THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: "The essential Western "European, whether he be an Englishman, a Frenchman, a German, an American or South African, is afflicted with a form of soul-sickness which undermines his morale, stifles imagination and enterprise and inhibits mental activity in all its forms, an illness which naturally varies in intensity according to personal circumstances. Unable to be true to himself, the Western European has become the victim of cultural and political distortion, the main symptoms as experienced by the individual being the lack of a sense of direction and purpose; in other words, a haunting sense of the futility of existence, all concentrated finally in an intense desire, most keenly felt by young people, to kick over and destroy the prevailing order... What we need, if we are to do ourselves any good, is to gain an insight into the etiology of it, tracing with precision the nature of the distortion and the causes which lie immediately behind the symptoms..."

After all, how can we hope to be able to identify and understand a distortion of moral and political identity if we do not already possess in our minds a reasonably clear picture of the pattern before it was distorted?

The entire known history of the human race will confirm that man is essentially a social animal and that he needs, as one of the first requirements of his moral health, the security provided by a sense of community or sense of belonging, which is something he has never been able to find hitherto except in some circumscribed group or community made up of individuals much the same as himself...

The science of anthropology has had to be falsified and smothered to a truly astonishing degree to prevent information of this kind being universally known and understood. Many of those sciences whose purpose it is to help man understand himself anthropology, psychology, genetics, etc., are in the same state of eclipse today as were astronomy and other sciences in the Middle Ages and for the same reason: that their findings threaten the foundations of existing power structures, whether these be religious or political or financial."

SURVIVING ENOCH POWELL'S PROPHECY – National Policy Institute U.K.: A few simple comments on Islam and remembering Enoch Powell...and his prophetic words!

For friends abroad – all this commentary below is quite true! Brigadier Powell was a good man and able to see what was coming. How, I don't know, but he was right and he was castigated and sacked, for his comments, back in the 1960s! Such is the way our so-called civilised society treats our "Wise Men" these days! Posted on May 22, 2010:

In this issue: • Thought For The Week • Surviving Enoch Powell's Prophecy • And Now To Australia's Future • Multiculturalism And The Times Square Bomber • Guess Who's Coming To Stab You • On Locking Up The Christians To Protect The Lions • Weird Occurrences On Saturn And Jupiter?

Enoch warned: "Then there are the 'no-go' areas ... areas in the United Kingdom where the Queen's writ does not run ... If these areas were described as what they are-namely, pockets of territory occupied by the enemy, as surely as if they had been captured and held by parachute troops-then perhaps it would be realised how preposterous is the situation. In fact the policy of refraining from the re-establishment of civil government in these areas is as wise as it would be to leave enemy posts undisturbed behind one's lines."

This situation has been brought to mainland Britain by the elites: People are too frightened to speak about what is being done to them and their families or express their fears for the future. If they live near immigrants they blot anxiety out and pretend everything is alright. If someone gets mugged or raped nearby they are relieved because it did not happen to them. They avoid subways and many other hides for muggers that the planners built into their stupid housing schemes.

You only have to go a couple of miles from affected areas and people are oblivious to what is happening because the elites are browbeating them into thinking things are fine. If they have had experience of the reality when they go to unaffected areas they won't speak about it for fear of condemnation. They are frightened to look into the future and what natural care they have for their children has to be repressed.

As Enoch Powell put it: "Have you ever wondered, perhaps, why opinions which the majority of people quite naturally hold are, if anyone dares express them publicly, denounced as 'controversial', 'extremist', 'explosive', 'disgraceful', and overwhelmed with a violence and venom quite unknown to debate on mere political issues? It is because the whole power of the aggressor depends upon preventing people from seeing what is happening and from saying what they see."

There are characteristic features of invasion: immigrants and their descendants are taking over our communities and our religious symbols are being replaced mainly by Muslim symbols – churches converted to mosques and Christians forbidden to wear crucifixes at work! Contemporary elites must know what Sharia Law is and are aware of the widespread child-rape of young British girls by Muslim communities yet they are delivering our women into servitude under Sharia Law. Many evil judges campaign for it.

In December 2008 the Lord Chief Justice, Lord Phillips, told the London Muslim Council he was willing to have Sharia law in this country, so long as it did not conflict with the laws of England and Wales, or lead to the imposition of severe physical punishments. In the same month Lady Butler-Sloss, England's first female Appeal Court judge, called for ministers to change the law for Muslims, so that a decree absolute could not be issued by a civil court until evidence had been obtained of a Sharia divorce. Delivering women to Sharia Law is a cruel wicked act. This is encouraged by dishonourable Christian leaders like the Archbishop of Canterbury.

Enoch warned of The Enemy Within and that our internal enemies could not believe their luck with mass immigration. It gave them the forces of revolution. It is not outside forces that threatened us but traitors who pretend to act in our interests while they surrender us to Islam. This process can be researched under "Eurabia". The Revolutionary Vanguard is not poised to strike but in power!

What was to come was predicted by Enoch who saw similar symptoms in Northern Ireland: "Yet even though that picture is dark and darkening, there is one factor which has not yet been injected... That factor is firearms and explosives. With communities which are so divided nothing can prevent the injection of explosives which we know perfectly well from experience in other parts of the United Kingdom and the world. At first there will be horrified astonishment, and inquiry as to what we have done wrong that such things should be happening. Then there will be feverish endeavour to find methods to allay the supposed grievances which lie behind the violence. Then follows exploitation by those who use violence of the ascendancy they have thus gained over the majority and over authority.

The thing goes forward, acting and reacting, until a position is reached in which – I shall dare say it – compared with those areas, Belfast today will seem an enviable place."

The open war begun on July 2005 when Young Muslims blew up London buses. There are hundreds of investigations being undertaken into Muslim "terrorists" but the elites are still importing them at half a million a year!"

AND NOW TO AUSTRALIA'S FUTURE? Victoria sets loose its discrimination witchhunters Andrew Bolt, Herald Sun, 17/5/2010: "Victoria's equal opportunity police were just not getting enough complaints to work with. So this foolish Labor Government this week unleashed them to go invent some more, passing even more oppressive Equal Opportunity laws: Deputy Premier and Attorney-General Rob Hulls welcomed the passage of the new reforms, saying they ensured Victorians benefited from equal opportunity laws fit for the 21st century..."

He said the new laws would help stamp out entrenched and systemic discrimination against minority groups by giving the Victorian Equal Opportunity and Human Rights Commission the ability to investigate persistent and systemic discrimination without first requiring a complaint to be made.

Let me show you what kind of divisive thing you may now get, using as an example a case from the commission's own files: (The Equal Opportunity Commission) hired May Helou, head of the Islamic Council of Victoria's women's support group. Her job, the EOC said, was to ensure "Arabic and Muslim communities are aware of their rights under anti-discrimination laws" and give "support to people wishing to make a complaint".

The hounds had been set loose... In March 2002, Helou told Muslim converts at the ICV headquarters of a seminar on jihad to be run by Catch the Fire and asked them to go. Said one later, she didn't want the meeting to be held "without any Muslims present". So when (pastors) Nalliah and Scot got up to speak at their seminar about jihad, they had in front of them 250 born-again Christians - and three people they did not know were Muslims.

And back at the EOC, Helou waited for the three to call with their complaint.... The pastors were at long last tried at VCAT before Justice Michael Higgins... and some curious things soon became clear. First, even one of the converts had to admit that Scot, who'd been born in Pakistan and got degrees there in theology and applied mathematics, actually understood the Koran far better than did the people complaining he'd misquoted it.

Second, as I wrote at the time, many of the complaints accused Scot of no more than quoting the Koran accurately...

The verdict was also odd. The pastors were found guilty of vilifying Muslims even though the judge identified only one thing Scot had said that was factually wrong: he'd given the wrong birth-rate for Muslims here. And, the judge, added, he'd failed to quote a verse that showed Allah was merciful. Higgins said the real problem with the seminar was that it was not "balanced"...

The Labor and Green politicians who voted for this legislative bullying are grossly impertinent and irresponsible. The consequences, when they come, must not be dismissed as unforeseen or even unintended. Everyone should know they've been predicted from the start."

Further reading (but not for the fainthearted): "The Camp of the Saints" by Jean Raspail, 1973. Surely an apocalyptic novel? A philosophical dissection of the erosion of Western civilisation taking on whole clusters of polemical issues – over-population, race, the Third World and the character of liberal thought and sentiment. A special price for Australian readers, $28.00 including postage.

MULTICULTURALISM AND THE TIMES SQUARE BOMBER by Peter Ewer: Before the arrest of Pakistani immigrant Faisal Shahzard in the Times Square bombing attempt, the liberal press, without any evidence, pushed the idea that he was white. That was real news. But after his arrest the story dies. It is a pity because Shahzard should have been a pin-up boy for multiculturalism: he had a typical American life, a wife, a good job and came from a well-off Pakistani family. So all of the usual liberal-left excuses for terrorism are not applicable. The deeper truth at work here is the ultimate failure of the multicultural, multiracial society, which will always self-destruct.

GUESS WHO'S COMING TO STAB YOU? Here's a story that has "everything": "Stabbed Nurse Sponsored Man", The Australian, 14/5/2010, p.3). A Sydney nurse sponsored a man. Police are questioning him (the man cannot be named for "legal reasons") over the stabbing to death of the nurse.

He proclaims his innocence and has said "I'm the foreigner, I'm the one with the colourful background. Whenever there's been finger pointing in the past, it's the new guy, it's the strange guy, the guy they don't know anything about." What can we say?

ON LOCKING UP THE CHRISTIANS TO PROTECT THE LIONS by Chris Knight: A Christian preacher was handing out leaflets to shoppers in a Cumbrian (U.K.) shopping mall. He stated to a passer-by and a "gay" police community support officer that as a Christian he believed that homosexuality was a sin. He was arrested and charged for using abusive or insulting words or behaviour contrary to the Public Order Act 1986 (U.K.). The preacher said: "My freedom was taken away on the hearsay of someone who disliked what I said and I was charged under a law that doesn't apply."

This is a sick society, one which is turning on itself much like people on certain drugs scratch and slash at their flesh. The Public Order Act was not meant for this purpose – or at least that is what was said at the time of the passing of the Act.

In the U.S. a third year law student at Harvard Law School has been "crucified" for saying in an e-mail to friends that African-Americans may be less intelligent than Whites. The thought police are taking action: action about a private individual making a private remark. The storm troopers of political correctness also march down your street.

WEIRD OCCURRENCES ON SATURN AND JUPITER? by Chris Knight: No, Kevin Rudd is not responsible for these weird cosmological events – if they are real (and if he is real, not some sort of politically correct, social construction). I write this inspired by the words which I just read by David Burchell ("The Catastrophic Cleverness of the Political Class", The Australian, 3/5/2010, p.24) on Rudd's misperception of his public image:

"No doubt we are all dupes to our self-image, and underestimate how keenly people see through us. But in Rudd's case the distance between public opinion and his living nurtured self-image is vertigo-inspiring." Indeed – the opinion polls show that Julia Gillard is rising to knock Rudd over and become our first dyed-red haired socialist PM – but only for a little while until she too is blown over to be replaced by Penny Wong, our first Asian PM. Watch the changes then as Australia Asianises at light speed. Soon I will have to write for the League in Mandarin!

As for Saturn and Jupiter it seems that one of Jupiter's red stripes has suddenly disappeared and that there is a large rotating hexagonal structure circling the north pole of Saturn. The hexagon is 60 miles deep and 15,000 miles wide. Perhaps there is a political conspiracy in space. If so, Kevin Rudd may have a place to go when the Labor Party get out the traditional back-stabbing dagger.
