THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: "The appalling thing is not the tumult, but the design. Through all the fire and smoke, we perceive the evidence of calculating organisation. The managers remain concealed or masked, but there is no doubt about their presence from the first."

– Lord Action, "Essays on the French Revolution"

IRAN, ISRAEL AND NUCLEAR FIRECRACKERS: SUM OF ALL FEARS by James Reed:

Iran's president Mahmoud Ahmadinejah has recently said that the "tumour" of Israel should be moved to Europe to promote peace in the Middle East. The president has also doubted that the Jewish Holocaust occurred:

"Some European countries insist on saying that Hitler killed millions of innocent Jews in furnaces. They insist on it to the extent that if anyone proves something contrary to that, they condemn that person and throw them in jail." The Jewish Holocaust was not accepted as true by Iranians he said but "if we suppose it is true, our question to the Europeans is: is the killing of innocent Jewish people by Hitler the reason for their support to the occupiers of Jerusalem?"

If the Europeans are honest they should give some of their provinces – like in Germany, Austria or other countries – to the Zionists and the Zionists can establish their State in Europe. You offer part of Europe and we will support it. Why do they insist on imposing themselves on other powers and creating a tumour so there is always tension and conflict."

The President's "solution" for Middle East peace seems to be nuclear annihilation of Israel. A first strike against facilities which Iran has surely securely buried underground will be difficult. Israel will respond with possibly hundreds of nuclear bombs which Mordecai Vanunu alerted the world to 20 years ago, but which Israel denies that it has.

The nuclear and political fallout from such a conflict will threaten civilization in the northern hemisphere.

SPELLING IT OUT by James Reed: At long last Establishment acknowledgement that the present "whole word" approach to teaching reading is inferior to phonics based teaching. (The Australian, 9/12/05). The government is planning a back-to-basics approach to the teaching of reading, writing and comprehension following recommendations of the National Inquiry into the Teaching of Literacy. Some schools which have already introduced phonics – which is based on the relationship between letters and sounds – have found that their schools have gone from failing to meet State bench marks to near the top of the State.

The "whole word" approach is more suitable for Asiatic languages and no doubt our culturally traitorous generation of teachers have begun preparation for our children's "Asian future". The little blonde girl of 10 who lives next door to me, and who goes to a multicultural school (as most now are) can speak words in broken Chinese, but cannot write a simple letter to Santa in grammatically correct English.

*We recommend you read Jean M. Wallis' "The Disaster Road: Planned Failure & Psychological Seduction in the Schools", a 1986 publication. Twenty years ago, Mrs. Wallis was one of the few teachers who could see what the "agents of change" were about within the Australian education system – and rang the alarm bells. She understood the intentions and aims of those "agents of change" who became securely entrenched within the system.

As you read her book you will want to exclaim: "What she said would happen has indeed happened!" Price: $20.00 posted from all League Book Services.

PINTERING IT ON THEM by James Reed: Recent Nobel literature laureate, Harold Pinter, in a lecture broadcast to the Swedish Academy in Stockholm, said that US President George Bush and British Prime Minister Tony Blair should be frog marched before the International Criminal Court and tried for State terrorism for the invasion of Iraq.

In his lecture Pinter said: "We have brought torture, cluster bombs, depleted uranium, innumerable acts of random murder, misery, degradation and death to the Iraqi people." It's all in a day's work in "bringing freedom and democracy to the Middle East."

However Pinter, if he was truly deserving of Nobel Prize status, should have continued his critique and also attacked the regime of deposed Iraqi dictator Saddam Hussein – with arbitrary arrests and torture, organized rapes of prisoners, arbitrary executions and the burial of victims of the regime in mass graves.

Some authorities estimate that up to one million people are missing in Iraq, presumed dead. Saddam Hussein's genocidal Anfal campaign aimed to exterminate the Kurds in an act of ethnic cleansing. Chemical weapons were used against them and up to 180,000 Kurds died or disappeared between February and September 1988 alone.

The Iraqi situation is not a black-and-white one as the pro-American and con-American camps in this debate portray. It is a black-and-black situation consisting of various degrees of evil. It is not a choice between good and evil, but evil and evil. That is why there can be no real solution to the Iraqi situation. And I haven't even mentioned until now, the forbidden word, "Zionism".

TALKING SENSE ON BUSINESS MIGRATION by Robert Hart: South Australian State Labor backbencher John Rau, the Member for Enfield (soon to go to the polls), recently returned from a visit to China and 'unloaded' on the business migration programme. He wondered "what real value migrants of this type are for Australia", and "Seen through Chinese eyes, this is essentially an opportunity to buy a passport". "Investment is made in Australia with no necessary intention of that investment necessarily being productive, for example real estate."

In short Rau concluded business migration was "initially, at least, not primarily driven by SA's attractive business environment but rather a desire to secure Australian residency or citizenship". This is exactly what critics of the business migration scheme have been saying for some time.

AND WHAT ABOUT THE ASIAN SELL OUT BY JOHN HOWARD? by Robert Hart: And what can John Howard do as PM to prove that he is a better Asian puppet than his predecessors? According to last December 12th, 2005, The Australian, Howard will implement a new Colombo Plan as part of his contribution to the East Asian Community concept discussed at the ASEAN and East Asian summits. Hundreds of millions of dollars will be spent on the scheme. Meanwhile our own students must face financial hardships completing a degree and a massive HECS debt after its completion.

Why not scholarships for our own students? The answer is that the Colombo Plan was the first major assault on the White Australia policy, and the first step to make Australia a colony of Asia. Howard continues that tradition.

"RACISTS" REVOLTING: ON THE BATTLE FOR THE BEACHES by Tom Barnes: After seeing the late TV news on that day, December 12th, 2005, about the "racists" rioting at Cronulla Beach, it was not too difficult to predict what the newspapers would say the next day. I had written an article on December 11th, 2005 which now follows, in the section "Before". I return to the present in the following section called "After". I can't resist the human-all-too-human temptation of "I told you so":

1. BEFORE: December 10th, 2005

Violent clashes have apparently occurred between "Aussies" (Anglo-Australians) and what one girl (cited in The Australian, 10-11/12/05 p.10) called "wogs" (i.e. Lebanese) on the Southern Sydney beach of North Cronulla. The Australian, in its wisdom, featured a full colour photograph of five men of Middle Eastern extraction who "were enjoying the beach" – whilst fully clothed. These youths were poker faced and extremely well built.

One lad had an "Everlast" boxing gym singlet on and had huge arms and muscles where, as a lad I didn't even have places! Said one of these musclemen: "Everyone gives us crap because of the way we look." I doubt it – unless they had a small army behind them. One Cronulla resident was cited as saying that the fully clothed powerhouses were "not here to swim."

The main thrust of The Australian article was that someone, presumably an "Aussie" had sent out text messages urging "Aussies to attack Lebs and wogs". A Lebanese youth leader was cited as calling for the new sedition laws to be used against the author of the message.

A spokeswoman for Attorney-General Ruddock said that these laws have not yet been enacted but were "designed to target people who incited one group to violence against another". However the article also said that police are set to charge the author of the call-to-brawl text under existing laws, indicating that the use of the sedition laws is unnecessary. But as with race vilification laws, these laws will be used to keep the "Aussies" in their place in the multicultural fascist republic of "Australaisa". Of course I don't support the call-to-brawl texter who deserves punishment, but I know that the situation at Cronulla is more complex than the portrayal given in The Australian of the disadvantaged and discriminated-against ethnic who needs multicultural laws to be protected from "Aryan-Nazi Anglos". This perpetuates the myth of multiculturalism that the ethnic is a type of angel sent to us by god, to "enrich" us with their divine "diversity".

But such a myth is not a human reality. If our system were not founded upon anti-Anglo Saxon racism, it would be interesting to discover what "text" messages were being sent by the "prosecuted" ethnics. Such interception techniques were used in Sydney back in 2001 when ethnics were racially targeting Anglo-Australian girls for gang raping.

And while we are on this topic, have you ever wondered why tax audits by the ATO relentlessly target Anglos – yet it is an open secret that many ethnics established themselves in Australia en masse from the largesse of Arthur Calwell, and have operated a "cash-in-hand" economy that has made them rich? This includes a plethora of ethnics from tradesmen and fruit and vegetable folk through to white collar professions. Anglo-Australians since the end of World War II have become renters to ethnic landowners. Many, in only average paying jobs (up front), often have a number of houses while many Anglo-Australian couples struggle to own one home in a life-time.

It would be easy for the ATO to systematically show that the assets of such people couldn't be accounted for from their salary. The ATO could start the ball rolling by targeting one Australian settlement first – such as Griffith, New South Wales. But don't hold your breath while waiting for this to happen.

2. AFTER: DECEMBER 12th, 2005

When the Muslim race riots occurred recently in France, the media generally cried "French racism". When Blacks riot in America the media generally cries "White American racism". Rioters are "victims" driven to extremes by the 'racism' of the system. When White Europeans riot – and it is an extremely rare event – the cry is different. The attacks upon people of a Middle Eastern background were described by NSW Police Assistant Commissioner Mark Goodwin as "disgusting".

The Herald Sun 12/12/05 had the headline "Race Hate: A Shameful Day for Our Nation". The paper detailed attacks, brawls and slogans used by various Anglos in the mob, as did The Age: "it's time for a f---ing war, so join the army of the hard core".

The slogans – including "No more Lebs/Wogs", etc., etc. – are indeed racist slogans. The anger of the largely Anglo crowd was simply frightening to see. But why were these people angry and violent?

I want to play the "apologist" for the real oppressed. It has been said that a conflict such as this one has been brewing in Sydney for a number of years – at least since the 2001 racially motivated Lebanese gang rapes of about 50 women. Former detective, Tim Priest, in Quadrant of January-February 2004, pointed out that Lebanese gangs who control a substantial portion of Sydney' drug trade often bash Anglo males "for no other reason that that they are 'Skips', as they call Australians" (p.13).

And, he said: "There is a clear and definite link between attacks on our young men and women being racial as well as criminal." In the name of political correctness the Sydney police have and still do, ignore the situation. Is it "racist" to hypothesise that these events were the straws that broke the "Skips'" backs? The violence is not justified but it is understandable.
