The price of Freedom is eternal vigilance—

Thought for the Week: "Modern revolutionaries are believers, no less committed and intense than were the Christians and Muslims of an earlier era. What is new is the belief that a perfect secular order will emerge from the forcible overthrow of traditional authority. This inherently implausible idea gave dynamism to Europe in the nineteenth century, and has become the most successful ideological export of the West to the world, in the twentieth century."

- James H. Billington in "Fire in the Minds of Man".

MIDDLE EAST MADNESS: As we have constantly predicted, the Middle East crisis must continue to deepen, with disastrous side-effects right around the world, until the madness called Political Zionism is faced. The latest massacre of Palestinians, refugees from the expansionist policies of the Zionists, is but one more chapter in the sickening chain of events since Begin and his fellows initiated terror tactics to force the Palestinians out of their own country. Every civilised person must be sickened by what has happened in the Palestinian refugee camps in West Beirut. But how many recall what Begin and his fellow criminals did, for example, in the Palestinian village of Deir Yassim in 1948, when 254 women, children and old men were butchered by the Zionists and their bodies thrown down a well. Begin and his fellow terrorists boasted of what they had done. Those who have read the book "Israel's Sacred Terrorism" (not as yet available in Australia) are introduced to the real objectives of the Zionist fanatics, including the use of the "Christian" Lebanese military leader, Major Shad Haddad to establish Israel permanently in Southern Lebanon.

In his response to President Reagan's moderate proposals for the Middle East proposals endorsed by Pope John Paul, now also being described as "anti-Semitic" by Zionist propogandists, Zionist Begin spelt out clearly what the Messianic madness of Zionism means. He charged that "For you, Mr. President", directing his remarks to the American President 6000 miles away, "this is a political matter. You need to get closer to Saudi Arabia. Maybe you need to shake hands with King Hussein (of Jordan) after he was on no-speaking terms with your predecessor Mr. Carter." Then crashing his fist on the table, Begin shouted about "The land of our fathers and sons", continuing to reveal Israel's real objective:

"Judea and Samaria will be for the Jewish people for generations upon generations". This means that the West Bank and occupied Southern Lebanon are to be permanently incorporated into Israel. The formal Israeli annexation of the Golan Heights is an indication of the shape of things to come. It can now be seen that the Israeli agreement with Egypt and the placing of an international force, in which Australia is represented, in the Sinai, has firmly secured Israel's southern frontiers from any future Egyptian or other attacks, while enabling the Zionist expansion policy to be adopted to the north and the west.

For most of its existence, Zionist Israel has been able to present itself as a small, peace-loving democracy struggling for survival against a combination of powerful Arab enemies. One of the greatest hoaxes of this century, the alleged gassing of six million Jews, aided by the phony Anne Frank Diary, has been successfully used to project a completely false picture of Israel. Now the prestigious International Institute for Strategic Studies, based in London, rates Israel as the fourth most powerful military State in the whole world, and as the world's seventh arms merchant. But the Israeli military build up has only been made possible by the massive financing of Israel by the International Zionist movement. During the invasion of Lebanon and the the destruction of West Beirut, Israel was blatantly using America's most sophisticated military equipment.

Irrespective of who actually conducted the latest slaughter of Palestinians, the Zionist leaders of Israel are responsible. This terrible event is sending further shock waves throughout the whole Moslem world, and will undoubtedly result in acts of vengeance by Palestinian terrorists against unfortunate Jews in many parts of the world. There will, of course, be a new wave of "anti-Semitism", much of this promoted by the Zionists themselves. The Communists, delighted with what is happening, can also be relied upon to help foster terrorist attacks against the Jews.

The greatest tragedy of all is the spectacle of Christians, many misled by the "Chosen Race" myth, or suffering from a guilt complex concerning the manner in which Christians have allegedly been responsible for the "persecution" of Jews over the centuries, blindly supporting Zionist Israel. It is to the credit of Pope John Paul that he is courageously defying Zionist power and influence by insisting that the Palestinians, many of them also Christians, have rights. Also encouraging is the emergence of strong anti-Zionism amongst large numbers of Jews, previously afraid to speak out because of Zionist terror tactics. At long last it appears that the Zionist madmen have overreached themselves and that some sanity will prevail concerning the critical Middle East.

BRIEF COMMENTS: Some readers will recall how some years ago considerable media publicity was given to a small Australian town whose well-meaning citizens argued that inflation could be defeated if they all practised self-restraint and did a little extra. The project, of course, was not successful because it ignored the basic cause of inflation. We notice that now there are letters in the press suggesting that there should be 12 month wage and price "freeze". Those advocating the "freeze" policy are apparently unaware that it has been tried on several occasions since the end of the Second World War, and is currently being tried in New Zealand by Mr. Muldoon. The results have been disastrous, as the Americans found when they tried it. It is possible to tighten down the valve of a steam boiler for a short period. But if the heating of the boiler continues, there is either an explosion or, ultimately, when the valve has to be opened, there is an enormous blast of steam.

A much more realistic appraisal of the economic and social crisis is provided by Dr. John Dique of Brisbane, who is reported in "The Sydney Sun" of September 5th as saying that Australia's falling birth rate was due to high taxation and Government economic policies. In an address to a medical conference, Dr. Dique said that his studies had shown that it was the big increase in inflation since 1970 which had made it difficult for young people to get married. "It is the government's economic policy which is causing the great decline in births, not contraception or anything else. The same decrease was seen during the thirties when people didn't have the pill or government funded abortion. Inflation has meant that young people cannot afford a home to live in?"

A former New Zealand Prime Minister, Sir John Marshall, is urging New Zealanders to re-establish an Upper House to reduce the growing power of executive Government. Sir John says a special Senate is required to provide effective checks and balances. While Sir John and other New Zealanders are urging the establishment of an effective Senate, in Australia there is a major campaign to reduce the powers of the Senate. Australians should consider themselves extremely fortunate that their forbears had the foresight to create an effective Senate as a barrier to an excessive centralisation of power, and make every effort to retain it.

East European Communist sources report that a senior Soviet official will visit China early next month to hold preliminary talks on the resumption of normalisation talks, broken off in 1980. The Soviet official's visit will be part of a pattern of developments over recent years. Economic relations between the two Communist giants have been much more extensive than generally realised.

"The People's Weekly", Zimbabwe (Rhodesia) of July 7th, carries a front page story headed, "Australia Gives Important Aid". A photo with the story shows a happy looking Mr. Chimidrai Sanyangare, Deputy Minister of Finance, Economic Planning and Development, signing an Australian aid agreement. Well might the Minister look pleased, as the agreement provides $5 million for Comrade Mugabe. And the Minister also pointed out that there was more aid to come, that Australia had pledged over $20 million for the period of 1981 to 1984. Hard-pressed Australian taxpayers might drop a line to their paid servants (the politicians) stressing that they could do with the aid being given to Communists like Robert Mugabe.

The Phony debate concerning "tax avoidance" has almost completely overshadowed any discussion on the Budget. Well-known Queensland economist, Mr. H. W. Herbert, summarises the Budget as follows: "Despite its good points, the Budget will not alleviate the worsening recession." Mr. Herbert ("The Sunday Mail", August 22nd.) points out that the increase in excise and Sales Tax will immediately increase prices. The man responsible for this "crazy" policy, Mr. John Howard, insists that he is still fighting inflation.
