THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: "It is also in the interests of a tyrant to keep his people poor, so that they may not be able to afford the cost of protecting themselves by arms and be so occupied with their daily tasks that they have no time for rebellion." – Aristotle.

VICTORIA'S POLITICAL CORRECTNESS & FREE SPEECH by Phillip D Butler:

The imposition of politically correct legislation and the fundamental importance of free speech has finally generated wider public interest now that two Christian pastors have been found guilty – under the 'race-hate' legislation – and will be fined and/or jailed unless they publicly apologise for voicing their opinions on the Muslim religion.

The real intent behind the legislation is showing its ugly self. We are going down the same path as Canada. In the land of "True North and Free", the attack on free speech began in the 'heady days' of Fabian Marxist/socialist Pierre Elliot Trudeau with the Canadian version of 'Anti-Hate' legislation being foisted on the people.

But where will it end? The Herald Sun headlined on its front page "Taxi Chat Gag", 25/06/05, that the latest attack is on Melbourne's taxi drivers. They have been directed they are not allowed to discuss political matters or wear or display anything that reflects their religious background – or face the sack! Victoria is a "sorry" state at the moment! George Orwell had it right in "1984"!

Victorians need reminding this draconian legislation would not have got through the parliament – a minority Labor government held power at the time with the support of two Independents – without the backing of the Liberals and Nationals. Just to reinforce this fact, remember the Libs/Nats also had control of the Upper House and assisted in its passage through the Upper House!

Many thought when the Berlin Wall came down in Germany, the world had got rid of the totalitarians. No, the lust for power and control lurks in many a breast – we Victorians have the totalitarians roaming around loose right now!

The Australian League of Rights' annual National Seminar will feature the outspoken Freedom Actionist Paul Fromm of Canada. Mark the dates in your diaries: the Weekend of October 7th-9th, 2005, held at Albury, NSW.

AMERICA – AND AUSTRALIA – TODAY: I am reminded of the emotional/cultural shock an elderly gentleman experienced when he came face to face with the 'other' forces scrambling up the ladder of power in his beloved city of Adelaide, South Australia. Comfortably well off and socially secure in Adelaide's 'pecking order,' he, along with many of his generation hadn't realised there was a 'coup' taking place until it was too late. Just as the Bush camp referred to the conservative Europeans as 'the old Europe,' in the same sense we could refer to this gentleman (and the vast majority of Australians) as 'the old Adelaide'.

"No Job Is Safe" – A Patent Attorney Reader Reports More Displacements: "Finally!" exclaimed our American correspondent, "Other professionals are beginning to figure it out. I wonder how long it will take for doctors, nurses and teachers to figure out that we are all being replaced by imported foreigners. Professionals are being replaced with imported 'visapukes'. Blue collar workers are being replaced by 'illegals' who walk across the borders.

This is a quiet war and we are being conquered without a shot fired," said her note attached to the following http://www.vdare.com/letters/tl_062405.htm

"I am a patent attorney. (Name withheld). In reviewing some of the recent proposed rule changes in the weekly-published Official Gazette [Provisions for Persons Granted Limited Recognition To Prosecute Patent Applications and Other Miscellaneous Matters], I noticed a proposed change to allow non-citizen, non-permanent resident "patent practitioners" who are here under a work visa to prosecute patent applications. Historically, only inventors or their registered patent agents/attorneys have been recognized to do this.

My guess is that US companies are importing non-citizen "patent practitioners" under one of the infamous work visa programs, and pressuring the Patent Office to amend its rules.

Anecdotally, a third of US Patent Office examiners I encounter these days seem to be foreign born, with heavy accents and exotic names (Asia and Africa seem heavily represented).

I ran a quick review of my pending cases, and a surprising number appear to be foreign (roughly 35% of my cases where examiners have been signed). An increasing number of examiners seem to be foreign-born. This trend has been ongoing for several years--maybe since the mid-nineties. No job is safe."

WE BECOME SILENT: Exposing Danger of Free Trade & CODEX: That dynamic lady Eve Hillary wants all those concerned with the battle to retain their right to choose their vitamin supplements, etc., to watch (or purchase) a DVD documentary on just what CODEX is all about – NOW! For those who have the necessary technology the documentary can be viewed on her website: <http://www.evehillary.org/WBS-Video.html>

She writes: "Watch Kevin Miller's superbly done documentary "We Become Silent" which exposes the immense dangers of so called "Free Trade" and CODEX. Australians can draw parallels with regards to WTO and Codex regulation. Even if the US health industry is regulated differently (Foods) it will not stop trade sanctions against Australia with regards to changing our volumes and dosages from the "unsafe" RDI's and RDA's to the new "safe" world standards.

"We Become Silent" is narrated by well known British actress Dame Judi Dench. It has interviews with many numerous health freedom activists including Julian Whitaker, MD; Scott Tips, JD; Carolyn Dean, MD; Joe Bassett, John Hammell and many others. There is footage from health freedom demonstrations all over the world beginning with Dr. Matthias Rath's demonstrations in Germany. Kevin Miller has produced a very good video which is in the same genre as the movie "The Corporation" except with regards to vitamins, minerals and supplements.

Kevin Miller won the gold medal at the NY Film Festival in 1994 for "Let Truth Be the Bias". Kevin showed some of the footage John Hammell shot inside the Codex meeting in Berlin in '98. John's efforts to highlight Elizabeth Yetley's (FDA) clear intention of ignoring US law and constitution, the will of congress and the will of the people as she railroads the US towards harmonisation with Codex, resulted with John being taken off the US Codex Delegation in 2000.

Please show this documentary to everyone you know: especially to sleeping CEO's of vitamin companies in Australia who have been lied to on this issue by the pharma dominated vitamin trade associations, ASMI and the TGA. <http://www.evehillary.org> Time is of the essence."

PAN TO STAND TRIAL: Interestingly, alternative 'medicines' giant Pan Pharmaceuticals will be arraigned to stand trial on 42 criminal charges after waiving its right to a committal hearing. According to the report in The Australian, 23/6/05, "The prosecution is a rare display of muscle from the Therapeutic Goods Administration – the regulator that cancelled Pan's licence. We are informed, "It rarely uses its powers under the TGA Act."

SLAVERY IS WRONG: LETTER TO THE EDITOR – Mr. J.M. sent the following letter to the Editor:

"OT" June 24, 05 "Myths About Slavery", is a disgrace. Slavery is wrong. Yet instead of saying so, you comment about spelling. The "New Times Survey", June, 2005, has an attack on religious sources, and a reply by Wallace Klinck.

Well, I know that the New Testament (quoting from OT) says at Luke 4:18 that Jesus said he had been sent "to preach deliverance to the captives..."

However, looking at the Concordances, we find that the NT seems to condone slavery. The book of Philemon is supposedly St. Paul sending a slave Onesimus back to his "owner" Philemon. In another book, the Greek text tells slaves to "obey their masters." So, the NT has two contradictory views on slavery. No supporter of the LoR could lend "OT" of June 24 to any sensible reformer. SLAVERY IS WRONG. – J.M. of Greenwood, WA.

EDITOR'S RESPONSE: J.M.'s letter throws a spotlight on the "babel of voices" Christians have to contend with these days as they struggle to understand just what their Faith teaches and how it relates to their everyday lives. There are at least two prominent groups that I can see: those who go back to Tradition for their understanding and those who go straight to the Bible for understanding – and there is a great gulf between the two. What is not recognised by the second group is the two thousand years of history, experience and development of human consciousness, and conscience, with (hopefully) understanding.

Of course slavery is wrong. The article was never intended to defend slavery as such but to highlight how the actions of previous generations of Whites is now being used to load guilt upon Whites today – for ulterior psychopolitical motives.

Christian equality: It was the Christian idea of the equality of human souls before God which led little by little to the abolition of slavery. But physical slavery is not the only type of slavery to be condemned. That is why the League of Rights continually points to the other slaveries of the mind, especially the slavery of Mammon. There are no physical chains, no physical whips used and yet the whole world is in bondage, slavery, to Mammon!

Canon Arthur Fellows writes in "The Foundations of Liberty": What the New Testament speaks of is spiritual freedom – interior freedom. Jesus Himself, although bound before Pilate, was the freest man in that whole gathering... Pilate was in bondage to his own hates and fears, the chief priests and other leaders of the Jews in bondage to their preconceived idea of the Christ and to a desire to keep the peace at all costs...All exterior freedoms flow on from this interior freedom."

Our British-Christian history reveals the working out of Christian principles was, and is, a slow process. Slavery existed in NT times, but the Christian conscience eventually came to see that slavery was wrong in principle, and its institution conflicted with the Gospel ideal, and it was abolished. But, what of the 'dumbing down' of our younger generations within the education systems? Isn't that a form of slavery of the mind? And yet, there are no chains, there are no physical whips – in fact it is against the law to physically touch children. But it is a slavery of the mind none the less.

There was a time when the Liberals proudly stated: "We believe in the great human freedoms; to worship; to think; to speak; to choose, to be ambitious, to acquire skill, to seek and earn reward." (1949 Statement of Beliefs.)

I contend they now violate every one of those fundamental beliefs!

As for the Labor Party, we can't expect anything from them. They are a socialist/Marxist party who are now floundering because the Liberals and Nationals are implementing the very agenda they planned. They are in such bondage to their ideology, it is inconceivable, for them, to consider anything different!

Yes J.M. SLAVERY IS WRONG! But don't limit your definition of slavery to the physical body alone.

Thank you for having the concern to write; your letter was much appreciated.

SPEAKING FREELY – OIL AND FOOD: Speaking Freely is an Asia Times Online feature that allows guest writers to have their say. <<http://www.atimes>

A new security challenge by Danielle Murray: From farm to plate, the modern food system relies heavily on cheap oil. Threats to our oil supply are also threats to our food supply. As food undergoes more processing and travels farther, the food system consumes ever more energy each year. The US food system uses over 10 quadrillion Btu (10,551 quadrillion Joules) of energy each year, as much as France's total annual energy consumption. Growing food accounts for only one-fifth of this. The other four-fifths is used to move, process, package, sell, and store food after it leaves the farm. Some 28% of energy used in agriculture goes to fertilizer manufacturing, 7% goes to irrigation, and 34% is consumed as diesel and gasoline by farm vehicles used to plant, till, and harvest crops. The rest goes to pesticide production, grain drying, and facility operations."

MORE ABOUT THE MICHAEL GROUP'S INITIATIVE from Victor Bridger: Victor Bridger of the Australasian Social Credit School of Studies has sent out the following communiqué aimed at those following the ground-breaking work of the Pilgrims of St. Michael in countries such as Madagascar and the Philippines.

"Please note that the work being done by François di Siebenthal in the Philippines and Madagascar is not connected with the LETS operation. What François is attempting to do is educate the locals how to handle their affairs. The scheme he has introduced is not Social Credit but it is a step he has taken to broaden their knowledge on how to conduct a business and run a simple bank. They are not "Banks" in the normal sense but his approach is to make the people aware of how a bank operates and he has them doing simple things to gradually increase their knowledge.

"I (also) have a message from Therese Tardiff from the Pilgrims of St. Michael stating they are not connected with LETS in any way. A response from François to my question re operating a LETS programme indicates that there is no connection. Many years ago a Mr. John Turmell was telling the world that LETS was Social Credit. He was also telling the world that he knew better than Douglas what was Social Credit.
