THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: Daughters of Europe fight Back By Mrs Vera West

I have mentioned the movement 120db: www.120db.info which is a fast growing movement of German women fighting back against the rape of European women by migrants. Feminists have not only failed to speak out against this genocide, but have worked with the Left to actively suppress discussion, as this video in English mentions:

<https://www.counter-currents.com/2018/02/video-of-the-day-german-women-denounce-migrant-violence-and-political-betrayal/>
 In dramatic images, it tells it all for those who still “just don’t get it,” or have their heads buried in the sand. Required homework for everyone.

EUROPEAN MIGRATION CRISIS
 SPIRALLING OUT OF CONTROL
 By Chris Knight

The Australian media are not reporting on it, but Europe has slid into a state of civil war, with the battle grounds being almost every street.

France: “French Interior Minister Gérard Collomb described the level of violence in Calais as “unprecedented.” He attributed the fighting to an escalating turf war between Afghan and Kurdish gangs seeking to gain control over human trafficking between Calais and Britain, which many migrants view as “El Dorado” because of its massive underground economy.... Hundreds of Africans and Asians armed with knives and iron rods fought running street battles in the northern port city of Calais on February 1, less than two weeks after French President Emmanuel Macron visited the area and pledged to crack down on illegal immigration. The clashes plunged Calais — emblematic of Europe’s failure to control mass migration — into a war zone and reinforced the perception that French authorities have lost control of the country’s security situation. The mass brawls, fought in at least three different parts of Calais, erupted after a 37-year-old Afghan migrant running a human trafficking operation, fired gunshots at a group of Africans who did not have money to pay for his services. Five Africans suffered life-threatening injuries. Within an hour, hundreds of Eritreans, Ethiopians and Sudanese took to the streets of Calais and attacked any Afghans they could find. More than a thousand police officers using batons and tear gas were deployed to restore order. Two dozen migrants were hospitalized.”

<https://www.gatestoneinstitute.org/11848/france-migrant-crisis>

The battles are right across racial and ethnic lines now, showing the delusional nature of the liberals multicultural/multiracial dream. We have been reporting on the rape crisis in Europe, with Sweden and Germany being notable examples: <https://gellerreport.com/2018/02/rape-pants.html>

But, in strong gun-controlled Sweden, armed migrant teens freely roam the cities with AK-47 assault rifles: <https://www.thetimes.co.uk/article/teens-roam-streets-with-rifles-as-crime-swamps-sweden-q83g055k9>

“In Malmö, where a fifth of the 340,000 inhabitants are under 18, children as young as 14 roam the streets with Kalashnikov assault rifles and bulletproof vests. The average age of gang members is 22, the vast majority of them hailing from migrant families.”

And that is just from the mainstream press. There seems to be emerging a violent backlash against this in other parts of Europe indicating that there will be no pleasant democratic end to all of this:

THE WAVE OF TRANSGENDERISM By Mrs Vera West

In the US, and probably right across the West, increasing numbers of teenagers are now identifying as transgender, according to recent studies:

<http://abcnews.go.com/Lifestyle/wireStory/boy-girl-teens-identify-transgender-52840089>

“The study looked at students in 9th and 11th grade and estimated that nearly 3 percent are transgender or gender nonconforming, meaning they don’t always self-identify as the sex they were assigned at birth. That includes kids who refer to themselves using neutral pronouns like “them” instead of “he” or “she.”

“Diverse gender identities are more prevalent than people would expect,” said lead author Nic Rider, a University of Minnesota postdoctoral fellow who studies transgender health. The study is an analysis of a 2016 statewide survey of almost 81,000 Minnesota teens. Nearly 2,200 identified as transgender or gender nonconforming.

The study found that these kids reported worse mental and physical health than other kids, echoing results seen in previous research. Bullying and discrimination are among possible reasons for the differences, Rider said, although the survey didn’t ask. Rider said it’s a study based on a statewide population of teens in 9th and 11th grades and that the results can be used to estimate numbers of trans and gender nonconforming teens in those grades across the United States.”

#MEETOOISM AS MORAL PANIC AGAINST MEN By Mrs Vera West

We live in strange times. While women are being openly raped in Europe, and young White children groomed by rape gangs in Britain, there has been a growing movement to out and expose powerful men, mainly in the US entertainment industry for sexual misadventures. We have covered the #MeeToo movement before, noting that there are certainly legitimate cases of rape and that the men responsible need to be brought before the law. However, as observed by Claire Berlinski in a recent article at The American Interest, these fully legitimate concerns have ballooned out of all proportion, and have grown into another feminist assault upon men:

“If you are reading this, it means I have found an outlet that has not just fired an editor for sexual harassment. This article circulated from publication to publication, like old-fashioned samizdat, and was rejected repeatedly with a sotto voce, “Don’t tell anyone. I agree with you. But no.” Friends have urged me not to publish it under my own name, vividly describing the mob that will tear me from limb to limb and leave the dingoes to pick over my flesh. It says something, doesn’t it, that I’ve been more hesitant to speak about this than I’ve been of getting on the wrong

Although it is being said that there were always such large numbers of transgendered people, right throughout history, but only in these enlightened times are they free to be, well, free, there is an alternative view. It could well be the product of media attention which has celebrated transgenderism, which is not to say that many people do have legitimate gender identity issues and do indeed need to be treated with compassion and understanding rather than hate.

Nevertheless, the statistics of the rise begs for an explanation, for it is unlikely that such numbers of people were always present in society, but repressed.

There is a possibility that hormone-altering chemicals, which rage through teenage bodies could be having an impact, perhaps in combination with social causes:

<http://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-5351661/Chemicals-plastic-90-teenage-bodies.html>

It has been found that up to 90 percent of teenagers have high concentrations of the chemical Bisphenol A (PBA) in their bodies, which mimics the female sex hormone oestrogen, and has been linked to low sperm counts and infertility in men. The evidence for a hormonal cause for transgenderism though, is controversial and is unlikely to be due to any simple hormonal imbalance. My own view, is that the sociologists are right about this one, and that it is indeed a social construction:

<https://www.livescience.com/51652-transgender-youth-dont-have-hormonal-imbalance.html>

side of the Mafia, al-Qaeda, or the Kremlin?

But speak I must. It now takes only one accusation to destroy a man’s life. Just one for him to be tried and sentenced in the court of public opinion, overnight costing him his livelihood and social respectability. We are on a frenzied extrajudicial warlock hunt that does not pause to parse the difference between rape and stupidity. The punishment for sexual harassment is so grave that clearly this crime—like any other serious crime—requires an unambiguous definition. We have nothing of the sort. In recent weeks, one after another prominent voice, many of them political voices, have been silenced by sexual harassment charges.

Not one of these cases has yet been adjudicated in a court of law. Leon Wieseltier, David Corn, Mark Halperin, Michael Oreskes, Al Franken, Ken Baker, Rick Najera, Andy Signore, Jeff Hoover, Matt Lauer, even Garrison Keillor—all have received the professional death sentence. Some of the charges sound deadly serious. But others—as reported anyway—make no sense. I can’t say whether the charges against these men are true; I wasn’t under the bed.

(continued from previous page) But even if true, some have been accused of offenses that aren't offensive, or offenses that are only mildly so—and do not warrant total professional and personal destruction.”

This is all true. A legitimate burst of anger against evil in Hollywood against women has spiralled out of control. I am naturally cynical because some of the politically correct women championing the US movement, were

BRAVE NEW POLITICALLY CORRECT WORLD By James Reed

It is now well known that their universities engage in brainwashing of students, primarily by the time old method of indoctrination. But, things have moved to a whole new level, with the use of Soviet-style psycho technics, as seen in the old movie Clockwork Orange, to force them to be politically correct:

<https://www.thecollegefix.com/post/39393/>

“Some San Diego State University students are undergoing what organizers acknowledge is a “disturbing” series of “sensory experiences” in an attempt to drive out students’ prejudicial tendencies and help make them less oppressive. The annual workshop, “Journey to a Shared Humanity,” is described on the university’s website as a way for organizers to get students to “step outside their comfort zone and into the shoes of those who are struggling with oppressive circumstances.” This year, some students were required to attend the event as part of their classes. During the experience, students are walked through a darkened multipurpose room to view a series of theatrical vignettes acted out by campus leaders.”

Typical nonsense practiced by the manic universities. It proves nothing because with operant conditioning and enough electric shocks you could probably convince a man that he is a fish. But that would not allow him to live, unaided, under water. The mere fact that the politically correct regime needs to engage in Soviet-style torture to enforce their worldview shows that their position has feet of clay, with the foundational cracks getting bigger every day. No doubt the universities would be only concerned about so-called “white racism.” Yet on US campuses, and the trend is coming here, anti-white racism is becoming common too:

<https://www.naturalnews.com/2018-01-30-anti-white-racism-is-becoming-blatant-on-college-campuses.html>

“It is nearly impossible to deny the fact that there is a war being waged on white people in this country, and although it exists inside of almost every single one of America’s institutions (Hollywood, the mainstream media, Washington D.C., etc.), it is perhaps most aggressive on college campuses. Last October, for instance, a philosophy professor at Emory University by the name of George Yancy was caught lecturing quite willing to work with the rapists before all of this was exposed, but now that it is safe for their careers, well, they too can play the victim. But, most of all I am cynical about protests that ignores the plight of women in Europe, where brutality found in a war zone has become part of life:

<https://voiceofeuropa.com/2018/01/swedish-politician-compares-country-to-war-zone-after-spate-of-shootings-and-bombings/>

his white students on their “inherent racism” and how important it is for them to recognize their “white privilege.” Professor Yancy argued that many white students have never really had to sit down to think about how the color of their skin could be problematic, and that he wants his white people “to acknowledge their inherent racism and fight actively against it.” Many other schools have created programs similar to the events being held at the University of Oregon, whereby white students are separated from students of color to learn about “white privilege” and other social justice nonsense. If this isn’t a blatant example of reverse racism, then what is? It’s a shame that the school administrators at the University of Oregon are creating and promoting such divisive programs for their students to participate in, and even though some of them may have good intentions, they have to realize that they are making our country worse, not better.”

This is not restricted to the US. Here in Australia in the Arts, Humanities, and especially the Social Sciences, if it can be called that, all manner of politically correct nonsense is poured over students. In particular, it is common for a white lecturer to get on their high horse and go on about “white privilege,” while ignoring the elephant in the room, namely that she/he is white and highly privileged, with a salary that working people would die for, instead of just dying from over-work. Somehow, these degenerate liberals see themselves as morally pure and above the lies they preach.

Thus, as always, I urge you to support my campaign to end this by closing down the universities and putting in their place a new system of higher education, that eliminates the “Farts” topics, pardon the French, and focuses on vocational training and jobs. Let the Leftoids fund their own political weapons, not long-suffering taxpayers.

CUCKING CANADA By Charles Taylor

We are not surprised to hear almost anything coming from the politically correct land of Canada, which seems to have a national death wish, rivalled only by Sweden. The latest is to change the national anthem so that all male pronouns are removed:

<http://www.breitbart.com/big-government/2018/02/02/canada-changing-national-anthem-remove-male-pronouns-make-lyrics-gender-neutral/>

I must admit that I was surprised because surely the really inclusive thing to have done would have been to put the entire 32 genders into the song, so that the song became a song about gender. Prime Minister Trudeau actually corrected a woman to say 'peoplekind' instead of 'mankind'. Justin Trudeau interrupted a woman complaining about Canada's restrictive regulations on religious volunteers to tell her to use the term 'peoplekind' instead of 'mankind.' The Canadian Prime Minister was hosting a Q&A at MacEwan University in Edmonton on Friday as part of his cross-country tour which began last month.

12 RULES FOR LIFE By James Reed

Read any good books lately? Well, yes, I have, Jordan Peterson's latest book, 12 Rules for Life, (Random House, 2018), which is hot from the press. I was delighted to get the review copy of this from our noble editor in Adelaide, who posted this great work to me in steamy Melbourne. Readers will need no introduction to this Canadian intellectual, who has attacked all aspects of poetical, sorry I mean political correctness, yet has still landed on his feet, so far.

He has demolished feminists with ease, using cold fresh logic. They simply cannot stand this, being used to hysterical screaming, chanting and other irrelevant devices. If you go to YouTube you can see all of his videos, which are sheer delights. We at this site are very impressed with this youngish man (compared to old timers like me), and look forward to others joining the fight once they see that the system has feet of clay. Now to the book.

The rules seem at first glance unusual when you read the titles, but when you read the chapter, enlightenment dawns. Thus, for example, rule 11 is: do not bother children when they are skateboarding? Why the goodness, not, could there not be any number of good reasons, not to skateboard, such as public safety, for I have almost been knocked off my arthritic feet by young mobile lads on these boards?

Sure, it is dangerous Professor Peterson says in his disarmingly logical voice, but what we are seeing is the early development of children facing danger and triumphing over it. It is the equivalent of young Africans in the past hunting lions, or whatever dangerous thing it was they did, to reach the high summits of manhood long ago.

Peterson is something of a champion for young men, and he then uses this example to go into bat for them, whom he says are under attack by the feminist society (p. 297) and young males especially are suffering. (p. 298) This leads him on to a discussion of postmodernism as the intellectual symbol of this retreat from male values, and its deliberate nihilistic and destructive consequences. (p. 311) Then that leads him into transgenderism and then back to more general philosophical considerations from a conservative perspective about the proper role of the sexes. It is not, spoiler alert, the present status quo, which he argues right through the book, to be undermining of both men and women.

There is no easy answer for men in all of this, but Peterson thinks that hope should never be abandoned, and it is not lost, in the symbol of the skateboarding youth, primarily a male domain. Men still toughen each other up by pushing themselves, and pushing other men. (p. 331) The skateboarders are a symbol of this, and this chapter like all the others contains the same optimistic message, that although times are grim, human life was never easy and that kites manage to fly by rising against the wind. As the famous "mouse utopia" experiment show, mice given all the food and comfort they could wish for, if mice wish, become soft and lazy, and the population soon dies out:
