THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

"If you envisage men as being only men, you are bound to see human society, not in Christian terms as a family, but as a factory farm in which the only consideration that matters is the well being of the livestock and the prosperity or productivity of the enterprise... And it is in that situation that western man is increasingly finding himself." – Malcolm Muggeridge in "The Great Liberal Death Wish"

"I would give everything I own to have one more glimpse of my son. How dare Bush live a normal life when he has ruined mine by his lies? How dare he take 5 weeks off when he is waging a needless war?" – Cindy Sheehan, AlterNet, USA

"Disraeli practised the teaching of Christianity; he was not merely "a baptized Jew". After the Indian Mutiny in 1857 he said: 'I protest against meeting atrocities by atrocities. I have heard things and seen things written of late which would make me almost suppose that the religious opinions of the people of England had undergone some sudden change, and that, instead of bowing before the name of Jesus, we were preparing to revive the worship of Moloch. I cannot believe that it is our duty to indulge in such a spirit.'" – Benjamin Disraeli, quoted in Douglas Reed's "The Controversy of Zion".

WHY FREEDOM IS NOT A SPECTATOR SPORT: CHINA'S GENOCIDE OF TIBET

by James Reed:

The Australian, 29/7/05, featured an article where aging Bob Hawke, former prime minister of Australia, "warned" business leaders that they must change their "condescending" attitude towards the Chinese if they are to succeed "in the world's biggest market". Hawke has advised companies seeking to enter the Chinese market. Hawke said that an attitude of "moral superiority" has to be eliminated. Business leaders have this attitude because of China's human rights record.

Hawke said: "The US talks about human rights ... we look at how long they were into their industrialisation (before considering human rights issues and black issues)".

Sorry 'silver hair' its not as simple as that. Consider China's treatment of Tibet. Chairman Mao's troops, the Chinese Peoples' Liberation Army took over the country 46 years ago. Today dissidents are executed or clubbed to death. Buddhist nuns are often sexually tortured. The Chinese are "modernising" the country, building airports, highways and railways. Tibet is a "strategic buffer" to the West and a vast store of mineral and energy wealth. Hawke is saying that to make a few bucks the West should ignore Tibet. On the contrary, Tibet is a living symbol of China's real ambitions and of the fate which awaits the West if China becomes No.1. Remember the lesson of "Pig Iron Bob" Menzies who sold Aussie steel to the Japanese in the 1930s, only to have it fired back at us in WW II.

THE MYTH OF McCARTHYISM by James Reed:

Each year in our high schools students study Arthur Miller's play "The Crucible". The play, on the surface is about the Salem witch hunt trials in America in colonial days, but as Miller has said, this is just a metaphor for McCarthyism. According to the Left, America in the late 1940s and early 1950s was in the grip of a paranoid "Witch Hunt" against Communists. Senator Joseph McCarthy and the House of UnAmerican Activities Committee falsely claimed, the Left says, that Communist spies were occupying key positions. Arthur Miller is cited by our teachers as telling the "truth" about the matter: "Practically everyone I knew stood within the conventions of the political left or centre; one or two were Communist party members, some were fellow-travellers, and most had a brush with Marxist ideas or organisations".

Miller also claims: "I have never been able to believe in the reality of these people being actual or putative traitors any more than I could be, yet others like them were being fired from teaching or jobs in government or large corporations". Miller also believes that Hollywood is guilt free as Hollywood "wrote not propaganda but entertainment ... most of it mindless".

Although this Left propaganda is still fed to high school students the truth is that everything that Miller proclaims is false. With the opening of the Moscow archives it has been known for some time that many of the "heroes" of the left of that period were KGB operatives. Many artists were members of the Communist Party. The black singer Paul Robson, praised by Miller as a champion of anti-racism, received the Stalin Prize in 1953 and after the dictator's death he signed a eulogy which contained the words: "Glory to Stalin. Forever will his name be honoured and beloved in all lands".

That such mythology is still perpetrated in our schools through the "teaching" (or indoctrination) of children through the study of trash such as Miller's "The Crucible", is a disgrace.

NOT ON MY BEHALF MR. HOWARD! by Betty Luks:

John Howard, we are informed, is to receive a US Woodrow Wilson Award and one of the judging panel was Condoleezza Rice from the Bush camp. No surprises there. Howard stated he would receive the award "on behalf of all the Australian people". I want him to know he does not receive it on my behalf.

TOP AWARD FOR (ANOTHER) SERVANT: In a "Letter to the Editor", West Australian, 25/8/05, Mr. Michael Macaulay of Bayswater, WA, put the matter thus:

"The announcement that John Howard is the recipient of a top US public service award, namely the highly coveted Woodrow Wilson Award, has confirmed what one has long suspected – that the Prime Minister of Australia is clearly a servant of the US.

Australia's policies are without doubt formulated in Washington and then carried out to the letter by our "ever grateful for photo opportunities" Prime Minister, who thrives on the false adulation showered on him by George Bush and members of his administration.

Section 44 (i) of the Australian Constitution clearly states that "any person who is under acknowledgment of allegiance, obedience or adherence to a foreign power, or is a subject or citizen or entitled to the rights or privileges of a subject or a citizen of a foreign power, shall be incapable of being chosen or of sitting as a senator or a member of the House of Representatives.

The Prime Minister's track record of allegiance, obedience and adherence to the US speaks for itself. His blind obedience to the US has seen Australia support unprovoked and illegal attacks on two sovereign nations thereby breaking the Geneva Convention, the United Nations Charter, the ANZUS Treaty and the Australian Constitution.

Under his leadership, Australia, in support of the US, has refused to ratify the Kyoto Protocol, declined to sign up for the International Criminal Court, refused to support a United Nations resolution condemning Israel's wall and allowed the US to hold two Australians prisoner at Guantanamo for years without any effort to have them freed.

That's why he has received this award. He's a good and faithful public servant to the US."

Comment Betty Luks: I would have been more specific and said he was a good and faithful servant of the powerful neocons surrounding – and directing George Bush.

WHO WAS WOODROW WILSON? Brilliantly described by Douglas Reed in "The Controversy of Zion"*, he was the idealistic schoolteacher brought to the Presidency in the United States to further the "Grand Design" of the semi-secret forces responsible for his election. The League of Nations, forerunner to the United Nations, was promoted by Wilson at the end of the First World War. It was under his presidency that the (private) Federal Reserve System was designed and set up to secure a stranglehold on the US financial system and the economy.

Woodrow Wilson was the creature of these semi-secret forces which ensured he got elected to carry out their plans. Douglas Reed wrote he was much impressed by the "uncanny knowledge" displayed by a leading Zionist of the day, Rabbi Stephen Wise, until he read his Private Papers. In 1910 Rabbi Wise told a New Jersey audience, "On Tuesday Mr. Woodrow Wilson will be elected governor of your State; he will not complete his term of office as governor; in November 1912 he will be elected President of the United States; he will be inaugurated for the second time as president."

The strategy and tactics used to get their creature elected were devised by one Edward Mandell House, Wilson's alter ego; and such tactics and strategies are now commonplace for political parties. Does the story sound familiar fellow Australian?

* "The Controversy of Zion" available from all League Book Services. It is a classic.

THE AMERICAN PROBLEM: Eric Butler perceived (OT 28/9/79) that with an over exaggerated self righteousness linked with a generous nature, the American people would prove to be "almost perfect material for involvement in grandiose and highly idealistic international projects".

"Thomas Jefferson," he wrote, "described the United States as 'a universal nation pursuing universally valid ideas', while his contemporary, John Adams, claimed that the United States was destined 'to govern the globe and introduce the perfection of man'.

"On one hand the United States made a special contribution to furthering the best features of Western Civilisation, while on the other hand the enormous wealth" was used as a base "by international financiers and their associates to work towards the age-old goal for a World State".

The United States was the base from which Wall Street international financiers operated to impose Bolshevism upon the unfortunate peoples of Russia. It was the base from which the attack on the old British Empire was sustained. It was the base from which blood transfusions for maintaining the Communist Empire were (and still are) financed.

The people of the United States, and their resources, were sucked into disasters like Vietnam – and now Afghanistan and Iraq.

Perhaps one of the most hopeful developments in the world crisis is that the American people are increasingly rejecting the concept of being used to create New World Orders.

But sadly, these powerful forces have now brought America to her knees (with Australia close behind) while at the same time building up their next 'centre of power' – China.

SUBVERTING THE RULE OF LAW by Ian Wilson LL.B.: Some of Britain's most eminent judges have warned politicians that they must not undermine the independence of the judiciary in the 'war on terrorism'. Blair had told the judges that he would renounce part of the European Convention on Human Rights. Lord Carlile of Berriew, a deputy High Court judge said: "If the government undermines the judiciary then the judiciary might be tempted to undermine the government. Lord Ackner said: "The judiciary will oppose attempts to undermine its independence. These suggestions that we [politicians and judges] are all a team and should pull together is such rubbish that the judiciary will ignore it".

Further conflict between parliament and the judiciary seems inevitable.

THE SUM OF ALL FEARS by James Reed: Gary McKinnon, a British computer engineer, brought the US defence systems to their knees. From a computer in his bedroom in North London, McKinnon hacked into the Pentagon army, navy and NASA systems. McKinnon put out of action Earle station in New Jersey responsible for the restocking of the Atlantic Fleet. Surely if there were terrorists out there, they would be doing it McKinnon's way rather than using planes and bombs. Why then haven't terrorists made use of cyber-attacks? Is it because terrorists are technically unsophisticated or is there another reason? Could cyber-terrorism be the shape of the future?

THE TERRORISM OF MULTICULTURALISM by James Reed: We have been waiting a long time to see any strong criticism of the multicultural madness in the Murdoch press. Perhaps the London bombings is a turning point. John Stone wrote in an article entitled "One Nation, One Culture", The Australian, 22/7/05, that what is at fault for the London bombings is that "successive British governments have persisted in the multicultural folly that a nation can be built on separate and equal cultures. Moreover, under Tony Blair in particular, Britain's immigration policies and border patrols against illegal immigration have become international jokes and now a national tragedy".

Stone goes on to point out that even those journalists from the Left, such as Pamela Bone "have questioned the whole basis of our official multicultural policies". Stone asks: "can we any longer pretend that our official multicultural policies, introduced by Gough Whitlam and assiduously pursued by all his successors, are in our national interest?"

More pointedly, how are we to handle our growing self-created Muslim problem?

Catch the Fire Ministries was found "guilty" under the Victorian "Racial and Religious Tolerance Act" for religious vilification of Islam for making claims, amongst others, that Islam plans to take over the world.

The Australian, 27/7/05, published an article by Daniel Pipes "Jihadist Motive No Secret" where he states: "The terrorists want to establish a Muslim world dominated by Islamic law". The terrorists want "a world dominated by Muslims, Islam and the Sharia... the establishment of a worldwide caliphate founded on Sharia".

The dogma of multiculturalism and its associated politically correct fear and legal sanctions involved in criticising cultures, religions and races is permitting terrorism to flourish.

Multiculturalism thus, is a form of terrorism itself.
