MYTHS AND LEGENDS By Arnis Luks

In my research for this week relatively few articles were reporting the significant increases in the cost of rental accommodation in Australia. This is an intentional part of the plan towards feudalising Australians. Overseas interests have been busy buying up property in Australia, which is forcing affordability for our young Australians further and further away, similar to Bill Gates buying up farming land to now be the largest land owner in USA.

A property-less people are more readily manipulated and managed. Governments say nothing of this because the financial windfall in stamp duty and other taxes is now within annual budget estimates, NSW in particular.

To build further on this, closed shop employment; which may include housing and limited purchasing options, will corral the lions share of any wages paid out. Reports of 'asking rents' and 'bidding wars' soaring to record highs are realising as much as 50% of renter's and mortgagee's income as going towards accommodation in Australian capital cities. The mainstream media is failing to emphasise this important consequence as a direct result of government policy, preferring monopoly or unfettered capitalism : libertarianism, laissez-faire. Why would they not report of this overseas sourced spending spree that is directly affecting our younger generation trying to get into the property market? Who is it that calls for the sacrifice of our young people's future and why?

Media Ownership

Controls over media ownership in Australia are laid down in the Broadcasting Services Act 1992, administered by the Australian Communications and Media Authority ACMA. Australia has a high concentration of media ownership compared to other western countries, dominated by two corporations, Rupert Murdoch's News Corp and Nine Entertainment — Murdoch-owned titles account for nearly two-thirds (64.2 per cent) of metropolitan circulation and Nine-owned papers account for a further quarter (26.4 per cent). (TV is not included in these statistics, also Mao's ABC philosophically aligned with Nine-Entertainment - SMH, Melbourne Age - dialectics - Foxtel aligned right Murdoch - and ABC and 9 aligned left Nine-Entertainment) The rules governing foreign ownership of Australian media...were loosened by Helen Coonan under the Howard Government via Act No. 129 of 2006 which allowed for changes to the cross-media and foreign ownership laws with the Broadcasting Services Amendment (Media Ownership) Bill 2006, relaxing restrictions against cross-media ownership and control by a single company.

According to Reporters Without Borders in 2006, Australia was ranked 35th by 'Press Freedom', well behind New Zealand (19th) and United Kingdom (27th) (but well ahead of the US, ranked 53rd).

WASP - The Scapegoat

Readers have previously been encouraged to consider 'Maps of Meaning', the psychological work of Prof Jordan Peterson who uncovers the Archetypal characters from within scripture and mythology. These Archetypal characters go some way to giving us a 'heads up', a warning to what can go wrong if we don't listen. Another author Ian McGilchrist in 'The Master and his Emissary', also uncovers the 'process of thinking' being hemispherically aligned - dominant-left-hemisphere-thinking is blindsided of the real world and the 'other'. The economist-banker immersed in figures, considers the numbers being dealt with to be of more significance than the effects of policy upon the 'other'; the individuals and the nations - The Merchant of Venice - Shakespeare

As you did it to the least of these so you did it unto Me I've had several people emphasising the important works of René Girard, in particular the title 'The Scapegoat'.

Girard uncovers and explains the subjection of an individual for the sake of the group since the earliest of times, as being a pagan rite to 'short circuit' revenge (an eye for an eye etc.) Directing this rite of sacrifice for the settling of a dispute is something that we will look at more closely over future On Targets. Suffice to say now, you would be surprised how often it occurs within our enlightened modern society and our institutions.

Destruction of the Role-Model

The attempted deconstruction of current Archetypal role-models needs to be considered in the light of this sacrificial act of destroying one for the sake of the group. This is why psychology is becoming increasingly important to learn and understand. In ancient days this craft was referred to as 'magic', how they got groups of people to do things at the same time by the 'magi'. Ben Roberts-Smith, Israel Folau, Peter Ridd and Bernard Gaynor all fall into an Archetypal role-model-framework of valour, self-sacrifice, bravery, personal initiative, truth, service, traditional family and traditional cultural values.

Having a strong personal faith and being grounded in family, nation and tradition was the firmest bulwark against the indoctrination and brainwashing by the communist Chinese within the Korean Prisoner of War Camps. This current battleground of ideas with the deconstruction of our nation and culture is going on within and without our schools and institutions, wherever people meet and share thoughts and ideas, especially the many forms of media, social or otherwise. The battle is real and is for the life or death of our culture and nation.

Our cultural history, while not perfect, reflects the pinnacle in achievement of all other cultures, with 'freedom of the individual' as the high water mark and justification (locus standi) for all our institutions and systems. School curricula, has purposely removed competitiveness and robust freedom of thought and discussion, and yet it is within this robust environment that promotes the very pursuit of excellence, truth and expanding knowledge. You will never be the best sportsman without stiff competition. Those that stand out are compelled into conformity and levelling-dumbing down, once snidely referred to as 'tall poppies'.

A static pool of ideas and discussion will atrophy and become putrid turning into a cesspit. So it is with sports clubs or any other cultural apparatus or institution.

The Nordics, (Alfred the Great defeated Guthrum and negotiated a settlement rather than annihilation - their blood is in our bloodlines), would not shy away from the storm, but readily went out to face down the tempest and hone their skills to become the best sailors of that time.

Banjo Parterson depicts The Man From Snowy River as the rider on his mountain 'pony' overcoming adversity to go out after that pearl - the Colt from old Regret.

So too as was Saint George and the Dragon for the virgin. These Archetypal prototypes are within our cultural history, our folklore and our mythology as lessons that this type of behaviour has been what has built us into the great people we are. So it must be for us, to face down this tempest by invasion of our educational and political systems with this alien cultural-marxism.

Truth as no defence

These attempted pagan acts of sacrifice of good men are to demoralise us and cause us to fear the unknown. These men are guilty of being role models in contrast to the pagan culture of marxist materialism - matter in motion. Men dumbed down to automatons, almost robots is the target. Our ancient and historical culture counters this robotic attribution by promoting sufficient freedom of thought, word and deed for the individual to pursue their own bit of 'heaven on earth' - freedom of the individual being the fountain-head of the Christian Philosophy.

Former Prime Minister Bob Hawke, as reported in this weekend's Australian, did not believe in the traditional Australian culture as something to preserve, but rather through the Boyer Lectures and his paper to the Fabian Society, planned to destroy us in order to bring about a communist world state, even to the point of working to the benefit of a foreign power. Hawke's demeanour was of an 'ocker' like his nickname 'bodgie', and yet he was full of deceit towards our ancient culture and institutions.

We have a history of many others in positions of great influence who also loathed our ancient British culture and institutions. We are now at a crisis point, that we must make a firm decision to defend our culture or lose it.

The League's Freedom Campaign

No political movement can exist in a moral vacuum, and Australians have traditionally accepted that it is the Christian Faith that generated our rich heritage of representative and limited constitutional government. While the League maintains a small full-time staff primarily motivated by Christian service, it is the extensive network of volunteers from all walks of life who form the backbone of our political Movement.

The Australian League of Rights seeks to help create a body of dedicated men and women who serve, not for their own material gain, but as custodians of those truths and values which must form the basis of all successful efforts to defeat the enemies of human dignity and freedom.

The League encourages and equips individuals to independently exercise their own initiative in the service of freedom. To robustly go out and not only defend, but to advance our unique Australian culture, our Christian Faith firmly established within our constitution - "we the people....humbly relying on the blessing of Almighty God, do agree..." - onto the next level of cultural development : Political Democracy in the Moral Environment of an Economic Democracy.

mRNA Fatalities

The question of the skyrocketing mRNA adverse reactions and fatalities hardly rates a mention. This sacrificial act is presented by omission as necessary for the sake of the group - herd immunity. Modern medical science is not science at all, but rooted in sacrifice, with our doctors now routinely performing murder in the forms of euthanasia, abortion, and now adverse reactions with exponential deaths by mRNA injection.

We are following paganism with little critical faculty, in contrast to the unique value of every individual with their God given rights and God given opportunities in a world of material abundance to pursue the fullness of life as they see fit. Faith overcomes fear. Each needs to exercise their own portion of faith, to throw open the doors to "freedom with responsibility in a moral environment", of personal choices to manage their own life and health as they see fit.

"Systems were made for men, and not men for systems, and the interest of man, which is self-development, is above all systems, whether theological, political or economic."

Undoing this ongoing indoctrination needs to be a deliberate act of the will, especially against the relentless media as the dominating source of counter-cultural influence. Personal choices directed away from the media could be something like filling your mind with things of eternal value - love for family, friends and then society. Pursuit of the good, the wholesome, the virtuous, the excellent. Our South Australian Premier, having no personal answer to our cultural demise, is proposing that taxpayers build a new stadium for mass entertainment while wholesale euthanasia and abortion carnage is committed in the buildings nearby. Each of us must find this thing that is lacking within our own hearts. The Kingdom of God is within you. It is not found within the group. In fact the 'group' has a mindlessness about itself and more easily influenced and manipulated.

Hubris

The amassing of the assets of the entire world into the hands of a relatively few people is not questioned from any ethical point of view. How is it that billions of people can be impoverished, while the mainstream media or church only reports on the joyous gains of a few billionaires? — Pharisaical-Whig-Puritanism taken to its logical conclusion while enslaving the entire world.

Debt owed to the creditor is of greater importance that debt-redemption for the individual - (neoliberalism and libertarianism as exploitive capitalism against the individual - bail-ins bail-outs, too big to fail, windfall subsidies). No question is ever raised within MSM or anywhere else in regard to the exploitive nature of modern banking practices within the financial system.

Philosophy and History are essential areas of research for any who care to understand what is actually going on in this age, and how and why it has occurred in the past. The church has historically dealt with this issue of Hubris, but today is complicit by their silence - the fiat loan (from thin air in the form of electronic numbers) is measured against the mortgaged real-assets of the entire world being 'acceptable' financial arrangements. ***

HOW TO COUNTER GROUP MANIPULATION TACTICS

By BK Eakman ...extract...

The five basic steps to indoctrination:

1. Eradicate the subject's support base — his/ her intellectual and emotional life raft.
2. Bombard the subject's senses with a steady diet of conflicting, confusing images and words in order to impair rational thought and discourage reflection (cognition). (The technical term for this is "thought disruption") The result is a "vacuum" where a belief system used to be.
3. Once a vacuum has been created, leaving the subject vulnerable and impressionable (the technical term is "willing to receive stimuli"), lead the subject to the desired ideas, concepts, and beliefs via trained intermediaries (i.e., facilitators); "clinicians", change agents, agitators, marketing gimmicks).
4. Condition the subject through repeated exposure to the "desired" beliefs using a wide variety of formats and activities - i.e., repeat the lies until the subject believes them.
5. Test, survey, or analyze market figures to ascertain whether the new beliefs have been internalized and accepted. If not "recycle" the subject—i.e., go back to Step 1.

Indoctrination depends on the intermediary (in this case, teacher trained as a change agent) appearing value-neutral even though the materials and the agenda are not. This is why the new breed of teacher is called a "coach," "clinician," "or "facilitator". Teachers are taught to avoid lectures, rote and workbooks, because instruction, as per the definition Baby Boomers (and older) who grew up with "knowledge imparted in a systematic manner" — is not desired.

Rather, the idea is to interpose, or smuggle in, certain impressions, notions, attitudes, judgments and conclusions into the vacuum created by stripping the belief system and impairing rational thought. In this way, viewpoints that might have been rejected by the pupil out of hand will appear plausible. That is the essence of psychological manipulation.

Look at Step 4 again, conditioning: This means the target population group must experience repeated exposure to the same "desirable" beliefs using a wide variety of formats and activities. The "desirable belief" in question can mean building support for anything from global warming and "Smart Growth" to international criminal courts and same-sex "marriage" (and COVID-ed)...end

WHERE IS THE EDUCATION CURRICULUM TAKING US? By Ken Grundy

“The philosophy of the school room in one generation will be the philosophy of the government in the next.”

Abraham Lincoln could not have put it in a better way! The National Curriculum has been prepared by the “Australian Curriculum Assessment report Authority” (ACARA) and is intended to form the basis of what and how education is delivered from 2022.

Three main ideologically driven areas to cleverly penetrate most subjects are: ‘Aboriginal and Torres Strait culture’; ‘Sustainability’ and ‘Asia and Australia’s engagement in Asia’. Traces of these topics will appear in English, Mathematics, Science, Technology, Human Society and its Environment. The problem is not so much the subject titles but rather the spin applied.

Dr Bella d’Abrera is among critics of the proposal and has written in the Daily Telegraph on several occasions. On (May 6 2021) she wrote that the proposed curriculum would deliver a dumbing down of Mathematics and the whole of the English language. She claimed there is no shred of evidence to suggest the new proposal was superior. No remedial plans are evident to correct the lack of knowledge regarding civics and citizenship. The agenda is driven from the ‘left’.

On another occasion, she wrote, “Unfortunately we shouldn’t be surprised that in one stroke of the pen the authors of the National Curriculum have wiped out Australia’s Christian heritage .... as if it never existed. It is easy for them because Christianity is barely mentioned in the current version of the curriculum.”

Sustainability is an encouraging title which could hardly be an undesirable aim for anyone. That is until the detail is provided. Places of learning and most of the mainstream media favour the left wing aspect of ‘sustainability’.

Climate change is a classic case in hand. Of course the climate is changing. It has done so since the beginning of time but most educational information blames human activity for the change. Professor Ian Plimer has challenged any science to confirm where human activity can be blamed. His challenge remains unanswered. Considering climate changes occurred well before industrialisation and the burning of fossil fuel, it is difficult to blame humans but this escapes the curriculum as does the benefits of carbon.

Gender fluidity does not fit under the Sustainability heading but does fit under the one-sided treatment. There are only two genders easily identified by visually inspecting the human ‘plumbing’ system. Maybe the mind causes some people to question their gender. Teachers encouraging Pauline to change her name to Paul if she feels like it, may not happen often but it too, is beyond the teaching role. Read again the Abraham Lincoln quote.

TIME FOR ACTION

Actionists are urged to use this article, or if more information is required, the best source would be from Dr Bella d’ Abrera <https://ipa.org.au>

Contact your MP’s including Senators. In particular the Minister for Education and Youth, The Hon Alan Tudge at Parliament House, Canberra. ACT 2600 needs to receive your call or letter.

It is reported that his committee is likely to respond favourably to submissions.

Get others involved: Parents and grandparents with a connection to private schools are recommended to contact Principals to encourage their resistance to these proposals. They are more likely to take up the matter than public schools.

Education is really a State matter but here is an example where the Federal has influential power. Any school not obeying the National Curriculum will not receive federal funding.

The quote from Abraham Lincoln is so appropriate; it should be mentioned in your correspondence.

As an aside, while we are considering the curriculum for the future government (and society) to which Lincoln refers; we could consider why we have a proposed National Curriculum prepared in such a style. Perhaps the answer is found in the curriculum operating 25 years ago and its influence on those in administration today. Now is the time for actionists to grab the steering wheel and head in the right direction. -- Nat Dir
