffered a substantial financial loss.

The Government persisted in asking the public to surrender meat coupons, hoping that reduced consumption would create a surplus of meat for export, but no one had been appointed or was in a position to obtain the surplus of meat for Britain.

Our Book Service

Readers can always order their books through the "New Times." All prices include postage. The following is a short list of some of the important books we have in stock.

"I Planted Trees" by Richard Baker, 16/11d. A book for all tree lovers and those who want to know of the importance of trees to our civilization.

"Soil and Civilisation" by Elyne Mitchell, 4/8d. A beautifully written book by a woman who sees the basis of civilisation being destroyed by the destruction of our soil.

"Pay Dirt" by Rodale, 21/5d. An excellent introduction to the subject of organic farming written by one of America's foremost authorities.

"Ploughman's Folly" by Faulkner, 10/2d. Probably the most controversial book on agriculture ever written. The author attacks the working of the soil by deep mould-board ploughing.

"Reconstruction by Way of the Soil" by Wrench, 19/11d. The author contends there can be no real reconstruction in society unless there is a different conception of soil as the living basis of civilisation.

"An Agricultural Testament," by Sir Albert Howard, 26/6d.

"Farming and Gardening For Health or Disease" by Sir Albert Howard, 19/9d.

The above two books are, of course, the great classics of organic farming and gardening. Not only every farmer, but every gardener should get these two books while stocks are available.

"From Vegetable Waste To Fertile Soil" by M. E. Bruce, 4/3d. Outlines a quick compost system. Particularly suitable for gardeners.

"Your Daily Bread" by Doris Grant, 8/-. An excellent book showing how to make wholemeal bread. Recipes for wholemeal scones, etc., also included.

"Napoleon of Notting Hill" by G. K. Chesterton, 1/10d

"The Club of Queer Trades" by G. K. Chesterton, 1/10d.

Two typical pieces of fiction by Chesterton. Social Crediters will really enjoy them.

"Years of Victory" by Arthur Bryant, 5/4d. Reduced from 15/-. A great book by one of England's foremost historians.

"The Earth—Our Mother" by B. A. Santamaria, 10/3d.

"Australia's Entail" by A. O. Barrett, 6/3d.

"EVEN IF IT MEANS A BUDGET DEFICIT"

Political Leaders and Food for Great Britain

(A letter to the Editor from Bruce H. Brown.)

Sir,—Although my attention these days is largely taken up by other matters (about which I hope to write later), I feel that I should bring specially to the notice of "New Times" readers some further evidence which not only confirms the accuracy of what appears in your paper, but also shows clearly the hopelessness of placing any trust in the so-called political leaders of the day.

The Melbourne "Argus" of 26/6/47 contained a front-page article on the "Premier's Food Pledge To U.K." It carried a big headline: "VICTORIA WILL HELP TO THE LIMIT."

What was meant by the word "limit" was not specifically stated, but the following declarations left little to the imagination:—

STATEMENTS OF LEADERS

1. Mr. Cain, Premier, promised that Victoria would aid the people of Britain to the limit of the State's capacity.

2. Opposition leaders in the Legislative Assembly commended Mr. Cain's stand and assured him that there would be no criticism of any expenditure on aid to Britain even if it meant a Budget deficit.

3. Mr. Cain said he would confer with Commonwealth authorities and representatives of the Red Cross and Lord Mayor's Fund to ascertain what food for Britain could be bought and what shipping space was available. The Government had already provided £27,500 toward the Red Cross and Lord Mayor's appeals but was prepared to give further assistance to the extent he considered justified.

4. Mr. McDonald, Opposition leader, said: "Even if it involves a Budget deficit we can recover more quickly than the British people."

5. Mr. Hollway, the Liberal Party leader, said: "If the Premier had a deficit of £100,000 represented by aid to Britain, the Opposition would commend it as money well spent."

AN ARTIFICIAL LIMITATION

And so we see that our great "leaders" are approaching this vital matter of assistance to the people of Great Britain, not on the basis of the State's capacity at all, but entirely on the basis of the artificially limited financial capacity of the Victorian Government.

They also openly admit that, so far as they are concerned, the war and the heavy personal sacrifices involved in it have accomplished nothing and taught them nothing, for all our activities are still to be dictated by the same financial practices which not only led to the war, but also ensured that we would be materially and financially impoverished by it.

PARTIES' COMMON POLICY

The statements of these men also confirm the claim of the "New Times" that in the matter of financial policy there is no fundamental difference between any of the political Parties. All of them believe in the "balancing of the Budget," or, in other words, that Governments should have no finance for spending other than the money that can be collected from "the people," i.e., from those who would be imprisoned if they attempted to produce it. This means that all Parties intend that the production of money will continue to be outside parliamentary control. It means, further, that these "leaders" have no intention of changing the tragic but farcical situation in which allegedly sovereign parliaments have to join with their harassed peoples in the never-ending and ever-intensifying struggle to collect some of the stuff that neither of them produces.

GILBERTIAN NONSENSE

Mr. Cain, the Labor "leader," pats the State Government on the back for spending £27,500 in assisting the people of Great Britain. Mr. McDonald, the Country Party "leader," would even accept a slight financial deficit in the Government accounts for such a worthy purpose! Mr. Hollway, the Liberal Party "leader," would go to the extreme length of not criticising a "shortage" of £100,000 in the State's accounts!

Is it not pathetic? Here is a situation, which calls for the spending of millions of pounds and the utilisation to the fullest practicable extent of the State's physical and personal resources, and yet we have to listen to the Gilbertian nonsense of "leaders" who talk of limiting the spending to mere thousands and of the over-riding sanctity of Government Budgets!

If the present Treasury officials do not know how to finance a much better effort without putting the people further into the bondage of irredeemable debt they should be required to give place to men who do know how to do it. This is where the "leaders" could be doing something worthwhile.

—Yours faithfully, BRUCE H. BROWN, Hotham Street East Melbourne, C.2

SENSATIONAL STORY BEHIND CANADIAN SPY TRIALS

Hereunder we give further extracts from the account, based on statements of Canadian Government officials and the published report of the Royal Commission of Inquiry, in the book "The Soviet Spies" by Richard Hirsch, formerly Lieutenant-Colonel in the Military Intelligence Division of the U.S. War Department General Staff:

Prime Minister King continued to explore the over-all political implications of the documents with Prime Minister Attlee and Foreign Minister Bevin. With the meeting of the Big Four powers scheduled to start in December, they appreciated that the premature disclosure of the spy plot might imperil any chance of harmony. So complex was the problem that King and Attlee decided to cross the Atlantic and talk with President Truman.

In retrospect, Moscow's reaction to this three-day meeting is significant. While Truman, Attlee and King were meeting aboard the naval yacht "Sequoia" anchored in the Potomac, the Soviets were celebrating the 28th anniversary of the Russian Revolution. Foreign Minister Molotov, in an 80-minute speech, bluntly said:

"It is not possible at the present time for a technical secret of any great size to remain the exclusive possession of some one country or a narrow circle of countries. We will have atomic energy and many other things, too."

When King returned to Ottawa, Attlee went along to learn at first-hand the newer factors in the case.

THE INVESTIGATORS' TACTICS

The first concern of the investigators had been to avoid alarming Colonel Zabolin to the point where he would warn the Canadian conspirators. Although the Russian Military Attaché knew that some documents were missing, it was felt that he would be unaware that Gouzenko had brought the cable file which had been handed over to him months before for burning. Another factor on which the investigators were gambling was Zabolin's fear of reprisal from Moscow. It was entirely possible that the Colonel, fearful of his own fate, was minimising the lost documents and was, in fact, reporting the incident as a "theft of funds" as the exchange of diplomatic telegrams indicated.

At any rate, it is a matter of record that throughout the months of September, October and November Colonel Zabolin and his associates acted as though nothing were amiss.

THE IDENTITY OF "NORA"

During the fall of 1945 considerable progress was made toward identifying the principals in the spy ring.

Among the documents was a mailing list on which Colonel Zabolin had tabulated everything dispatched by him to Moscow on January 5, 1945. Inspector Leopold realised that this was the master key to the entire network, for it showed not only the type of information sent, but named the source.

Number 175 on this list was credited to "Nora." It consisted of "telegrams 10, questionnaires 3, photos 11." Gouzenko recalled that he had put the telegrams into code. He had been ordered to burn the notes, but instead had taken them from the safe; and they were now in the possession of the Canadian Government.

The notes were copies of secret cables received from England. Even today their contents are so important that they cannot be revealed. They concerned matters which belonged not exclusively to Canada, but which had been entrusted to Canada by other Governments. Unless the leak could be stopped, the relationship of Canada and friendly States might be compromised. The discovery of "Nora" was therefore a matter of high priority.

Fortunately, Gouzenko had learned her name—Emma Woikin.

IN EXTERNAL AFFAIRS DEPT.

Concerning this he testified:

A: "All I know about Emma Woikin is that she became acquainted with Major Sokolov and he proposed to Colonel Zabolin to develop her (as an agent)."

Q: "You were present, were you?"

A: "Yes, I was in the room. Sokolov suggested that he make her a proposal to work as an agent in October 1944. However, he developed her much sooner. She thought she could perhaps work as a stenographer or clerk in the Commercial Counsellor's office. She said that she liked Russia and wanted to help Russia."

At the Canadian Ministry for External Affairs a check at the personnel office produced the file card on one Emma Woikin. It listed her as an employee of the Cipher Division since February 1944. Her superiors knew her as a quiet, hard-working clerk.

Her personal history statement revealed that she had been born in 1920 in Saskatchewan, of Russian Dukhobor parents. In 1943 she had passed the civil service examination for stenographer. She spoke Russian as well as English, and was appointed to the Passport Division. Later she was placed in the Cipher Division, where she not only saw all the diplomatic telegrams, but was familiar with the code system itself.

The next day, when Emma Woikin came to the office, she found that she had been transferred back to the Passport Division.

"What is the matter?" Emma Woikin asked. "Is my work not satisfactory?"

"Oh, no, nothing like that—I think they are shorthanded at Passport," and they need an experienced girl like you."

In this manner the authorities hoped to plug the leak while at the same time concealing the extent of their knowledge. There were too many agents whose identity was still unknown to risk any move which might send them scurrying for cover.

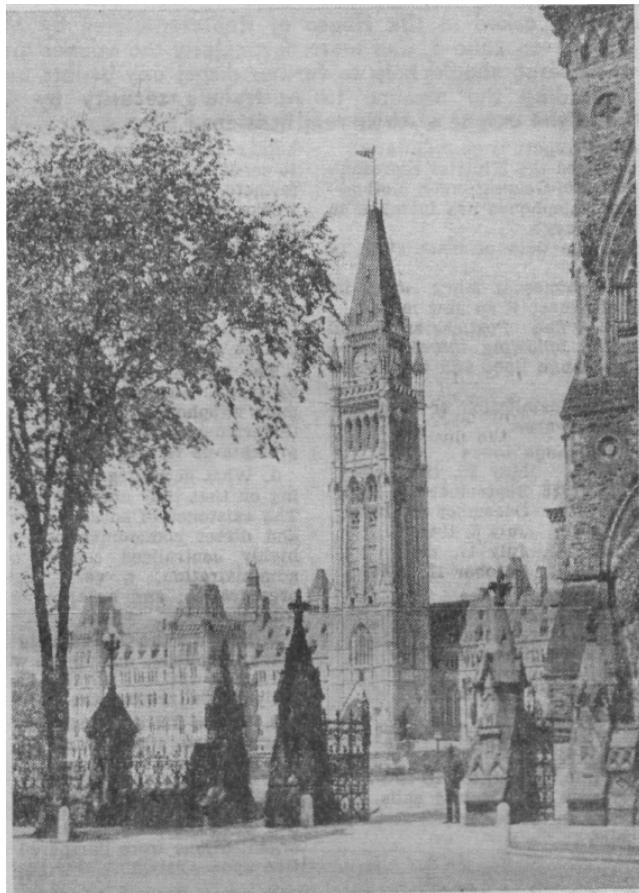

THE ACTIVITIES OF "ELLI"

"While "Nora" was being "sealed off," Inspector Leopold referred once more to the master key to the spy puzzle—the mailing list of January 5, 1945. Items No. 109 and 110 were marked "copy" and "abbreviated copy" of secret letters from the Canadian Ambassador at Moscow to Prime Minister Mackenzie King. "Elli" was credited as the source.

In addition Gouzenko had brought with him a cable from the Director in Moscow to Colonel Zabolin, referring to "Elli."

"And who was she?" asked Inspector Leopold.

"Before I left the Embassy I had a look at her file. Her name is Willsher—she works in the Office of the High Commissioner for the United Kingdom here in Ottawa."

Canada's Parliamentary Buildings at Ottawa and the Graceful Peace Tower as seen from the East Gate.

The British High Commissioner in Canada was Malcolm MacDonald, son of the former British Prime Minister, Ramsay MacDonald. He was shocked at the disclosure that one of his employees was under suspicion.

The only Willsher on his staff was Kathleen Mary Willsher, who, as Assistant Registrar, had access to all incoming and outgoing letters and telegrams and to all highly secret files. A woman in her 40's, she was quiet, soft-spoken, and had an excellent working record. In appearance she more closely resembled a pleasant-faced schoolteacher than a secret agent.

Since the need for secrecy was still so great that she could not even be questioned, the only course open to the authorities was to put her under surveillance and gradually change the character of her work until she was no longer in position to obtain important information.

UNCOVERING OF "B" GROUP

With "Ale," "Nora," and "Elli" now identified and under scrutiny, Inspector Leopold ran down the mailing list to a group of names—"Back," "Bagley" and "Badeau." The "B" group had penetrated into the National Research Council, custodian of atomic energy secrets.

Fortunately, Gouzenko had brought with him from the Embassy not only a document in which the group's activities were outlined, but a piece of paper typewritten in English at the bottom of which was the warning: "After studying burn it." Containing the secret instructions given to "Back," the leader of "B" group, by Colonel Zabolin's assistant, Lieutenant Colonel Rogov, it started as follows:

"The scheme of your group will be:

"Jan (Rogov).

"Back (nickname)—G. Lunan.

"Badeau—Dornforth Smith.

"Bagley—Ned Mazerall.

"You will know me (as Jan) but nobody else."

Inspector Leopold did not even have to consult an Ottawa telephone book to check on Lunan. In the file taken from the Soviet Embassy there was a dossier giving his address and occupation—correspondent for the military journal "Canadian Affairs." One line of the dossier read: "Length of time in the net"—from March, 1945."

BETRAYAL OF ATOM SECRETS

To make the file even more complete there was a report from "Back" to Rogov, dated March 28, a few weeks after he had joined the "net." It revealed that months before Hiroshima the Soviets were alerted to U.S. and Canadian efforts to solve atomic energy problems.

"Your written instructions are understood and some preliminary work has been accomplished on the specific tasks set. Badeau informs me that the most secret work at present is on nuclear physics—bombardment of radioactive substances to produce energy. This is more hush-hush than radar and is being carried on at the University of Montreal and at McMaster University. Fuller details later. —Back."

There were other documents, two items in which stood out in bold relief. The first, in Rogov's handwriting, concerned "Badeau." It read:

"Badeau asks for permission to change to work on uranium."

The second item was another of "Grant's" cables to the director. It read:

"We have received from Badeau 17 top-secret and secret documents, English, American and Canadian. Altogether about 700 pages. In the course of the day we were able to photograph all the documents. In the next few days we will receive almost the same amount of documents for three to five hours. I consider it essential to

British Housewives Are Worse Off Than Before The War

LONDON, Thursday. —Seven out of nine British housewives interviewed yesterday declared that they were worse off than before the war.

The housewives were interviewed by Mrs. Bessie Braddock, Labor M.P., who took 14 members of the Housewives' League through the poorest streets of her Liverpool constituency to prove that housewives were better off now.

Result of the tour: Seven women of nine interviewed in the first street said they wanted to join the Housewives' League because they were worse off than before the war. Other streets followed suit. A branch was formed on the spot.

Mrs. Eliza Kirkpatrick, 66, living with her old-age pensioner husband, said: "We find it hard to live on what we get to eat. Before the war we got 21b of margarine a week. Now we get 1/2lb and 1/4lb of butter and 1lb of sugar between us. Things are certainly no better."

Mrs. Mary Herbert, a war widow with children: "Indeed, we are far from better off. I'll join the Housewives' League in the hope that they can do something."

Another widow pensioner: "I hardly get one decent meal a week. I just can't get along on my pension with rations as they are."

HERRENVOLK HEBREWS

During the hearing of a charge of "threatening behavior," arising from a meeting sponsored by the British League of Ex-Servicemen and Women, it was stated that in the district of Dalston (England) there were eight synagogues within a quarter-mile radius of the meeting. No mention was made of the number of Christian churches. Anyway, something was said to which Jewish residents objected, and so either they or their hirelings caused a disorderly scene, which was followed by the Court charge against the ex-servicemen speakers — not the attackers. The speakers were bound over for 12 months. The same press issue of June 24 reported that the Secretary-General of the United Nations had appealed to the British Government to spare the lives of the three Jewish terrorists under sentence of death for murdering Britishers in Palestine. Having regard to the many instances of favored treatment given to Jews, it is no wonder they are encouraged to go on believing in their herrenvolk idea of being the chosen race.

PETROL MYSTERY IN U.S.

While U.S. faces its worst petrol "shortage" since the war, heavy shipments of oil and petrol are being made to Russia at the rate of 6000 barrels a day. The U.S. Navy ordered a complete stoppage of flying until more petrol was available—yet 12 tankers continue to ship the petrol among lease-lend ships which Russia refuses to return to the U.S.A. Congressmen have demanded a thorough investigation and the re-establishing of controls on the export of oil; Representative Poulson describes the situation as "comparable with the pre-war despatch of scrap-iron to Japan." Maybe the war promoters with their usual foresight are making sure that Russia will be able to put up a good show if war should break out. There is no indication of what (if anything) U.S. is receiving in return.

ON THE FOOD FRONT

The British Treasury has taken action to ban such foods as macaroni, wheatmeal, plum pudding, semolina, tomato sauce, fruit-cake, custard powder and ice-cream powders; these common foods are described as luxuries. Even our daily press describes this as a "startling development" and admits that it is not a shortage of foods that keeps Britain on short food rations. Our dumb dailies now also admit that the banning of these foods is also because of conditions insisted on under the American loan. It will be remembered how the same dumb dailies boosted the loan which was later to starve Britain. Soon, perhaps, our dailies will learn that this attempt to sabotage the food front is a reality. There's enough evidence available in this connection to convince everybody except the dumb dailies.

MOSCOW AND CANBERRA

A new Russian decree provides penalties of up to 20 years' imprisonment for persons who "divulge information on industry, agriculture, finance, inventions military and non-military experiments, exports, trading balances, and agreements between the Soviet and foreign countries." This means that if anything other than the weather is discussed there is a grave risk of a long stretch in the concentration camps. This development brings to mind the recent so-called Anti-Sabotage Bill to safeguard the Rocket Range Project, which has now been specified as a defence project here. It only remains for our Canberra Soviets to list the above activities as "defence" matters, and our sovietisation will be almost complete. It is also interesting to note that all Parties consider this a good Bill. So strikes and criticism of the Government will soon most likely be listed as offences within the category of a "defence" interpretation, subject to 20 years in a government security compound.

Who's Behind Dollar Imperialism?

that they were born into this world to have their lives completely organised by other people so that there shall always be full employment.

Social Crediters have been saying for years (events always proving them correct.) that improvements in technical production processes must result in increasing production (unless restriction is intensified) with decreasing distribution of purchasing power through industry. Social Crediters have pointed out what can be proved mathematically, apart from the proof of actual facts, that as modern industry becomes more and more efficient it distributes less and less of the purchasing-power required to buy its own output.

If we were a sane community we would hail this fact as progress, reduced hours of work for those required in industry, and ensure that enough supplementary purchasing-power was distributed to the people in the form of national dividends and subsidised prices, in order that the people could buy all that was produced. But we don't do this. The goods produced can only be sold in their entirety by such means as creating increasing debt for non-productive public works or by exporting more than is imported.

THIS FULL EMPLOYMENT

At the moment we have not got the problem of this so-called over-production; the restrictive Socialistic policies being imposed upon us prevent it. But in America, where modern scientific production has progressed further than in any other country in the world, we can see the problem very clearly. If America is to have full-employment under the present financial rules, she must have a stupendous export trade, with high tariffs to prevent other countries sending goods into America. In other words, Americans cannot buy all that they can produce; they have a "surplus."

It may be argued that Americans could not consume all they can produce, in any case. If that is so, why should they persist with the policy of full-employment? Why not produce all that they require in two or three days per week and have more leisure? No, the Jewish policy does not permit economic security and increasing leisure. The result is that Americans are used by the Jewish hierarchy to further its policy of world conquest, American goods, which Americans cannot buy, are "sold" to other countries. These countries must first borrow the dollars with which to buy the goods. The borrowed dollars are only financial "credits" created by the Jewish controllers of the American banking system.

THE END AND MEANS

There is no doubt that the International Jew's ultimate aim is complete World Domination. Communism and Socialism are necessary to further that policy. While it is stated that dollar loans are to be poured into Europe to save it from Communism (although it is rather peculiar that the Russian rulers are being asked to co-operate in devising a suitable plan for help to Europe) the real policy is to bring Europe more firmly under the control of the International Jew. There are no doubt differences of opinion between various power-lusters, but the International Jew uses every instrument, including the Communist Party, which is predominately Jewish, to further his own aims. He has no liking for genuine free enterprise; the American system of free enterprise is used at present merely a means to an end.

BEHIND ATOMIC BOMB

Apart from the building up of world organisations of various types, the Jewish influence behind the atomic bomb is too obvious to pass unnoticed. Unscrupulous propaganda has been used to persuade people that they must surrender their sovereignty to World Government—or be wiped out by atomic bombs. But what protection are the peoples of the world to have against an International Government with a Monopoly of atomic bombs?

The International Jew knows what he is about. It is the Jew, Mr. Lillenthal, who is to control atomic power in America. Mr. Lillenthal has given his views on how the World Government is to be obtained, in the following words: "Not through bugle-blast, nor battle lunge, shall come world unity, but quietly through international love, symbolised in the despised clan we call the Jew."

Yes, the Jew is the symbol, the International Jew who breaks down all traditions, all local sovereignty. It was the International Jew who cornered and manipulated the world's gold supplies, to further his own policies. As soon as it became obvious that the basis of atomic power, uranium and Plutonium, were the really important minerals, there was an organised demand, with millions of pounds behind it, for an "international authority" to own all the world's deposits of uranium and Plutonium.

The only hope of averting the promised Third World War, which will be used if necessary to usher in the World State, is for the British peoples in particular to surrender none of their sovereignties to international organisations, to throw off the disastrous bureaucratic Socialist policies and modify financial policy to permit the people to enjoy an increasing standard of living with more leisure for all. Let us save ourselves by our exertions and the rest of the world by our example. —Radio talk by Eric D. Butler over 3CS, Cokac.

A WARNING FROM SIR EDMUND HERRING

The Chief Justice of Victoria, Sir Edmund Herring, is to be congratulated on a notable address in the Assembly Hall, Melbourne, on Monday, June 23. Sir Edmund warned his audience that there was very real danger to democracy in Australia.

We disagree with Sir Edmund's contention that because industrial and technological development has progressed at such a pace, all Governments have been forced to intervene in the economic life of the community; but the following statements, as reported in the Melbourne "Age" of Tuesday, June 24, have our general commendation:

Sir E. Herring said wonderful national opportunities were being thrown away. There was distrust, bitterness, intolerance, selfishness and a sense of frustration that could lead to disintegration and tyranny.

The threat to democracy and freedom was thus very real in Australia at present.

Modern democracy was born in a different atmosphere. Social cohesion came then from a common creed that gave our forefathers a stern sense of duty and moral standards to guide their conduct.

Nowadays, a great deal was heard about rights, but very little about duty.

There seemed to be a deficiency of faith not only in God, but in ourselves, in truth, in beauty, in justice, in freedom and in love.

To make democracy work and to safeguard freedom we must, as a people, regain appreciation of the eternal verities and be able once more to agree about fundamentals.

Sir E. Herring said the relationship of the State and individual must be such that there was secured to the individual a spiritual and intellectual inner life wholly free; a sphere of action not controlled by Government. In the maintenance of democracy and freedom it was necessary to make everyone realise what a heritage it was.

Too many nowadays took it for granted. It was necessary that all should be free-conscience and determined to retain freedom.

Functions of Government were being widely extended, and the number of public servants greatly increased.

It was vital that the individual citizen should always be able to approach the courts of law; the courts which were his protector. So, too, we must demand the very highest standards of integrity in our public servants.

bers regarding the shortage of telephones

MARX HOUSE AND THE TELEPHONE SHORTAGE

A question asked in the House of Representatives by Mr. Francis (Moreton, Qld.) on June 5, and more particularly the answer given by the Postmaster-General, should help to further dispel any doubts and misconceptions regarding the menace to Australia's security by Communist activities, and the extent of their ramifications.

The "Hansard" report is as follows: — Mr. Francis asked the Minister representing the Postmaster-General upon notice—

1. How many telephones are installed in Marx House, Sydney?

2. What was the date of installation of each telephone?

3. Do the telephones at Marx House include any silent lines; if so how many?

Mr. Calwell. — The Postmaster-General has supplied the following information: —

1. Twelve exchange lines and twenty extension lines.

2. The dates of installation of each telephone are as follows: —

Exchange Lines

June 9, 1909. May 25, 1943.
September 18, 1923. September 22, 1943.
November 7, 1939. December 20, 1943.
January 16, 1940. July 5, 1944.
September 26, 1941. July 17, 1944.
December 8, 1941. October 16, 1944.

Extension Lines

August 18, 1928 (three lines).
October 3, 1939 (three lines).
February 23, 1940 (three lines).
May 25, 1943 (one line).
September 21, 1943 (four lines).
March 13, 1945 (one line).
September 4, 1945 (three lines).
February 26, 1946 (two lines).

3. One silent line, in addition to two lines, which are reserved for outward, calls only and are not listed in the telephone directory for inward calls.

* * * *

The absence of any reference by Mr. Francis or Mr. Calwell to the possibility of some of these telephones being used by tenants of Marx House, other than Communists, suggests that all the lines are used solely for Communist activities.

The reply given is particularly enlightening when it is coupled with the repeated inquiries and complaints from Federal Mem-to meet the needs of business houses and farmers. At least six times within the six weeks before Parliament went into recess the matter was raised, but each time the authorities replied that due to the effect of the war years upon the supply of equipment, and the difficulty of getting equipment at the present time, it might be some time before existing demands for telephones can be met.

The fact that the Communists were able to instal, during the difficult war years, more telephones than many fairly important Government departments can boast of, prompts us to ask these questions: —

1. What activities are these people carrying on that they need so many telephones?

The existence of so many avenues of quick and direct communication would suggest highly centralised control of policy and administration, a very high degree of organisation, and a large number of field workers.

2. How did the Communists manage to get these telephones during the war, when business concerns and farmers had the greatest difficulty in getting them?

3. Where did they get the funds to equip Marx House, staff it, and provide so many telephone lines?

4. How and for what purpose did they extend to this extraordinary degree during the war, when the activities of all other organisations were hampered by concentration upon Australia's war effort?

Perhaps your Federal Member can be persuaded to take steps to provide an answer to these questions.

can be no separation of German territory, nor even such an arrangement as that which the French wanted in the Saar, while at the same time insisting that the Germans shall be treated economically as sub-men. So much for Marxism; the ruling doctrine now is the Leninist, not materialist but evilly spiritual, in which all is subordinated to the seizure of minds and the propagation of the ideological revolution."

THE STARVING BRITONS

The following paragraph is a report from London: —

Bad feeding — particularly the lack of fats — and "worry about the present situation" were blamed by the local health officer, Dr. Leigh Spence, for the decline in health in the country when he spoke at Bradford and Melksham Council today. Dr. Spence, who in addition practises privately, said: "In the last six months I have noticed more cases of pulmonary tuberculosis than I have known for 30 years. Doctors are doing their best, but the situation is serious and the sanatorium system has broken down completely."

But no doubt the wonderful Social planners in Great Britain regard Dr. Spence as subversive. After all, haven't they "proved" by statistics that all Britishers are being well fed?

* * * *

The Melbourne "Argus" of May 20 had a small report, which stated that during this month (July) the International Emergency Food Council is to decide "the fairest and most efficient means of distributing the world's cereals."

Obviously the "fairest" method will be to have no food rationing in U.S.A., increased food supplies for Communist-dominated Europe, and less for the British people! —E.D.B.

Canadian Spy Trials

REPLY TO COMMUNISTS

The following statement was issued in Melbourne last Monday by Mr. Eric Butler, Campaign Director for the Victorian League of Rights: —

In an attempt to discredit the Canadian Royal Commission which investigated Communist espionage activities in Canada on behalf of Soviet Russia, Australian Communists have been quoting what purports to be a denunciation of the methods of the Commission by the "Canadian Bar Review," a very conservative and highly respected legal journal.

That journal has NOT criticised the Canadian Royal Commission's Report.

"The Canadian Bar Review" states that, "It is the organ of the Canadian Bar Association, and it is felt that its pages should be open to free and fair discussion of all matters of interest to the legal profession of Canada. The editor, however, wishes it to be understood that opinions expressed in signed contributions and correspondence are those of the individual writers only, and that the 'Review' does not accept responsibility for them."

The only comment necessary on the criticism, which the Communists mention, is the fact that it was written by a Mr. Fife, a member of the Ottawa legal firm which defended some of the accused in the Canadian Spy Trials.

The Communists are very careless with the truth when it suits them. Their colleagues in Canada were found guilty after fair trials, and no distortions can alter this fact.

Scope for Action in Albury

SUCCESSFUL COUNTRY MEETINGS

Mr. Eric Butler visited Albury, N.S.W., on Wednesday, July 2, and he reports that, there is plenty of scope for renewed activities in that important city. The Communists are particularly active and many people desire that definite steps be taken to counteract their influence.

Back in Victoria on Thursday, July 3, Mr. Butler addressed a successful meeting at Osborne's Flat. A Voters' Policy Association was formed after the meeting, Mr. Mark Morgan being appointed secretary. The meeting decided that a resolution concerning food for Great Britain and further tax-cuts be sent to the Federal Member, Mr. McEwen. Another Voters' Policy Group was formed the following night at Sandy Creek, where those attending the public meeting, addressed by Mr. Butler, indicated their grave concern about infiltration by Communists and the Jewish menace.
