THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: "The distrust of general abstract ideas, innate in the British character, has itself become an idea, and one which has profoundly influenced British opinion. It was carried over to the United States... When a leading American newspaper applied for the reproduction rights for one of two articles by myself, it explained that it did not want the other one because in the first paragraph it alluded to Hegel, and this would discourage its readers who would say, 'Who the hell was Hegel anyway?'...so the most practical and opportunist people are constantly acting on, or being affected by, other people's ideas, and the name of Hegel is a useful illustration..."

– Sir David Kelly in "The Hungry Sheep", 1955

THE PEDIGREE OF AN IDEA by Betty Luks:

By rights I should be commenting on the Costello Federal Budget just released, and examine the minute and critical analyses the 'talking heads' have carried out for us. But I am moved to write on another matter in the light of the present ghastly world events; events that will have far more bearing on our future than the carrots-to-tempt, and the sticks-to-chastise policies running through Costello's Budget.

You can be sure, not unlike the Soviet gulags, where the slaves were kept weak enough not to revolt but strong enough to carry on working, we will be allowed to keep enough of our own that we remain subservient and don't revolt.

The Idea I refer to is that held by the Zionists and the gullible Judaeo-Christians; who, through their church leaders have swallowed it, hook, line and sinker.

You may say to me, this subject is not suitable for On Target; you may say I will tread on too many toes; we have our own ideas of 'prophecy' and what that entails.

I take the risk because the Idea which has taken root and grown by way of patient political intrigue over centuries, is now a force within the most powerful military-industrial nation on earth. It is having world-wide Consequences, and it must be examined and brought to the light of day.

An Idea can lie dormant for long periods of time and suddenly, when circumstances prove favourable, develop and take on forms never intended, nor foreseen by the originators.

Ideas can have a latent explosive force and may have successive outbreaks in varying forms.

Briefly the Idea is this: As reported from the 1996 Third Christian Zionist Congress. The Israel and Christian Zionists made the Idea quite clear.

- Messiah will return to Jerusalem. (Judaean-Christians believe this Messiah and Jesus Christ are one and the same...ed).
- God gave the land of Israel to the Jewish people. (Even though 90% of modern Jews are of Eastern European descent...ed).
- This includes Gaza, the Golan Heights, Judea, and Samaria.
- Jerusalem is to remain undivided and Messiah will rule from there.
- The Palestinian people are to be denied a state to live in.

The Idea has taken root in the United States:

Several million people have succumbed to the Idea in the United States.

The Idea has taken root in churches within Australia as well. I first heard this Idea thirty years ago, but like anyone else who had some background knowledge, knew that one of the reasons the leaders of ancient Judaea rejected Jesus Christ as their Messiah was because He taught a way of peace and love. He rejected the concept of a world political dictator.

As for anyone who saw himself as a 'great leader', Jesus said: "He who would be greatest among you must be a servant of all." The chief priests and the Pharisees didn't want to hear that. Therefore, at the time I dismissed the Idea as quite alien to the Christian Faith, never thinking it would grow into the powerful force, as it has, behind the powers of the White House.

But what makes the Idea appealing to the Judaean-Christians is they are going to 'raptured' and head off to heaven where they will watch the Great Conflict, the final showdown in the valley of Armageddon whilst seated at the right hand of God. A very cosy and comfortable Idea, not too many martyrs for the Faith among this lot.

American pollsters believe 15-18% of US voters belong to churches or movements that subscribe to these teachings. As only about 15% of the population attend church on a regular basis in Australia, the numbers subscribing to this Idea would be smaller.

But it would be valuable to know how many of these people have the ear of politicians such as John Howard, and furthermore, did this Idea influence his push to get Australia embroiled in the war against Iraq?

But of one thing you can be quite sure, in their plans, these people don't intend to do the fighting themselves. Oh no! It will be our sons and daughters doing it for them.

Further reading:

"Controversy of Zion" by Douglas Reed. It is so illuminating to read his review of the long history of Talmudic Zionism and re-examine that history against the background of what is happening in the Middle East in the 21st century. Price: $25.00 posted.

"Culture of Critique" by Prof. Kevin McDonald. Boasian Anthropology, Psychoanalysis, Leftist political ideology and the Frankfurt School of Social Research, his thesis is that all of these movements may be seen as attempts to alter Western societies, cultures and values. Price: $65.00 posted.

"Prophecy & Politics" by Grace Halsell. Militant Evangelists on the Road to Nuclear War. Published in 1987, this book is prophetic. Grace Halsell correctly assessed the significance of the growing powerful alliances between the state of Israel and the militant TV evangelists. Price: $14.00 posted.

COMMON LAW OR STATUTE LAW? by Bevan O'Regan continued

If I am correct in my assumption of the anarchy we have on our doorstep, where on the historical calendar are we positioned?

- We could well be where Argentina was post war.
- We could well be positioned 10 years before property owners had to flee Kenya.
- We could well be at a point where Ian Smith was about to hand over the reins to Zimbabwe.

I certainly don't know, but I do know the politicians using the word "environment" are using Acts of Regulation to overrule Acts put in place 100 years ago. Acts that specifically were framed to protect Fee Simple Absolute (FSA), Torrens Freehold Title of land.

And now the rightful "use" of that land, by framing Parliamentary statutes, is to make null and void those live Acts. In NSW The Native Vegetation & Conservation Act is an Act of Regulation and the EP&A Act is a "planning" Act.

Local Government uses the EP&A Act every hour of every day to plan, to zone, and to direct a property owner's "use" right.

I believe Australia won't see a change until politicians wake up that their penthouse or their palatial home on the water-front is at the same risk as a dairy farm or wheat or sheep farms.

My next question is interesting.

How far are we away from civil disobedience?

In the last six months we have seen two blockades by forty cars to stop officers of "The Natural Resources" from entering private land to serve a notice in our area.

In the first blockade, the officers were surrounded for two hours until the police came and broke the line and let the officers return to their base.

The police respected the act of trespass, and did not permit the officers to proceed on to the private property. These officers did not seek the necessary permission in writing, a mandatory practice by common law.

In the second blockade, the officers stopped a kilometre short when they saw about 45 cars at the farmer's driveway.

In conclusion readers of this journal will, I hope, realise:

- Graham is telling us what does happen.
- I am telling you what should happen.

Our Founding Fathers took a long time to write the Constitution. It was to anticipate corruption -- they were right."

COMMENTS IN BRIEF:

A battle royal: According to a snippet in the Adelaide Advertiser, 5/5/04, a battle royal is going on in the Country Women's Association in NSW. "The Queen will be banned from halls in country towns across NSW, after the Country Women's Association voted against singing God Save The Queen at branch meetings.

"In a show of support for an Australian republic, the CWA's annual general conference yesterday rejected a motion by pro-royal branches to sing the Royal Anthem. Instead, members, as is the case in South Australian branches, will only be allowed to sing Advance Australia Fair before getting down to business."

Rudd sees red: Stewth reporter of The Australian, "has always been a bit suss about Opposition foreign affairs spokesman Kevin Rudd," and he now finds Rudd "has been courting communist governments on the parliamentary floor." Just recently students "in an Australian foreign policy lecture at the University of Queensland's school of politics were given a surprise lecture last week by Rudd on the policy differences between the two parties. One student asked Rudd what he had whispered in the ear of the Chinese President when Hu Jintao visited parliament during his state visit last year." To their surprise, Rudd responded 'I reminded him that Labor has a close relationship with the President's party, unlike our conservative opponents.' "

A singular insult: British On Target has commented before that when Blair finds himself in a tight spot he proclaims another 'initiative' or 'hops on a plane and flies away'. His visit to Libya to consult with Colonel al-Gadhafi provided another moment of transient, and diversionary, diplomatic glory. Those who reflected on this moment might also have reflected on a picture of the two leaders seated together. The soles of Colonel al-Gadhafi's feet were turned toward his visitor; a singular insult in Islamic terms.

'Abuse' book author under microscope: Science may come to the rescue of the Drake-Brockman family. Eighty-three year old Judith Drake-Brockman has challenged aboriginal author Sally Morgan's claims her family was abused at the hands of the pioneer land-owning family. The claims were made in the 1987 book My Place. On the Nine Network's recent Sunday programme, Judith Drake-Brockman disclosed it hurt her to think that Morgan could write such absolute fabricated tripe.

The Drake-Brockman family has challenged Miss Morgan to undertake a DNA test.
