THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

ONLINE PETITION:

Senator Barnaby Joyce, Leader of the Nationals in the Senate, 9th November 2009.

Today I have launched an online Petition designed to put maximum pressure on the Government to stop the Emissions Trading Scheme, (ETS). I have included the wording below, I would urge you to please go to my website www.barnabyjoyce.com.au and add your name.

This is most important, we are fast approaching the 11th hour and we have just a few weeks left to try and stop this ridiculous scheme. I urge you all to sign the petition as soon as you can.

*"To the Honourable President and members of the Senate in Parliament assembled:
The petition of the undersigned shows that we object to Australia adopting an Emissions Trading Scheme (ETS) and the Copenhagen Treaty as foreshadowed by the Rudd Government. Your petitioners ask that the Senate reject the Carbon Pollution Reduction Scheme, (CPRS)."*

PM RUDD SPEAKS TO INTERNATIONAL GROUP – LOWY INSTITUTE:

With headlines blazing: "Rudd wages war on Coalition climate deniers" Australians were to learn their PM Kevin Rudd "has upped the pressure on the Opposition over its emissions trading stance, accusing it of being full of climate change deniers intent on delaying action."

It is a key word our Kevin uses here: 'deniers', meaning they are in the same category as 'holocaust deniers'... Such unspeakable people! Don't they know the god of climate change will 'zap them' if they don't agree to what he wants to put in place? Never mind that it won't make one iota of difference to actual climate change. Mere human beings are such small fry when it comes to the earth's real climate control.

But let's continue: In that speech Mr Rudd accused the climate 'deniers' of wanting to: "destroy the Carbon Pollution Reduction Scheme at home and... destroy agreed global action on climate change abroad...."

In this issue: • Thought For The Week – Online Petition • PM Rudd Speaks To International Group – Lowy Institute • Do You Smell Another Fishy Scam In The Wind? I Do! • Does It Make You Stop And Think?

YOU ARE SO RIGHT MR. RUDD! THAT IS EXACTLY WHAT WE WANT TO DO!

But let's get one thing straight, you need to explain to the Australian people why you want to hand over the sovereignty of this nation to a world body with a bloated bureaucratic administration having control over every household in the land and over our industries, markets and finances. Are not Australians capable of 'cleaning up their own backyard' - should there be a need to do so – without giving away our sovereignty to some policed-controlled world tyranny?

Rudd continues: "The second part of our strategy is participation in global action to tackle climate change, including:

- ratifying the Kyoto Protocol;
- participating in global technology transfers – including Australian leadership in a global coalition to develop carbon capture and storage through the Australia-initiated Global Carbon Capture and Storage Institute; and
- strong engagement towards a new post-Kyoto global agreement.
- This was the platform we took to the Australian people at the election. (???) This is the program of action we have been prosecuting over the past two years. Yet the cornerstone of this program of action, the CPRS, still lies stymied in the Senate...
- It's been more than 30 years since the first World Climate Conference called on governments to guard against potential climate hazards.
- It's been 20 years since the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change was formed and produced its first report.
- 17 years ago, in 1992, the international community acknowledged the importance of tackling climate change at the Rio Earth Summit and created the United Nations Framework Convention on Climate Change.
- And the most recent IPCC scientific conclusion in 2007 was that "warming of the climate system is unequivocal" and the "increase in global average temperatures since the mid 20th century is very likely due to the observed increase in anthropogenic greenhouse gas concentrations." (Not so according to the latest scientific data available. Watch the video clip: <http://www.youtube.com/watch?v=PMe5dOgbu40>).
- This is the conclusion of 4,000 scientists appointed by governments from virtually every country in the world, and the term "very likely" is defined in the scientific conclusion of this report as being 90 per cent probable. (Mr. Rudd doesn't tell his reader that most of the 4,000 'scientists' were bureaucrats).

DO YOU SMELL ANOTHER FISHY SCAM IN THE WIND? I DO! by Betty Luks: I did a search through our own online On Targets – after all they span over forty years of reporting on this push for a New World Order. Worth studying are the following editions:

OnTarget Vol.28 – No.22... 12 June 1992. ... The "Earth Summit" in Rio de Janeiro,...

OnTarget Vol.28 – No.23... 19 June 1992... The "Mother of all Junkets", the Earth Summit in Rio De Janeiro, appears to have produced another costly international conference, and two more international 'treaties'. The long-term effect will include further psychological conditioning to solve problems (real or imagined) internationally, and another imperceptible move towards international controls. The Secretary General of "Earth Summit" was Maurice Strong, an avowed internationalist, world government advocate, and prominent member of the Club of Rome... Mrs. Kelly is lucky not to have done herself an injury in her hurry to sign the two new International conventions. The first is on limiting greenhouse gas emissions. There appears to have been no discussions on the quality of evidence for the thesis that man is causing global warming. This is regarded as an article of faith in the New Green Religion... these treaties are as far-reaching as the green extremists proposed, it is clear that they offer enormous opportunities for further centralised power in Australia...

OnTarget Vol.28 – No.37... 2 October 1992... Australia has signed the Rio Convention on climate change ...

Power & Authority & Water: "Agenda 21 was adopted by Australia at the Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro in 1992 (by 'Whiteboard' Ros Kelly [Labor].) It is 800 pages long, consists of 40 chapters, and is a comprehensive programme for the planning and management of the economic and social development of the entire world during the twenty-first century. Virtually every aspect of human existence is to be controlled under the document. Prime Minister Howard reaffirmed Australia's commitment to it when he signed the Millennium Declaration at United Nations headquarters in September 2000. Through ALGA, (Australian Local Government Association) local councils are now committed to its implementation through its local adaptation, Local Agenda 21.

Under Agenda 21 the United Nations will control through governments at national, state and local level, patterns of:-

- human consumption (what people eat)
- human habitats (where and how people are allowed to live)
- the planning and control of all development
- the composition of the atmosphere ('greenhouse gas' emissions)
- the planning and management of land use
- control of the utilisation of forests
- control of types and methods of agriculture
- control of areas set aside to protect biological diversity
- the management and use of water, and more.

In addition, ALGA is committed to "The adoption of sustainable resource management strategies, including greenhouse gas reduction" [i.e. the Kyoto Protocol]; "understanding Local government responsibility under Native Title Legislation", and "promoting reconciliation"; and to "adopting practices that will achieve social cohesion in a culturally diverse society" [i.e. Multiculturalism]."

OnTarget Vol.33 – No.44... It was A.L.P. Minister Ros Kelly who signed the Rio "earth-summit" treaty in 1992 on Australia's behalf...

OnTarget Vol.36 – No.39... One of these was to be the adoption of the Earth Charter, an updated version of the 1992 Earth Summit in Rio de Janeiro...

OnTarget Vol.38 – No.17... A 1992 study by the now defunct Economic Planning Advisory Committee (EPAC) ... by one of the most powerful and ruthless global multinationals, Rio Tinto... Australia has one of the highest levels of foreign corporate ownership in the world, and this means that much of the 'value-added' work is done offshore... The emphasis on foreign investors has angered some local manufacturers who say the Government is showing more interest in attracting new firms at the expense of existing ones..." (Sydney Morning Herald, 13/12/97). In fact, foreign corporate ownership was much higher than anticipated – over 90 percent.

John Howard and chairman of Goldman and Sachs: Could ever a sell-out be better explained? It had only been some eighteen months earlier – on June 7th, 1996 – that the newly-elected John Howard had faced the biggest gathering of investment bankers ever held in Australia in Sydney, where Mr. John Corzene, at that time chairman of Goldman Sachs, "a former central banker, was asked by the group to specify (to Prime Minister Howard – Ed) conditions for what he called the 'inherently blunt process that leaves many worthy initiatives without resources...' (The Australian Financial Review, 7/6/96).

And so the handout to foreign multinationals continued, while Australian industries went to the wall... But Australian companies also employ people. No handouts or tax incentives for them... Think on these things as the last vestiges of an Australian-owned Australia are mopped up, by permission of a Government that hasn't got the guts to stand for Australia...

OnTarget Vol.40 – No.8 ... sustainable development, including those set out in Agenda 21, agreed upon at the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development [Rio 1992]." ... Both the major political parties are committed to it. While a Labor government signed it, the Coalition government registered its commitment to its continued implementation at the Millennium Summit at United Nations Headquarters in New York on 8 September 2000. There, Prime Minister John Howard signed the Millennium Declaration, Article 22 of which states: "We reaffirm our support for the principles of sustainable development, including those set out in Agenda 21, agreed upon at the United Nations Conference on Environment and Development [Rio 1992]."

Lurching from Christmas into the New Year...Part 1. Time For Reflection, And The Omens Are Not Good. OnTargetBritain:

What Christopher Gill has identified in his address,... is the Ideological Struggle of World Revolution, as carried on in Western societies by the forces of Cultural Communism. Although the philosophies and politico-military methodology were developed in meticulous detail in the Soviet Union and Frankfurt-am-Main from the 1920s, this "virus" continues today in the form of Fabian, International Socialism. The serious battle is on for our very existence as a Nation, for the survival of our culture and traditions...It involves essentially the progressive dissolution of national boundaries, in all contexts, under the pressure of International Socialism as this has evolved in the United Kingdom from traditional Labour Party values in the form of "New" Labour. This also embraces a confusion of national identity and interests all too often identified with, as well as a consequence of, inadequate perceptions of what are traditionally defined as Right-Wing, "conservative" ideals. In the end it is about Power exercised by an Elite, an Elite of global dimensions which remains conveniently amorphous and riven by its own undercurrents.

DOES IT MAKE YOU STOP AND THINK? Going back over what we reported in On Target, 5th December 2003, should make Australians stop and think about the latest scam... oops! should I say 'scheme'? At the time, the fallout from the Enron scandal flooded the news media. At the time, Molly Ivins, from workingforchange.com wrote:

"It's Our Corporate Ethics Rotting From The Top Down", and suggested, "the epitaph for this entire era should be, "The fish rots from the head down... So far, every business scandal starting with Enron has displayed the same features -- investors ripped off, pension-holders ripped off, employees often left with nothing and executives walking away with millions. Those at the top of large corporations who screw up completely and create total disasters walk away with millions under golden parachute arrangements..."

The 'energy' company Enron had become a broking business: "Government deregulation had seen 'energy company' Enron develop as a broking business, i.e., matching buyers and sellers of energy. It grew into the seventh largest U.S. company with $100-billion in revenues..."

Government and business were, and are, very close - far too close. Former U.S. president Bill Clinton helped golfing buddy, Enron's Ken Lay, to secure a $3 billion power plant project in India. Four days before the deal went through, Enron magnanimously gave $100,000 to the Democratic party. (Source: The Enron Photo Album or Axis of Corporate Evil).

I needn't remind the reader that these government-corporate-banking scams later included the sub-prime mortgage-derivatives scams. Sadly, not even the 'moral guardians' of the nation could tell the difference between a scam and a scheme - with the Anglican Diocese of Sydney losing $100 million in investments.
