EDITORIAL

AGENTS OF DECEIT

The Easter season of 1964 is behind us but recent events refresh our minds that the cleavage, which brought the death of Christ on the Cross is ever with us. Any quarrel those who subscribe to the views aired in this journal have with those of unlike mind have to do with the basic philosophic cleavage which has been evident since the coming of Christ. As C. H. Douglas said ". . . we are engaged in a battle for Christianity, and that is true." Christ made the issue clear when he said, "He that hateth me hateth my Father also." And referring to the burdens Christians must accept and the reason for them. "And these things will they do because they have not known the Father, nor me."

The ultimate meaning of Christianity is inseparable from the ultimate meaning of the conflict of good and evil. This conflict derives from metaphysical realities, in the choices that individuals make, and results in the effective policies, which become a reality in the body politic. In our so-called democracy with the very effective policy of one-man one vote, irrespective of intelligence, initiative, responsibility or any other factor, the control of policy exercised by press, radio, television, etc., is quite considerable; which brings us quite naturally to the subject of Mr. Kevin Sanders and the recent outbreak of swastika daubing.

Mr. Sanders in his role of news commentator for the Melbourne T.V. station GTV9 recently hired himself out as the slayer of big bad "anti-Semites." By inference he sought to associate the Australian League of Rights with the swastika daubing and breaking of windows of Jewish premises in Victoria. While it is true that the Objectives of the League as we understand them are the philosophic opposite to those enunciated by Judaism, Communism, or National Socialism; having their roots in the Christian faith, it is therefore unlikely that members of the League would indulge in the type of activity Mr. Sanders sought by inference to impute to them. However it is natural that Mr. Sanders should stoop to this type of accusation as on a previous occasion when his indiscretions got the better of him he told two of the League's members that he "would deal with the League in the future."

SAME ACTIVITY IN CANADA

It is just by sheer coincidence of course that the Christian Action Movement in Canada is being subjected to the same treatment. There the powers of press, radio, and television are being brought to bear against what is in fact a movement without any access to great organs of public opinion. The same is only too true of the League. It is evident that it is not the size of the organisations concerned which worry the agents of world revolution and anti-Christianity, it is the significance of the policies they are advocating and pursuing.

BOOKS MISREPRESENTED

It is obvious that Mr. Sanders is being used by experts - experts who understand the fundamentals of good and evil. According to an observer Mr. Sanders flashed on to the screen samples of "anti-semitic" literature sold by the Heritage Bookshop. A number of these books were written by Jews themselves who happen to disagree fundamentally with policies being pursued by Zionists. By their courageous stand they endeavour to show not only gentiles but also their fellow Jews how they are being-used for purposes, which they would not subscribe to, if they knew the truth. Much was made of the fact that the Heritage Bookshop has Fraudulent Conversion by Colin Jordon available, stocked long before he was associated with the National Socialist Party in Britain. However it is the function of bookshops to stock literature on all subjects for the student who wishes to make up his own mind on the subject matter contained therein. No doubt Mr. Sanders will be impeaching other leading booksellers in Melbourne who at this moment are selling Mein Kamph by that great exponent of Socialism Adolph Hitler.

BONDS FOR ISRAEL AND "ANTI-SEMITISM"

Being a fledgling in the political arena Mr. Sanders would not know that whenever there is a bond raising campaign for Israel as there is in Melbourne at the moment, that this is paralleled by an outbreak of "anti-Semitism" and it helps considerably if there are news commentators who lend themselves to the merry game of whipping up class hatred to help along the play acting. The only trouble is as in a bush fire started by a small boy with a box of matches; innocent people get hurt. The Jewish people have ever been the victims of their leaders' policies, from the time they were used to cry, "crucify him" to the present day when they were used as the raw material to dispossess the Arabs of their rightful homes in Palestine. That Mr. Sanders should make himself a tool of such policies is a measure of his value.

THE LAPPING TIDE OF CHAOS IN UNITED STATES

Mrs. Dudley Irwin, wife of the Liberal M.P. for Ballarat, said recently on a T.V. interview in Melbourne that the Communist penetration of U.S. was so deep they would take over the country without firing a shot. The following report from Thurman Sensing, Editor of "Sensing the News", points up the truth of Mrs. Irwin's observation.

Almost continuous insults to the dignity of the United States. In Cyprus, the U.S. embassy was bombed. In Ghana, which recently became an official one-party state with a constitution copied from Soviet Russia, angry mobs marched on the embassy and hauled down the American flag. Anyone who says we are loved all over the world is either completely ignorant of the facts or refuses to face the facts—to put it politely.

In Cuba, the communist Castro regime cuts off the fresh water supplies to the U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo.

This is a time of shame for Americans because beggar nations and those that hail Marxism have free rein to insult the United States and abuse our citizens. Nothing is done to halt these attacks or to penalize the attackers. The Johnson administration has adopted in its entirety the Kennedy administration's "no-win" foreign policy.

DISTORTION OF VALUES

In Panama, American territory is invaded by mobs led by identified communist agitators, and Washington never warns of calling out the Marines to land in the Canal Zone. The only news of troops being "alerted" is the news report that troops at Fort Benning were alerted to move into the sovereign state of Alabama. Ghanaian communists can attack our embassy without fear of U.S. reprisal, but American citizens cannot regulate their own school systems without the threat of armed intervention. It is truly a crazy, mixed-up world.

The truth is that the values of our country have been twisted almost beyond recognition. It is not only in the field of foreign policy but in domestic matters as well that distortion of values has been widespread.

In times past, our government was most concerned for the citizens who were self-reliant and who had demonstrated an ability to add something to the life of their community and nation. Prosperity was recognized as a hallmark of energy and good citizenship. Government took the wishes of enterprising citizens into consideration. Nowadays, government seems almost exclusively concerned with the dependent elements in society - those that have shown the least self-reliance. The businessman is scorned by bureaucrats as a reactionary, though it is business that earns the money that the bureaucrats dispense.

In other times, government also gave its support to those citizens who obeyed the law. Today, federal agencies appear to believe that their function is the protection of law-breakers. An agitation group can hardly attempt to sit-in, for example, without federal officials rushing to be on hand to assert the "rights" of the demonstrators. The "rights" of the law-abiding property owners do not receive equal protection from the federal officials.

ANARCHY SPREADING

Anarchism is spreading throughout the United States, and with the encouragement or easy acceptance of public bodies. In New York City, 400,000 students are withdrawn from the public school system in violation of the truancy laws of that municipality, but no prominent official even mentions the possibility of applying the pertinent law. They are intimidated by the political power of the boycott leaders.

In Cleveland, Ohio, demonstrators, including ministers of the gospel, invade neighborhoods that are not their own to insist on local areas bowing to the demands of pressure groups. These same demonstrators invade the city school administration building and lie down on floors, disobey orders to move, and block the passage of police officials. Despite these unruly, lawless actions, they are treated with kid gloves, as though they had a mandate to break the law. And so it is in New York, Cleveland and other cities, a special privileged class of lawbreakers, who insist they have a right to select the laws they wish to obey, has come into existence and threatens the peace and good order of the country.

TIDE OF CHAOS

The school boycott in New York City and the street demonstrations in Cleveland are part and parcel of the same kind of lawlessness evidenced on Cyprus and in Ghana. It is an affront to civilized government and the best interests of the American people.

Americans don't have a lot of time to wake up to what is transpiring. At home and abroad, the tide of chaos is lapping around this republic and its institutions. Communism abroad and its twin — anarchism at home — are moving toward a final assault on this nation and its constitutional form of government.

OUR CONTRIBUTION TO FUTURE EVENTS?

D. TREVENA

"Freedom from limitation imposed either by nature or otherwise, is the great fundamental primal urge which can be credited with nearly the whole of our modern progress in the industrial arts. Nearly every tool which has ever been invented was for the purpose of doing a given piece of work in less time, and however this idea may have been perverted, it is still true that, given a specific programme of production, powerful psychological forces are always at work to devise methods by which such a programme can be accomplished in a decreasing amount of time.

"Or to put the matter another way, left to his own natural instincts, man is always trying to put himself out of work. Exactly the same urge is behind the marvellous developments in transport and communication. Our railways, motor-cars, steamboats, and aeroplanes, have one common fundamental idea behind them. They are an attempt, and fundamentally, a highly successful attempt, to rid ourselves of limitations, to be free in terms of space and time."—C. H. Douglas. Douglas recognized that "work" as it is popularly understood is only the means to an end, i.e., self-development. Self-knowledge, by even 10% of a country's population, would be a great obstacle to centralised domination. Stuck for any real argument against the truth expounded by Douglas, the power-seekers tried to brand him as an advocate of idleness. Today we still encounter the moronic idea that Social Credit is a "scheme for living without working." As if an engineer with Douglas's outstanding achievements to his credit could be so witless. The above quote does not advocate anything: it states a fact of human nature, and to its perversion can be debited practically all-human conflict. Two types of mentality are responsible. One may be termed the "positive" element — the power grabbers who impose perversion by setting up false goals, substituting means for ends, and so on, they call the tune. The "negative" element comprises the great majority, hypnotised into accepting the tune as the right one, and dancing to it without enjoyment. The "negative" have the numerical power to change the tune without resort to violence, but until they are de-hypnotised they will get no further than changing the "masters of ceremonies." Understanding of the need to satisfy that fundamental urge to freedom is the first stage of de-hypnotisation. The process is not completed without a working knowledge of how useful tools (economic based) are used for wrong ends, just as a tyre lever can be used to maim a man. Then, effort, mainly mental at first, must be exerted towards restoring the tools to their natural purpose. Yes, it's a matter of education, but since the majority of educationists are still hypnotised, the most important of courses is not to be found in official curriculum.

Writing from Delhi a correspondent says that he studied everything of Douglas' he could get hold of, including debates with "orthodox" economists, and "criticisms" from banker's of several countries. Finding Douglas right on all vital points, he did what he could to spread the truth. Then he met a "mystic" who convinced him that, "since the present system is evil it will perish at the appointed time"! So he realised it was of no use trying to hasten its demise; he took up the religion of his mystic friend. This was a case of a man experiencing de-hypnotisation only to become re-hypnotised. Obviously if no one opposed evil it would endure forever. In the earlier days of his research Douglas said that the financial system would collapse of its own accord. He admitted his mistake when he realised that the evil could be kept going as long as the world lasts and THE PEOPLE CAN BE BLUFFED INTO PAYING THE COST IN HUMAN SUFFERING. The change to "GOOD" can only come slowly, and its arrival speeded or retarded according to the number of people thinking and working towards it.

FLUORIDATION AND COMMUNISM

Just prior to the last Federal Elections, the then Minister for the Interior and Minister for Works, the Hon. G. Freeth, M.P., proposed that Canberra's public water supplies should be fluoridated. This resulted in an attack on the proposal in the Federal Parliament by Mr. D. J. Killen, M.P. In a most remarkable address, given on October 10, 1963, Mr. Freeth said that ". . . you hear . . . the wildest statements made that this is a communist plot to stultify the minds of the population." Later on the same day, Mr. Freeth referred to letters he claimed to have received from "crackpots" all over Australia, and then went on to invite Mr. Killen to refer to an article entitled "The Secret Life of Eric Butler."

In a letter to Sir Robert Menzies on October 23, 1963, Mr. Butler suggested that it would appear that a matter of security was involved when a Minister of his Government produced at short notice in the Federal Parliament a Communist-inspired and Communist-circulated document first written some years ago. Mr. Butler pointed out that he had never at any time written to Mr. Freeth on the subject of fluoridation. He knew of no doctor, dentist, scientist or organisation opposing fluoridation talking about a "communist plot." It was true that many opposing fluoridation had observed that its advocates had accepted the Communist viewpoint that the individual can be treated as a statistical unit and deprived of the right of free choice. They had also drawn attention to the interesting fact that the official Communist policy in the English-speaking world was support for fluoridation of public water supplies.

Mr. Butler pointed out to the Prime Minister that in the document Mr. Freeth had referred to in Parliament, Mr. Killen was described as "Killen the Com.", and that Mr. Freeth knew that the references to Mr. Killen were blatant falsehoods. Mr. Butler continued: "It would be instructive to learn whether Mr. Freeth thought it necessary to discover the identity of the author of the document he used before quoting from it. But much more important, in view of the fact that this document - - a tissue of misquotes, lies and distortions -- has been widely circulated by the Communists and their dupes, who handed Mr. Freeth a copy? This question requires a clear-cut answer." Mr. Butler informed the Prime Minister that he was also taking the matter up with Senator Wade, Minister for Health, asking him if a member of his Department had supplied the document.

Senator Wade subsequently informed Mr. Butler that he was satisfied that no member of his Department had supplied "The Secret Life of Eric Butler" to Mr. Freeth. But in a letter dated November 26, 1963, Mr. E. J. Bunting, Secretary to the Prime Minister's Department, evaded Mr. Butler's question. He wrote: "I am directed to inform you that the Prime Minister has received your recent letter concerning the fluoridation of public water supplies. He has asked me to say that this is a local question for determination in each area." Unfortunately Mr. Butler was at this time occupied in preparing to leave to go overseas, and did not pursue the matter further. We are recording what took place for the sake of the record. And also to draw attention to the fact that (a) a Minister of a Liberal Government was prepared to use a Communist-inspired and Communist-circulated document; (b) that he was prepared to use it to defend the policy of fluoridating public water supplies; and (c) that some official or secretary at Canberra was able to produce this document almost immediately and to persuade a Liberal Minister to use it.

We presume that the official or secretary responsible is still employed at Canberra.

THE SMEAR TECHNIQUE

The late Whittaker Chambers, former top Communist agent who exposed Alger Hiss, one of his colleagues in the Communist conspiracy, wrote, "The Communists only have to start a smear campaign . . . then the dupes in the mass media can be relied upon to pass it along."

ANTI-GENTILISM

In our issue of 20/3/64 we published a letter from a reader to Dr. J. R. Darling, ABC Chairman, requesting that the anti-Semitism session of 6/3/64 be followed by an expert's explanation of why there is anti-Semitism. Is it the reaction to anti-Gentilism?

Dr. Darling replied, ". . . I could not give you an intelligent answer, and I am therefore sending it on to headquarters for a reply." Up to 20/4/64 no reply has been received.

In the New York report of the death of Ben Hecht, published in the Adelaide Advertiser, we read: "Hecht caused a storm in Britain in 1948 by inserting a full page advertisement in the New York Post which he called 'A Letter to the Terrorists in Palestine'.

"It told the terrorists: Every time you blow up a British arsenal, or wreck a British gaol, or send a British railway train sky high, or rob a British bank, or let go with your guns and bombs at British betrayers and invaders of your homeland, the Jews of America make a little holiday in their hearts."

We know that not all Jews are cultists of race hatred, but a few influential ones can sway, and have swayed, the "masses." The above is one of many examples of the sowing of the seed of anti-Semitism by the Jews themselves.
