THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK:

Financial Credit Versus Real Credit: We must not let the ruling elite panic us into a world 'currency' as 'the markets' continue to wobble and threaten to collapse under the present debt-burden. We were told to 'consider the lilies of the field, they neither sow nor reap - and yet Solomon in all his glory (Money Power of the time) wasn't arrayed like one of the lilies...'. What does that mean for us in this present situation? Take time to watch Jeremy Lee as he speaks of the vital difference between the 'house of cards' (financial credit) and the real credit of our nation(s). The real credits are the lilies of the field. - <http://www.alor.org/MOV/Financial%20Credit%20versus%20Real%20Credit.mov>

This paper "argues that, in contemporary market economies, most production is debt financed. In order to pay off these debts, there is a necessity for economic growth that results in enormous waste of human effort and a misuse of the earth's resources..." - "Towards a New Approach to Income Distribution and Environmental Sustainability" by Frances Hutchinson and Brian Burkitt University of Bradford U.K. 1999 - <http://douglassocialcredit.com/resources.php>

THE GILLARD GOVERNMENT'S CLIMATE CHANGE PROPAGANDA: This morning I received the government's climate change propaganda and we can see from the second page:-

- 9 in 10 households are expected to be affected and will receive some kind of support... read that again... it is 90% affected!
- Over 1 million extra Australians will no longer need to lodge a tax return ... hard to pay tax if you have no money because government has taken all!!
- Almost 6 million households will be assisted to meet their average price impact.
- Over 4 million households will get assistance that is at least 20 per cent more than their average price impact. Vote buying/snake oil!

It looks like the THICK edge of the wedge of the socialist welfare state... the socialists are not under the bed but IN the bed and if you know anything of bedroom antics then you know what is coming next!

You can find more at www.cleanenergyfuture.gov.au and download the booklet "What a carbon price means for you" and I warn you, it is the greatest load of rubbish/propaganda you is likely to come across. So, beware of "redheads" bearing tax breaks and start opposing BIG OPPRESSIVE government NOW. – Lou Cook, Numurkah, Victoria, 2011.

Axe the Tax Action: Here are two effective ways that the Galileo Movement endorses to protest against the threatened carbon dioxide tax:

1. When one of the Gillard/Combet 4 million booklets with its promises of "carbon" tax compensation arrives, don't open it, just mark it "return to sender". To be absolutely sure it can't be refused by Australia Post, put a stamp on it.

If it comes as a junk mail leaflet, put it (or part of it) in an envelope and send it to: The Hon. Greg Combet, Minister for Climate Change, House of Representatives, Parliament House, Canberra, A.C.T., 2600. A hundred thousand or more of such items in the mail must give a message to our Government that would be hard to ignore.

2. Another good protest move is to join Barnaby Joyce's petition by clicking on the following (Politicians do take notice of numbers (remember the effectiveness of the anti CPRS/ETS campaign in 2009)::

Help us make our voices heard! Send this notice on to as many people as you can.

THE MARCH OF THE ECO-POLICE; IT'S ENOUGH TO TURN A BLUE HELMET GREEN by

James Reed: Here is the next big, oppressive thing from the U.N.: climate change peacekeeping (Natural News, July 21, 2011) Switching their blue helmets to green, the U.N. New World Order army will wage "peace" in a world of shrinking resources. As Mike Adams points out "This would give the U.N. justification to place a "peacekeeping" force on U.S. [and Australian] soil of course. Virtually the entire U.S. Southeast from Texas all the way to DC is currently sweltering under a severe heat wave combined with a hundred-year drought in many areas. Under the U.N's. new "climate change peacekeeping initiatives, if crop failures result in riots, they could drop in a few thousand U.N. troops – all wearing GREEN helmets – and then explain they're here to save us from "conflicts caused by shrinking resources"."

THE LIES OF LIBERALISM by Chris Knight: This classic illustration of the insanity of liberal creations such as multiculturalism comes from View From the Right, "What Led to Texas Terrorist's Arrest?" The reference is to Khalid Ali-M Aldawsari, a Saudi terrorist living in Texas on a student visa. He contacted a North Carolina chemical supply company to purchase a large quantity of chemicals used in explosives. Someone in the company was suspicious and contacted the FBI. They investigated the Muslim and he was arrested.

It was President George W. Bush who put into place anti-Muslim profiling and anti-discrimination legislation which could lead to the company being sued. And it was the intellectually and grammar-challenged Bush who ordered an increase in student visas for Saudis. This example well illustrates the self-destructing nature of liberal ideology.

ASK THE WRONG QUESTIONS – GET WRONG ANSWERS by Wallace Klinck: (The U.S.) "Debt ceiling" legislation is a fraud and a chimera: State debts have been expanding exponentially for our purposes, since the fraudulent establishment of the Bank of England in 1694. ("The Enemy Within" by Eric D. Butler available Heritage Book Services.) Nations require a growing source of money (in the modern age, viz., bank credit) in order not only to function, but to progress, and money today is only issued as a debt through bank lending. (listen to Jeremy Lee here: <http://www.alor.org/Media.html>)

Certain critics are essentially correct in pointing out that such legislation does not at all accomplish its stated aims. It cannot – unless the public policy-makers decide to shut down the nation's economy with accompanying general ruination leading to blood in the streets.

Moreover, "reckless" Government spending is unavoidable and inevitable because a fundamental defect exists in the financial system which leads to an ever widening chasm between consumer incomes and industrial costs and prices. Increasingly redundant, irrelevant and destructive activity is required in order to feed "incomes" into this bogus financial chasm, so that goods can be sold and industry may continue to recover its costs and function as a provider of goods and services.

Of course this necessarily requires increased physical waste, continuous inflation of the general price level, increasing debt and taxation to service it (with accompanying expansion of state intervention) and increasing economic insecurity as technology (quite properly) replaces human input into production processes.

So long as we maintain the current defective system of finance we have not seen anything yet. We are given a choice of being shot or boiled in oil and the time has long since passed when the general public must call an end to this monstrous fraud and abuse with its ultimate goal of centralised world political and economic power.

The monopoly of credit creation as debt by the banking system must be broken by a supplementary flow of debt-free consumer credit introduced extraneously into the price-making system, in order that the latter may be properly balanced with adequate effective consumer demand, to allow all goods to be obtained with falling retail prices and without debt as these goods emanate from the production line. A mass production system requires a mass distribution system in order to function.

The question of derivatives and debt-financed speculation must not be allowed to cloud our understanding of the more fundamental defect in the basic price-system, where, due to erroneous cost-accounting the existing price-system generates financial costs and prices in an ever greater volume relative to its distribution of effective consumer income capable of liquidating those costs of production – a chasm which expands increasingly with the replacement of human labour by non-human factors of production in the modernizing economy.

THE IMF AND THE FINANCIAL RAPE OF NATIONS by Mrs. Susan Knight: Dominique Strauss-Kahn, one day head of the International Monetary Fund and someone expected to be France's next (Socialist) president, is now in a New York gaol on rape charges. What is interesting about his attitude is how he thought he could just force his grubby attentions on some female immigrant. It is all symbolic; symbolic of the way the financiers treat the little people of the world. I, for one, hope that justice is done. A good start certainly has been made. Finally, note as well how there is for these elites no problem in being a financier and a socialist. This well proves what Eric Butler always said about capitalism and socialism being two sides of the one coin.

FREEDOM is the RIGHT to CHOOSE or REFUSE one thing at a time by Betty Luks: Sorry Senator Joyce, you seem to be trying so hard, but it's all smoke and mirrors from politicians these days. It is not enough that you put such efforts in to 'fighting' the carbon tax – but do nothing about exposing the present fraudulent money system impoverishing us all. What a joke it is to read the headlines that U.S. President Obama is close to working out a deal with the fraudulent bankers. What's the deal? The deal is the American government can increase its debt-ceiling-limit, in order to 'get out of debt-jail' and continue governing, by borrowing more debt. And who are the suckers who will have to pay back not only the borrowed money but the compound interest as well? Why the same suckers as those Julia Gillard has in her sights for her carbon taxes.

Please listen carefully to Jeremy Lee on the "New World Order and Global Debt" (1992) and then tell your fellow Australians what you are actually fighting for!

I listened once more to Mark Steyn's message to Andrew Bolt. Mark takes us all back to Magna Carta and hence to our British history and why the Barons were willing to 'take on' King John (along with his foreign 'occupation force' at the time) even unto death.

An important DVD "War Crimes Threat to Christian Justice": In 1991 Canadian Barrister Douglas Christie came to Australia at the invitation of the League of Rights to explain what Australians could expect if they were negligent enough to let their politicians insert 'human rights' legislation into the legal framework of this land. Along with other Commonwealth countries, Australia shared a heritage of principles of justice and freedoms based upon British Common Law.

Well, it happened, Australians had lost the interest and the will to defend their freedoms. Twenty years later it can be seen to have spread like a cancerous growth entangling us all; recent examples being the experiences of journalist Andrew Bolt and Pastor Danny Nahila of Catch the Fire Ministries. "War Crimes Threat to Christian Justice" Price: $12.00 including postage.

TO WHICH LAW IS THIS ABORIGINAL/JEWISH GENTLEMAN APPEALING? This film is about the customs and quarantine laws of Australia. The gentleman featured in the film is protesting that he is not under the same laws as other plane travellers and should not be subject to the same requirements. Result? He was found to be bringing into the country declared illegal foods and flora even though on the declaration form he declared he was not. Is this another case of 'all people are equal, but some are more equal than others'?

I wonder what Aboriginal community groups such as the Yindjibarndi of West Australia (below) think of this situation as they fight for what they believe are their rights against the big mining companies – and want to protect their heritage? http://blogs.news.com.au/heraldsun/andrewbolt/index.php/heraldsun/comments/no_comment6_4/08/11_11:03_AM YAC questions FMG Solomon leases, Rebecca Le May: "Fortescue Metals Group insists it has all the approvals needed to proceed with its Solomon iron ore project, but Aboriginal landowners are questioning the validity of its mining leases. Construction is advancing rapidly and first ore production is slated for the March quarter of 2013, Fortescue's new chief executive, Neville Power, told the Diggers and Dealers mining conference in Kalgoorlie, W.A., on Wednesday. But Yindjibarndi Aboriginal Corporation (YAC) says it's incorrect for Fortescue to refer to the Solomon mining leases as being valid.

The objections to the leases being granted are centred on the mining activities disrupting the religious practises of the Yindjibarndi people and the damage to the social structure of their community.
