THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: "If we are not faced with a long-term policy our position is quite hopeless... But if we are facing a Satanic policy, our position, though very serious (it is desperately more serious today) is not necessarily irremediable... Politics embody strategies; you do not fight strategies, you fight the human beings who are carrying out that strategy... The best defence is attack. Do you propose to allow your enemy a monopoly of it?... If we grasp the fact that the essence...(of) the politics of the World State, is centralised vesting of the planet in an organisation expropriating and cutting across all local and personal sovereignty, we cannot be much in error if we identify internationalists, open and concealed, with treason to the individual and his race and country. It is faith that moves mountains..."

"The Moving Storm" – C.H. Douglas, 1948

THE VULNERABLE MEANS AND QUESTIONABLE ENDS by Betty Luks:

Is there a message the Howard Government and their bureaucrats should be heeding in the light of what happened to the world-wide-web service this last week? "Love bug puts bite on e-mail networks" proclaimed the headlines in The Australian, 6-7/5.

Clever people (hackers) who, for whatever reason, set in motion electronic signals that can wreak such havoc demonstrate how vulnerable the system really is. This 'hacker' sabotaged the system and brought electronic banking and other internet services to a stand-still around the world. He (or she) even penetrated the security of the defence nerve-centre in America – the Pentagon.

I don't understand the technicalities of the internet system but I do know that it is a means to an end and not an end in itself. The end should be determined by what the People want.

But it is through this system that the bureaucrats in Canberra are setting up their surveillance of the Australian people; the means by which they are going to 'spy' on Australians – through the Tax Invoice Number; the Australian Business Number with its 48.5% withholding-tax-threat, Pay-as-You-Go Tax, Fringe Benefits Tax, Salary and Wages Group Tax; the fully comprehensive data base on the Taxation Office computer.

The means is an instrument under the present 'globalist' Government and its little-dictator-bureaucrats, as Ted Rock observed last week, the end of which will be enslavement of the People to the State.

But, we haven't been told of all the changes in store. What of the other changes that are 'on the drawing board'? Entity Taxation and Option 2. They were brought to the light of day by the Australian Financial Review: 27-28/11/1999.

'Entity taxation' is taxing Trusts as Companies and Option 2 is a short way of describing a fundamental change to the method of calculating income tax.

"Instead of assessable income minus allowable deductions, each of which is defined by thousands of pages of legislation and whole libraries of case law, the new system WILL SIMPLY TAX CHANGES IN THE TAX VALUE OF ASSETS, including BANK BALANCES." (emphasis added...ed) Does this mean that Big Brother Tax Office will have 'surveillance powers' over your bank balance?

George Megalogenis describes the ABN as "Canberra's new revenue monster" and acknowledges that the Australian Business Number is in reality the Australia Card for Business. "ABN: Another Bureaucratic Nightmare", Australian, 6-7/5.

Remember the ID Card Hawke wanted to introduce? The people rebelled but we got the 'banking 100 points' instead!

"St. Thomas Aquinas, quoting one of the early Church fathers wrote: 'The elevation of means into ends is the essence of sin.' C.H. Douglas no doubt had this in mind when he wrote: 'Institutions are means to an end, and I do not think it is too much to say that the elevation of means into ends ... constitutes an unforgivable sin, in the pragmatic sense that it brings upon itself the most tremendous penalties that life contains.'" – (Social Credit & Christian Philosophy by E.D.Butler).

BOOK BLASTS WWII RABBIS – Source: David Irving's website:

To speak or write of the collaboration between the Zionists and the Nazis (German National Socialists) during WWII is 'verboden' in these days of 'politically correct' history. But sometimes 'little snippets' surface and can be added to the bigger picture, the picture it is intended by the 'powers that be' we should not know.

The director of the Jerusalem Simon Weisenthal Centre, Efraim Zuroff, has published a book accusing "... ultra-Orthodox American rabbis" of focussing attention on the saving of "Polish Talmudic scholars", and "ignoring the suffering of millions of other Jews who were eventually murdered by the Nazis".

Historian and Nazi hunter Efraim Zuroff in his book, "The Response of Orthodox Jewry in the United States to the Holocaust", wrote that the organised American rabbis "... feared that if the tiny group of scholars and their students were lost, the Jewish religion would vanish with them..." and the group's narrow goal "brought it into conflict with mainstream American Jewish groups working to rescue as many Jews as possible and to influence reluctant American politicians to take action".

Rabbi Menahem Porush, chairman of the Israel branch of Agudat Israel, a worldwide ultra-Orthodox group, said it was only natural for the rabbis to try to rescue those close to them.

Zuroff documents how the rabbis funneled scarce funds to scholars already safely in exile so they could maintain full-time Talmud studies, even as other Jews were being killed in death camps.

Menahem Brod of the ultra-Orthodox Habad movement said the refugees needed the money to survive. According to Zuroff's book, "the Rescue Committee extorted money from mainstream Jewish groups" and "employed shady practices to transfer funds to Europe". (emphasis added...ed).

The Rescue Committee threatened to mount a rival fund-raising drive unless local Jewish federations handed over cash. Some complied, Zuroff wrote, but others refused, arguing that the mainstream rescue campaign would include the scholars anyway. Zuroff, does not go so far as to blame the Rescue Committee for the deaths of Jews, but he noted that the Rescue Committee rabbis were the only ones to march in Washington to protest. Roosevelt's Jewish advisers counselled against a meeting, reflecting the divisions among Jewish leaders.

Zuroff said in the end, the Rescue Committee saved about 625 Polish rabbis and students who had escaped to Lithuania, and kept several hundred others alive in Central Asia and Shanghai through donations.

Question: How would this 'rescue committee' have organised the transfer of American dollars or British pounds to countries such as Nazi-occupied Poland and or Lithuania? They certainly didn't send over a plane stashed with American dollars and 'drop' them over these countries – nor did they send over the Polish or Lithuanian equivalent. As the book exposes, this group "employed shady practices to transfer funds to Europe". They probably worked through the international financial systems that were, and are, above all governments and nations; where 'business is business' and carries on as usual through war and peace.

Dr. Carroll Quigley wrote of this concentration of financial powers brought together 'globally' in the 1930s in his 1,300 page "Tragedy and Hope", which, he claimed, produced among other historical consequences the rise of Hitler, World War II, and the setting up of Communism in China.

"The apex of the system was to be the Bank of International Settlements in Basle, Switzerland, a private bank owned and controlled by the world's central banks which were themselves private corporations. Each central bank, in the hands of men like Montague Norman of the Bank of England, Benjamin Strong of the New York Federal Reserve Bank, Charles Rist of the Bank of France, and Hjalmar Schacht of the (German) Reichbank, sought to dominate its government by its ability to control Treasury bonds, to manipulate foreign exchanges, to influence the level of economic activity in the country, and to influence co-operative politicians by subsequent economic rewards in the business world."

Antony Sutton also documented the links between finance and commerce and the Nazis in his book, "Wall Street and the Rise of Hitler" – "Major US multinationals were also very well represented in the later Heinrich Himmler Circle and made cash contributions to the SS (the Sonder Konto S) up to 1944 - while World War II was in progress."

Former National Director of the League of Rights, Eric Butler, was 'demonised' by the media and Jewish groups in Australia and elsewhere, for revealing the truth of the links between the Zionists, the Nazis and the International Money Changers in public lectures and books such as "Censored History".

During and after WWII, the western peoples were subjected to a barrage of propaganda against 'the Nazis' and then 'the Soviets' and 'communism' and 'the cold war'. Now, the big bogey is 'populist nationalism'. There has to be a 'bogey' set up – designed to send up 'smokescreens'; behind this smokescreen the Money-changers carry on business as usual.

CAMPAIGN OF VIOLENCE SPREADS IN ZIMBABWE by Betty Luks:

Acts of violence and intimidation by Mugabe's terrorists are now spreading from farms to commercial enterprises; reports are coming through that members of Mugabe's 'hit squads' invaded and looted the Ruenya Granite Company in Mutoko, north-east of Harare, recently.

The attackers alleged that the company supported the opposition 'Movement for Democratic Change' (MDC). Work at the mine came to a halt when a group of 70-80 'veterans' and government supporters arrived in a number of trucks. They broke into the offices, stole office equipment, ransacked the lodges of the workers and helped themselves to food, clothing, workshop tools and spare parts. Some of the 170 workers were beaten and there was destruction of company property.

Information at hand shows that the Mugabe terrorists were now posing as MDC supporters, wearing the party's T-shirts when visiting farms, and then beating up those who greet them. At Ferndale Farm in Manicaland province some 'ex-combatants' were seen sporting army uniforms claiming to be members of the Fifth Brigade. This was intimidating the farm workers who were told to support Zanu PF if they did not want to die.

The situation has seriously deteriorated on the farms; looting, poaching, vandalism, theft, slaughter of domestic animals, kidnappings, and violent attacks on hundreds of farm workers continues unabated. Although the army and police have been deployed in different parts of the country to control the situation, their inertia is part of the problem.

MASS BREAK-IN AT HOMESTEAD:

Reports of a remote homestead being invaded and ransacked by about 60 people appeared in a main city newspaper last month. Zimbabwe? No. South Africa? No. In fact, this was an incident that happened at a remote homestead on the Nullarbor Plain, 400km east of Kalgoorlie/Boulder, West Australia (West Australian 24/4).

Pastoralist Don Hogg, from 'Seemore Downs-Kinclaven' station, claimed that a truckload of about 60 people from the Tjuntjuntjara central-desert community and South Australia's Yalata community ransacked his home just hours after they left the annual 'Nullarbor Muster'. "Clothing, alcohol and cigarettes worth about $1500 were taken...They went through all the wardrobes and took only the expensive items of clothing," he said.

It was reported Mr. Hogg and other station owners feared such incidents were increasing. It seems a station hand saw the break-in, but there was nothing he could do. Police say there is not much they can do – although they have five names to go on.

REFERENDUM PLAN FOR WA LOCAL COUNCIL – from Post Newspaper, 28/4:

Submissions have closed on a proposal by Claremont Council in West Australia to hold citizens' referendum. The move would allow ratepayers to petition the council to take a vote from the community on important issues.

It would mean that if at least 20% of ratepayers agree a question needed to be put to the wider community, they could petition the council to do so. A draft report by the council says the referendum could take a number of forms. It outlines using the referendum to remove public officials from office in cases of corruption – or excessive spending. In other forms, it may only give the community the power to review local law, after it has been made by the council. Alternately, a referendum could be used to give ratepayers the power to enact or review legislation.

Mayor Peter Olson said the issue had created some interest in the community. He said the residents should have the opportunity to have input in all matters before the council.
