THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

"The eternal "I AM" made his temporary home with the most immemorial of all human settlers upon the cultivated earth since man had left his primitive childhood... He made his home among the great home-makers of all civilised nations in all periods, and who alone maintain that personal intimacy with the earth from which one civilisation after another releases itself to its final destruction... God and his ways are to be looked for in nature and in anything fundamentally human..."

— H.J. Massingham, "The Tree of Life"

"There are two symbols, bread and money; and there are two mysteries, the Eucharistic mystery of bread and the satanic mystery of money. We are faced with a great task; to overthrow the rule of money and to establish in its place the rule of bread. Money divorces spirit and world, spirit and bread, spirit and labour.

In the symbol of bread, Spirit becomes one with the flesh of the world. It is completely wrong to base the spiritual life on the old antithesis of spirit and flesh."

— Nikolai Alexandrovich Berdyaev, 1874-1948, Russian religious and political philosopher.

ANZAC DAY – "CHINESE POPPIES CAUSE RIFT" LETTER TO EDITOR: I consider it ludicrous that some people are complaining about the Anzac Day poppies being made in China. After all, the Anzac soldiers who died in Gallipoli were mowed down by bullets the British arms manufacturer Vickers had sold to the Turks just prior to the conflict. Surely, national boundaries should not be allowed to interfere with trade and profits.

— Erwin Alber, Warkworth, New Zealand, Sunday Herald (N.Z.), 24 April 2011.

Editor's comment: The League of Rights held a 'Flag, Crown and Constitution' stand at the Adelaide Royal Show for quite a number of years and the only Australian flags we could buy were made in communist China. Oh well! Maybe the time is coming when our defence needs can be bought only in China too – along with their nuclear warheads, tanks, guns and standing armies! You don't think they have armed themselves to the hilt because they like to look good during May Day Military Parades – do you?

CHINESE WARSHIPS HEADING FOR OUR PORTS? The Sydney Morning Herald reports: CHINESE warships could be heading to Australian ports this year after the Prime Minister, Julia Gillard, took "a few small steps" towards military transparency and co-operation with President Hu Jintao. Ms. Gillard told the Herald last night her key meeting with Mr. Hu was "friendly in demeanour".

Western defence analysts are also concerned about the potential for a maritime accident triggering war, given China's increasingly assertive conduct and the absence of the kind of maritime incident protocols that defused incidents between the U.S. and the Soviet Union during the Cold War. Ms. Gillard said neither Mr. Hu nor the Premier, Wen Jiabao, raised any concerns about Australia's military relationships with the U.S., or its allies, and nor did she raise concerns about the People's Liberation Army.

Instead, Ms. Gillard and Mr. Hu yesterday moved to build greater military co-operation including livefire exercises at sea and Chinese warships dock in Australia. Read more...

CAPITALISM, MARTIANS AND THE NEW WORLD ORDER by Nero (of Mars): How could my old Marxist buddy Hugo Chavez down there in Venezuela be so stupid and let the cat out of the bag? Well, the Martian. The silly old commo said in a moment of weakness, while waxing lyrical about diminishing water resources, that perhaps civilisation had existed on Mars but capitalism and imperialism may have finished it off. Well, he was on the right track.

As one of the last of the Martians living here on Earth and walking among you in disguise, let me tell you that we killed ourselves off just as you are doing - through economic suicide, bringing in masses of indigestible guest workers from Jupiter and taking in asylum seekers from Uranus. In the end, liberalism, multiculturalism and cosmopolitanism just eroded our planet away until nothing was left but a burnt out mass of red sand. And you my friends are going the same way. My fellow Martian, Julia Gillard (Julia the Red, we used to call her) will, unfortunately, see to that.

THE CAMP OF THE SAINTS: SOON TO PLAY AT A SUBURB NEAR YOU! by James Reed:

Jean Raspail's novel The Camp of the Saints – about the immigration swamping of Europe – appears to be occurring across the West. Thus we find, even in the Murdoch press, the article "No Stemming the Wave of Boats" (The Australian, 29 March, 2011, p.1) which begins: "Boatloads of refugees are arriving on Australia's northern coast. It is being described as an invasion and a flood and there is talk of the "yellow peril". However the boatloads of refugees are not Asian but Middle Eastern although the quoted description referred to the 1977 influx of Vietnamese boatpeople. With the Labor government dropping Howard's "Pacific solution", which processed asylum seekers in Nauru and Manus Islands, the trickle of boats has reached flood proportions as "people smuggling appears to be an unstoppable force". This is of course true so long as Australia is seen as a "soft touch".

The present wave of asylum seekers are primarily illegal migrants rather than refugees.

Greg Sheridan ("ALP Goes to Water as Boats Threaten Sovereignty", The Australian, 24 March, 2011, p.14) is right on this issue. Present ALP "soft touch" policy has led to an increase in asylum-seeker applications to Australia by 76%. In the West in 2009 there was a decline in asylum-seeker applications but not for Australia. Sheridan notes that about 45% of our illegal aliens had spent over three months outside of their country of origin and of that 45%, 88% of them had spent a year. Thus there was a no 'U.N.-derived flight from persecution'. These people just want to migrate to Australia. But as I see it, the message given by the 'Big Australia' ideology which fuels our legal migration program is that Australia is largely empty and welcomes migrants, providing, I should add, that these migrants are not white. Australia has gone from the White Australia Policy to the Non-White Australian Policy.

In Europe the National Front's Marine Le Pen's popularity has arisen because many Europeans feel that a Camp of the Saints scenario is being played out. Thus boats containing hundreds of Africans set sail for Europe not containing refugees but people wanting a better life. ("Biblical Exodus' from Africa Feeds Anti-Immigration Rhetoric", March 17, 2011, at <http://www.bloomberg.com/news...>) Why then stop these boats?

Libya's Gaddafi (Daily News, 7 March 2011) put his finger on the spot when he said: "There are millions of blacks who could come to the Mediterranean to cross to France and Italy and Libya plays a role in securing the Mediterranean". His son added: "Libya may become the Somalia of North Africa, of the Mediterranean. You will see the pirates of Sicily, in Crete, in Lampedusa. You will see millions of illegal immigrants. The terror will be next door".

I am beyond believing that our slave masters are mistaken in their cosmopolitan ideology and are blinded to the logical consequences of their policies. On the contrary, I think that they know that ecological/national disaster does lie in store. They welcome this even though it means their own destruction as our civilisation crumbles from the multitude of crises confronting us. I think that they are nihilists who are bored with riches and want to die, so long as the entire planet crashes with them.

MULTICULTURALISM AND ISLAM: WHAT TOOK YOU SO LONG, GREG? by James Reed:

It is not too hard to find true-believers in Australian immigration and multiculturalism. Thus in the A Sustainable Population for Australia Issues Paper, in the Demographic Change and Liveability Panel Report, chaired by Professor Graeme Hugo of the University of Adelaide we find:

"Australia has experienced a profound transformation since World War II from an overwhelmingly Anglo-Celtic society to one of the most multicultural of nations... This diversity has delivered many dividends to the Australian economy, society and culture and the presence of significant communities from over 100 countries in Australia has 'hardwired' Australia into the global economy. Much remains to be done in terms of social inclusion of Australia's diverse communities". (p.43) ("We have a problem and not just with African beauty contests" says Andrew Bolt here: http://blogs.news.com.au/heraldsun/andrewbolt/index.php/heraldsun/comments/we_have_a_problem_and_not_just_with_african_beauty_pageants/)

There it is in a nutshell. An uncritical acceptance of the demographic displacement of Anglo-Celts, the connection of multi-ethnicism to globalisation and the social agenda of multiculturalism. Of course there is no mention of the costs of this program of dispossessing the once majority ethnic group of Australia.

What about ethnic crime gangs? Well here the standard view is that "ethnic crime waves break as new communities settle in" ("Migrant Groups Going Gang Busters", The Australian, 9 March 2011, p.11) and it is all because the migrant groups experience "a lack of social and economic services and moral support" ("Lack of Proper Support for New Migrants 'Fuels Ethnic-Based Crime Surges", The Australian, 8 March, 2011, p.3) Thus, ethnic groups are not more criminally inclined but rather they don't get enough benefits. Incredible: the benefits received today outweigh those given to other groups in history who did not form ethno-racial crime groups. Other ethno-racial crime groups belong to ethno-racial groups who have performed well economically, but have these groups deeply entrenched within their society.

Greg Sheridan, "How I Lost Faith in Multiculturalism", The Weekend Australian (Inquirer), 2-3 April, 2011 begins with the large quote: "A middle-aged white woman emerged alone from the station. Two strong young men of Middle Eastern appearance began taunting her before spitting at her and walking away laughing. She wiped the spittle off of her face and hurried off." Sheridan begins by saying that he had supported multiculturalism for decades but now believes that the "European experience" has shown that this policy is "doomed to fail". Sheridan believes that there is a problem with large-scale Muslim migration: "the only people who don't think there is a problem with Islam are those who live on some other planet", he says. As numbers grow, Australia may have the same problems that are now seen in Europe.

It is interesting to note that a "Robert Manne" of Melbourne (The Australian, 4 April, 2011, p.15) who may or not be the Professor Robert Manne, attempts to refute Sheridan by the philosophical trick of replacing "Middle Eastern" in his opening quote by "Jewish". Then we have the anti-Semitic statement that the white woman was spat on by "Two strong men of Jewish appearance". Then seemingly victorious Manne concludes, "Such a quote would not have been out of place in Julius Streicher's notorious anti-semitic Nazi periodical, Der Sturmer". But would it be anti-Semitic to say this if it was true? And in any case, it was not Jews who did the spitting, but "Two strong men" of "Middle Eastern appearance". Manne's criticism of Sheridan therefore fails.

This is an interesting observation because Sheridan has been a conservative anti-racist, a critic of Pauline Hanson who essentially made the same criticism of Multiculturalism. In any case, Sheridan is essentially adopting the common sense approach to multiculturalism that Professor Blainey adopted. Further, Islam migration is the logical conclusion of the same "Big Australia" immigration that Sheridan has championed. And if he is right about Islam, then this is a reductio ad absurdum of his entire position.

RINEHART'S CALL FOR CHEAP ASIAN LABOUR by James Reed: Here is the true face of Australian capitalism. Australia's richest woman, Gina Rinehart, has called for thousands of unskilled "guest workers" from Asia to help in mining in Australia's north. ("Rinehart Calls for Asian Guest Workers", The Australian, 10 March, 2011, p.5) And better yet she describes her proposal to bring in cheap labour as a "humanitarian" move aimed at helping poverty stricken people in Asia".

Now, wait a minute Gina! Isn't mining now a high tech industry employing things called ... machines? Aren't the days of the pick and shovel out? Wouldn't the migrants just shoot through to the cities - unless the proposal is to wire them in? And if you are so "humanitarian", why take "cheap" labour - why not pay decent wages to help the Asian poor? What then, would be the point?
