

ON TARGET

- NEWS HIGHLIGHTS
- BACKGROUND INFORMATION
- COMMONWEALTH AFFAIRS

The price of Freedom is eternal vigilance —

Registered By Australia Post — Publication No. VBH 0999

Vol.28, No.21

June 12th, 1992

THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: "For the best part of the last two decades an unseen hand has been at work moulding the lives and outlook of countless Australians. Throughout our public school systems and beyond into traditional church groups and chaplaincies a subtle godless, new age infiltration has steadily insinuated itself. All over our nation thousands of cell groups have been formed as social agents to impose new age concepts through such guises as human relations courses, family counselling and community education. Under the auspices of the United Nations this subtle propaganda package has completely changed the outlook of a generation. Its influence has been profound and destructive."

- From May issue of Link, official publication of The One Australia Movement

ADELAIDE TRIAL A NATIONAL DISGRACE: Not surprisingly, Zionist leaders like Mr. Isis Leibler have expressed satisfaction that elderly Polish born Ivan Polyukhovich has been ordered to stand trial for alleged wartime crimes. As we have said from the beginning of the campaign to have Second World War crime trials conducted in Australia, this was a manifestation of anti-Christian vengeance and such trials would be a national disgrace. It is absurd to talk about justice being possible half a century after the alleged crimes took place, not in Australia by Australians against fellow Australians, but by non-Australians in a foreign country. It is an indisputable fact that the driving force behind the campaign for war-crime trials has been the Zionist movement. They were originally assisted by the Soviet K.G.B., who provided much of the "evidence" which led to an Israeli court finding Ukrainian born American citizen John Demjanjuk guilty of allegedly being responsible for the mass killing of Jews in Poland. The late Armand Hamer, the Jewish international financier who played a key role in assisting the Soviet from the time of Lenin, personally brought to Israel from Moscow the vital documents used to convict Demjanjuk. He was sentenced to death by hanging, but from the beginning there was overwhelming evidence that Demjanjuk had been "framed" in both the U.S.A. and Israel. The break up of the Soviet Empire provided irrefutable evidence confirming that John Demjanjuk could not have been "Ivan the Terrible". K.G.B. documents were shown to be false.

But rather than admit their mistake, the Israeli prosecutors are at present attempting to say that Demjanjuk must be guilty of some crimes because he allegedly worked for the Germans. This is the Zionist conception of justice, a manifestation of Talmudic vengeance, which is manifesting itself in Canada where the first War Crime trial in a common law country took place. Hungarian-born Imre Finta was the first charged and approximately two years ago a jury quickly found him not guilty of the eight charges against him. Finta was defended by Canadian barrister Doug Christie, who in his final address to the jury stressed that vengeance is not justice, and that vengeance has a habit of returning to hit those who use it.

Zionist reaction to the Finta decision was outrage and an insistence that the not-guilty verdict be appealed. Eventually it was and the Appeal Court rejected the appeal for another trial. But the Zionists were still determined and the news has just come to hand that the Crown is appealing to the Supreme Court of Canada.

While the Zionists may well be satisfied that they are within reach of their objective of the first Australian War Crime trial, Polyukhovich's defence lawyers have reason to be satisfied that Magistrate Kelwyn Prescott found that the 75-year-old pensioner had only to answer two out of the eight charges brought against him. One of the dismissed charges was that Polyukhovich had participated in the mass killing of up to 850 Jews. If the case goes ahead, Polyukhovich will be tried for the murder of a Jewish woman and two unidentified boys. The essence of the situation is that after the spending of an estimated $20 million, a Magistrate has ruled that the major charges do not warrant a committal for trial. This whole obscene affair should be halted immediately, before more millions of taxpayers' money are spent in financing a continuing Zionist vengeance programme in Australia.

THE ROYAL CRISIS: While it is certainly true, as stated by the editor of the prestigious Burke's Peerage, that most of the allegations against Prince Charles and Princess Diana are without foundation and that a major reason for their publication is to boost the circulation sales of papers, such an explanation for the latest round of Royal bashing directs attention away from the deeper purpose of the campaign: to destroy the Monarchy as an institution. It is not surprising that Rupert Murdoch's media has headed the latest attack; its long campaign against the Monarchy has been observed by political analysts like South African journalist Ivor Benson. Members of the Royal family are human beings like everyone else and it would be surprising if there were not strains and stresses inside the Prince Charles-Princess Diana marriage. But the gutter media merely seize upon what may or may not be true, or part true, and then use it to hound their unfortunate victims knowing that under present conditions, they are unable to defend themselves. The present campaign clearly has Prince Charles as its major target. Irrespective of his standing as a husband, he is one of the most outstanding Princes of Wales in history, as witnessed by his thought-provoking addresses on a wide variety of important subjects, ranging from architecture to literature and education. Sections of the media have persistently fostered the view that a man with such "eccentric" views is unfit to become king. Through all the furore created by Rupert Murdoch and those who think like him, it is now clearly emerging that the final battle between two forms of government is now under way. Greater activity from the Australian Republicans can be predicted.

FURTHER BLOWS TO WORLD PLANNERS: Continuing disintegration throughout Yugoslavia and the former Soviet Union, with the Czechoslovakian Federation now in deep crisis, provide further confirmation of Prince Charles' observation that people everywhere are seeking to go back to their roots, to live together with people of their own kind and culture. And the International Planners suffered a major setback when the people of little Denmark threw a major spanner into the Big Idea for a United States of Europe.

The Danish NO vote has sent shock waves right throughout Western Europe, with the supporters of Margaret Thatcher delighted. The overwhelming majority of the British now want a referendum on the Maastricht Treaty on the European Community's economic and political union. A poll taken after the Danish vote showed that 59 percent of British electors want the Maastricht Treaty re-negotiated. Only 16 percent want Parliament to ratify it as it stands. There is growing pressure on Prime Minister Major by his backbench. There is now a suggestion of a French Referendum, while there is growing disquiet in other Western European nations.

If Prime Minister Major is forced to re-negotiate the Maastricht Treaty, this will increase the growing ferment in Western Europe and further slow the International Planners' programme. The lesson for Australia in these and similar development throughout the world, is to take every possible step to preserve its own national sovereignty. The Keating vision of Australia as part of Asia should be firmly rejected.

BRIEF COMMENTS: Revelations concerning the origins of the claims that John Demjanjuk, sentenced to death as a war criminal by an Israeli Court, have at last forced the United States Court of Appeals to re-open the extradition of Demjanjuk to Israel for trial. It is now admitted the extradition warrant which authorised Demjanjuk's removal to Israel in 1986 "was based on erroneous information". The new information from the archives of the former Soviet Union have been cited. With the collapse of the charges against Demjanjuk, Zionist prosecutors should be asked some searching questions about those eye witnesses from Israel who claimed to have identified Demjanjuk as "Ivan the Terrible".

* * * * *

The "Earth Summit" in Rio de Janeiro, with the largest number of heads of States in history being present, has provided the setting for advancing an international programme which has little to do with genuine conservation, but which seeks to advance a policy for the further centralisation of all power on a global scale. One of the gurus of the current environmental movement, Dr. David Suzuki of Canada, has made the significant comment that environmentalism is "a religion". What is emerging is a form of pantheism, which not only directly challenges Christianity, but also commonsense. In spite of the fact that eminent scientists point out that there is no scientific evidence to support the view that there is any significant increase in global warming, an international campaign of hysteria, which clearly has affected the Keating Government's representative at Rio, and has thrown a revealing light on how even large numbers of apparently sane people can be stampeded into believing almost anything. A recent poll of climate scientists revealed that the overwhelming majority doubted that human activities had been responsible for any global warming. 33 percent didn't know, while only 18 percent thought that some warming had occurred. Those who like to describe themselves as well-educated compared with their "superstitious" forbears, demonstrate that they are capable of believing the most incredible nonsense. The age of myths is still with us.

* * * * *

The decision by the High Court concerning the inhabitants of Murray Island in the Torres Straits, has been seized upon by those agitators, many of them white, who have made a profession out of advocating "land rights" for Australians of Aboriginal background. Claims that the end of white sovereignty is approaching is now in sight, are grossly exaggerated. But the High Court decision will provide further grist for the agitators' campaign to cause friction among all Australians.

* * * * *

The AIDS issue has been heavily politicised in an attempt to protect the homosexual lobby. But the reality keeps bursting through. A recent report prepared by the Macfarlane Burnet Centre in Melbourne reveals that homosexual and bi-sexual men make up 91 percent of Victorians with AIDS. And more men between 25 and 29 are contracting the disease. The evidence from all round the world reveals that AIDS is starting to reach epidemic proportions, with younger males the main victims. So much for "sexual liberation" and sex education.

---

"ON TARGET" is printed and published by The Australian League of Rights, 145 Russell Street, Melbourne.      Subscription $30 p.a.
Telephone: (03) 650 9749      Fax: (03) 650 9368