HAPPY INVASION DAY! By David Williams

Just tap 'Invasion Day' into Google and be truly amazed at the spectacle of the cultural war which you will see, with hatred and bile against traditional Australia, a plenty:

<https://thewest.com.au/news/australia/melbournes-invasion-day-protest-turns-ugly-as-organiser-call-aussies-racist-f---ers-threaten-to-burn-country-to-the-ground-ng-b88726597z>

'F--- Australia, hope it f-----g burns to the ground', Invasion Day organiser Tarneen Onus-Williams said. 'If you celebrate Australia Day, f---er, you're celebrating the death of my ancestors'.

'All you fellas with the Australian flag should be so embarrassed with yourself, it's embarrassing. It's embarrassing that you celebrate people's deaths, the people of this land's death. You make me sick to my stomach.'

Oh, these comments 'should not be taken literally', whatever that means:

<http://www.theage.com.au/victoria/invasion-day-rally-organiser-says-her-comments-australia-should-burn-to-the-ground-should-not-be-taken-literally-20180126-p4yyxo.html>

'Invasion day' rally organiser Tarneen Onus-Williams does not apologise for saying she hoped Australia would 'burn to the ground' but says her words should not be taken literally.

Ms Onus-Williams stood on the steps of Victoria's Parliament on Australia Day in front of thousands of people and told the crowd: 'F--- Australia, hope it burns to the ground'.

It is not clear what else the remarks really could mean because it is hardly the words of peaceful reform. If Australia did collapse, which is very likely from economic reasons, most of the people protesting, urbanites, would be the ones severely affected. How many of them, Black, White or whatever colour, could go bush and live off the land? Almost everybody, especially the welfare-dependent, will "burn."

However, let's get to the main point. If there really was an invasion, then native title and Mabo go out the window, because invasion and conquest was accepted at international law, as a legally legitimate acquisition of territory. Sorry, you can't have it both ways. Second, the 'logic', if it can be called that, of the invasion rhetoric (that-ed) White Europeans should go back to Europe and leave this land and all of its goodies to the descendants of the original inhabitants, and presumably the Left. But, is that fair, given the contribution made by Whites?

Perhaps it would be argued that it was justice reparations for sins of colonisation? If so, what happens to mixed race individuals? Are they partly colonist descendants, or are they the race they identify with? That problem would need to be solved before dismantling Australia.

Finally, even if guilt ridden Whites did leave Australia, other races do not share in this orgy of guilt, and rightly so. Nothing prevents China moving in to take over the vacated land. Would there still be protests under a communist Chinese regime? You can bet there will not be. Would the Chinese government tolerate what Australians now put up with? Remember that the same political movement supporting all of this, also wants infinite migration, which will ultimately change the demographics of the population in ways the Leftoids will not like.

Perhaps a solution may come from my proposed #YouGoFirst. Let the White protestors show good faith by leaving Australia first, because they are invaders too, and merely squawking about it, and marching, does not resolve the guilt, their guilt. Then, we can make up our minds about what to do, while Australia "burns." ***

THERE GOES THE EASTER EGGS... By Tom “Chocoholic” North

In Britain, which in many ways is even leading America in the politically correct stakes, many manufacturers of fine Easter eggs, have removed all reference to Jesus, Easter and the Cross, so as to not offend other groups, which presumably means Muslims:
<https://www.thesun.co.uk/archives/news/1096555/>

outrage-as-easter-eggs-are-renamed-to-avoid-offending-other-religions/

I am pleased to note that there is a backlash against this, and in Britain, one can still buy traditional Easter eggs, at least for the time. Really though, this is something that consumers can influence, simply by not buying the politically correct eggs. ***

OBJECTIVE UNIVERSITY RESEARCH! By Mrs Vera West

Now that’s objective university research for you: shutting down research which does not support the politically correct status quo:
<https://www.thetimes.co.uk/article/university-trying-to-hound-me-out-says-gender-researcher-nswr9wn62>

and was awarded, costs of just under £5,000 against Caspian. He has offered to pay the money at £200 a month but has received what he describes as a “nasty” and “aggressive” email from the university’s solicitor demanding immediate payment.”

<https://www.thetimes.co.uk/article/university-trying-to-hound-me-out-says-gender-researcher-nswr9wn62>

“A researcher barred by Bath Spa University from studying people who regret having undergone gender reassignment says the university is trying to “bully” him out of taking it to court over the decision.

James Caspian, a psychologist specialising in therapy for transgender people, was told his subject was “potentially politically incorrect” and risked triggering attacks on social media.

Caspian said he tried to challenge the December 2016 decision in court, but was advised to use the university’s complaints procedure first. He said Bath Spa delayed the process so it was not yet finished when the case first came to court. As a result, his legal action was thrown out. Bath Spa then applied for,

We should not be surprised to see things like this given the present politically correct direction of the universities in the West. I have come to agree with James Reed that it would be best to shut down the universities and rework higher education on another more vocationally orientated model.

We are not going to get to the truth of many matters through the universities, so why waste time and money trying to reform them? Meanwhile we have already the virtual university, of which through the internet, we are all a part.

FINLAND AND ITALY SHOW THE WAY! By James Reed

Fortunately it is not all bad news, and there are little rays of hope to keep up possibly sagging spirits.:

<https://www.zerohedge.com/news/2018-01-28/meet-europes-latest-threat-she-blue-eyes-blonde-who-wants-finland-first>

“It appears Europe’s dream lives another day. As we predicted, Pekka Haavisto has conceded defeat against the incumbent Finnish President Sauli Niinisto in the Finnish election vote, with “Trump-lite” Huhtasaari garnering 6% of the vote.

The incumbent was on 64.4 per cent of the vote, trailed by the Green Party’s Pekka Haavisto, who came in at 11.2 per cent. Laura Huhtasaari of the populist-nationalist Finns Party and veteran Centre Party politician Paavo Vayrynen, who ran as an independent, garnered 6 per cent of the vote respectively. The results were based on a tally of ballots cast in advance voting. Election officials said 36 per cent of almost 4.5 million eligible voters had exercised that right.

“I thank you already, but let’s not tear down the house yet,” Niinisto said in an interview on YLE TV1 as the preliminary result was revealed. “We can’t be sure yet, the election day can bring surprises.”

First it was Nigel Farage, then Beppe Grillo, Frauke Petry, Alexis Tsipras, Marine le Pen, Geert Wilders, Victor Orban, Sebastian Kurz and so on, as one after another European populist, anti-immigrant leader emerged in response to the economic cataclysm unleashed by central banks over the past decade which left the “1%” better off than ever, at the expense of everyone else. Now a new threat has emerged out of Finland, one which is petite, with blonde hair and blue eyes.” While there is enormous disappointment in Trump, he at least got the ball rolling, and it is likely that an increasing number of people, in these desperate times, may take a stand. And, in worse times to come, they will be rising up to challenge the genocidal status quo. For example, Matteo Salvini, leader of the Lega Nord, has promised he will deport half a million migrants if he becomes Prime Minister of Italy, beginning with 100,000 illegals in his first year. He has said: “The only antidote to racism is to control, regulate and limit immigration. There are millions of Italians in economic difficulty. Italians are not racist, but out-of-control immigration brings with it far from positive reactions. We want to prevent that.”

Fortunately Salvini and the Lega Nord have formed an electoral alliance with billionaire and former four-time Prime Minister and leader of Forza Italia Silvio Berlusconi, so this will increase their chances if he bankrolls them.

WHY ARE VACCINATED AMERICAN CHILDREN DYING? By Mrs Vera West

The flu season is in full swing in America, and already about 44,116 people have died from the H3N2 outbreak: <https://www.prepperwebsite.com/the-flu-is-far-worse-than-were-being-told-tens-of-thousands-of-americans-are-dying-1-27-18/>

It was argued at Natural News.com: <https://www.naturalnews.com/2018-01-28-vaccine-industry-in-panic-mode-as-vaccinated-children-keep-dying-from-the-flu-all-across-america.html>

that this mortality rate was nor due to natural variation, and that flu-vaccinated children are also dying:

“Not only does this influenza strain produce a more intense and deadly flu, the flu vaccine is less effective against it. This Centers for Infectious Disease Research and Policy (CIDRAP) article discusses a study published in The Lancet, spanning 11 years that demonstrates H3N2 is more resistant to the flu vaccine.

THE RELIGIOUS WILL RULE THE EARTH By James Reed

The march of secularism seem unstoppable, with religion falling into disarray. But, is it? Lee Ellis et al., believe that from a biological perspective, this trend is only short-term, and in the longer term, the rule of fertility, will, rule:

<https://link.springer.com/article/10.1007/s40806-017-0090-z>

“For over a century, social scientists have predicted declines in religious beliefs and their replacement with more scientific/naturalistic outlooks, a prediction known as the secularization hypothesis. However, skepticism surrounding this hypothesis has been expressed by some researchers in recent decades. After reviewing the pertinent evidence and arguments, we examined some aspects of the secularization hypothesis from what is termed a biologically informed perspective. Based on large samples of college students in Malaysia and the USA, religiosity, religious affiliation, and parental fertility were measured using self-reports.

Three religiosity indicators were factor analyzed, resulting in an index for religiosity. Results reveal that average parental fertility varied considerably according to religious groups, with Muslims being the most religious and the most fertile and Jews and Buddhists being the least. Within most religious groupings, religiosity was positively associated with parental fertility.

JUST A JAWBONE By Brian Simpson

Here is one of the latest finds in human evolution:

<https://www.timesofisrael.com/jawbone-fossil-found-in-israeli-cave-resets-clock-for-modern-human-evolution/>

“A jawbone found in a cave in Israel’s Mount Carmel region has reset the clock on human evolution. The fossil, the earliest known record of Homo sapiens outside of Africa, was discovered in 2002 during an excavation of the prehistoric Misliya Cave. After 15 years of intensive research by an international team of ... the flu vaccine demonstrates only a 33% vaccine effective (VE) rate with the average H3N2 strain... To make matters worse, this year’s flu vaccine isn’t even close to the average 33% VE rate of prior years. This year’s vaccine is performing at approximately a 10% VE rate.”

Thus, this year’s vaccine is only 10 percent effective, which squashes the idea of vaccines as magic bullets giving immunity:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=yD4re8S4xMA>

The fact remains that we live in a biologically dangerous world, and it is necessary to adopt public health measures, as well as maintaining excellent nutrition, to give oneself a fighting chance in the eternal war with bugs. ***

While cross-sectional in nature, when our results are combined with evidence that both religiosity and fertility are substantially heritable traits, findings are consistent with view that earlier trends toward secularization (due to science education surrounding advancements in science) are currently being counter-balanced by genetic and reproductive forces.

We also propose that the inverse association between intelligence and religiosity, and the inverse correlation between intelligence and fertility lead to predictions of a decline in secularism in the foreseeable future. A contra-secularization hypothesis is proposed and defended in the discussion. It states that secularism is likely to undergo a decline throughout the remainder of the twenty-first century, including Europe and other industrial societies.”

The argument, in a nutshell, is that the secular are not replacing themselves. It is likely that a tendency to religiosity or secularism is genetically based. Hence, over time, the genes for secularism will decline in the population, resulting in a more religious population. The same argument can be applied to feminism too, with genes for feminism dying out in populations.

Thus, if we can hang on long enough, Mother Nature will solve most of our problems. So, hang in there!

multidisciplinary scientists, the unique remains of an adult upper jawbone, complete with several teeth, has been dated to 170,000-200,000 years ago.”

This is something of a bomb for conventional theory, which for example sees the races as relatively young. It also indicates that humans existed with other hominin species such as the Neanderthals, (continued on next page)

(continued from previous page) and raises the thorny question about what actually happened. My guess is that early humans, having a more appropriate arm structure for spear throwing, defeated Neanderthal males, and slowly bred with captured women, resulting in modern humans. Something bad must have happened because the Neanderthals are no longer with us. Could there be a message for us in that? ***

JORDAN PETERSON AGAINST THE SOCIAL JUSTICE WARRIOR

By Peter Ewer

This is one of those link, look and like posts, where you have to see it to believe it:

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=aMcjxSThD54>

Here Canadian free-speech academic Jordan Peterson takes apart some of the leading feminist myths of the Left, such as the gender pay gap, which has become an item of faith for the chattering class. Even the MSM is admitting that Peterson utterly destroyed his opponent's arguments:

https://blogs.spectator.co.uk/2018/01/

watch-cathy-newmans-catastrophic-interview-with-jordan-peterson/

Professor Peterson has a new book 12 Rules for Life: An Antidote to Chaos, (Random House, Canada, 2018):

<https://www.amazon.com/12-Rules-Life-Antidote-Chaos/dp/0345816021>

The book takes some common-sense rules – such as make friends with people who want the best for you, and tell the truth, or at least do not lie – and shows that scientific research actually supports the homely rule.

THE BATTLE FOR AUSTRALIA

By Paul Walker

Following on from the usual politically correct outbursts over Australia Day, we have the first indication of movement at the front. Labor Party elites are suggesting that a referendum be held on January 26 on the Republic and Aboriginal recognition:

<https://www.theaustralian.com.au/national-affairs/indigenous/anthony-albanese-calls-for-twin-january-26-referendums/news-story/e69e5bd842057b80e9d3f5dae0348f2f>

“Anthony Albanese has called for referendums on the republic and indigenous constitutional recognition to be held on a January 26, as a way of creating a national “platform of unity” and ending –divisions over the date of Australia Day.

Mr Albanese, who was deputy prime minister in the second Rudd government and rival to Bill Shorten for the Labor leadership after the party lost power in 2013, used a speech at a citizenship ceremony in his Sydney electorate of Grayndler to suggest how January 26 could be kept as Australia Day, with the support of indigenous people, by holding ballots on two major issues confronting that national identity.

Mr Albanese’s call came as Malcolm Turnbull said the overwhelming majority of Australians were celebrating the national day that was, above all, ‘a story of enormous achievement’.

But the Prime Minister, who also opposed any changes to the flag, said Australia Day should also include a focus on the recognition of indigenous Australians.

“Our history, Australia’s history, overwhelmingly is a bright story of success,” Mr Turnbull said.

However, he added:

“The impact of European settlement on Aboriginal Australians was tragic; of course it was. We understand that and there are many wrongs that were done in the past, which we seek to right today.”

All this and more is certain to fall upon this long-suffering land after King Mal is defeated in the next election and the Labor Party reign of terror begins. Begin preparing for it now, as life is an unending battle. ***
