THE PURITAN ON THE PODIUM By Arnis Luks

Over this past weekend I have read multiple news articles on the trauma as a result of domestic violence. Numerous images and story-lines place you psychologically within that family’s tragic situation. The articles are deliberately meant for you to visualize yourself in amongst them and the rightness of the news report. The question of what circumstances brought about the tragedies, what were the main causal factors were never mentioned nor considered?

Janet Albrechtsen goes some way to respond to the political purposes behind the propaganda here:

A pox on the menacing face of modern feminism By Janet Albrechtsen
…enfeebled women and menacing men…

The ‘collective guilt’ behind such a psychological media-driven campaign is directed against all males. Mentioned in one article was of young boys being encouraged/directed to apologise to the young girls in the classroom. Brauer College, Warrnambool, Victoria. Public humiliation and collective shame are some of the Soviet's brainwashing techniques refined by the communist Chinese against their own population and against prisoners of war in Korea.

Statistics and Truth

I believe it was Stalin who said: the death of one is a tragedy, but the death of a million is a statistic. Statistics can be used to argue from any particular point of view. For instance, domestic violence can be perpetrated by either, male or female. Also, male on male violence, nor female on female is identified. I’m not aware of any statistic identifying the separation of same sex violence, against hetero sex violence. Nor from any who happen to identify differently from their biological birth-sex. Statistics can be used to argue from any particular point of view. What is important is to recognise the purpose and intent behind this barrage of media propaganda.

When the media presents images of a smiling baby, or fluffy toys, these images are psychological tools to depict the horror of one act of domestic violence by a deranged individual and yet the same news outlets fails to acknowledge the mass death of hundreds of thousands from within the same state who happened to be a couple of months younger than the pictured smiling baby. South Australia has the inglorious statistic of over 200,000 “successful” abortions since the law was first liberalised in 1969.

Equally as inconsistent, other news articles condemning organ harvesting by China from those practicing Falun Gong, and the hideous practice of organ harvesting from the not yet born. A litany of smug superiority and humbug on the part of the news outlets - hubris leading to nemesis.

COVID 19 and Statistics

News reports about current India death rates fail to point out the historical everyday ‘daily’ death rate of 25,000 per day for both India and China with their vast populations, and the reducing death rate per thousand since the 1950’s till today of 3:1; – 3 then and 1 now – statistics for propaganda purposes. 10% of that normal ‘daily’ death rate is now categorized as caused by COVID. This is while the PCR test cannot isolate to identify COVID 19. The exaggerated reports are propaganda to rush us over the cliff to dictatorship.

Indian Government calls critical article in Murdoch paper 'malicious, slanderous':
Further to these reports are other menacing articles about 'us' heading towards another great war. This compounding narrative contains 'The Big Idea' of the World Planners.

Common Sense and The Vote by Hewlett Edwards

For ten years nothing could stand against the armies of Napoleon. In 1808 the Duke of Wellington (then General Wellesley) suggested the diversion of a minor expeditionary force, to Spain, "This simple expedient, born in May, 1808, somewhere between the Irish Office and his house in Harley Street ... raised on the smooth surface of the Empire the 'Spanish Ulcer' which ultimately drained its strength.". The Duke's fancy - his light horse - eventually broke the heavy brigade of Napoleon Bonaparte.

The Heavy Brigade

During the last decade of the nineteenth century the London School of Economics was founded by Fabians; the project being supported (and later endowed in a bequest of some half million pounds) by Sir Ernest Cassel, who was then, in association with Jacob Schiff and Messrs. Kuhn Loeb of New York, a major focus of financial power. The plan was put into effect by Sydney Webb and Lord Haldane, who made it clear that "Our objective is to make this institution a place to raise and train the bureaucracy of the future Socialist State" - but it was one thing to prepare these socialist servants of monopoly, and another to put them into effective control of national affairs. The solution of this dilemma was stated without scruple: "Only in war, or under threat of war, will a British Government embark on large scale planning"; and, after the comforting substantiation of the required war, this idea was confirmed by Mr. Anthony Eden: "It seems that our New Order must be built through war, but it will be built just the same".

Indoctrinated bureaucracy was duly injected into the Administration, the most recent of a series of similar changes, each of which has followed a policy which is unmistakable.

In 1930 Professor H. J. Laski laid it down that "education is the clear foundation upon which the minds of men can be controlled," and this suggests the means for the "control of purpose" advocated by Archbishop Temple. Control of the individual is the dominating policy; of his mind and his purpose—yes—the control of his activities already being pretty well in hand".

It would be redundant to quote instances of the imposition of this policy; they are innumerable, and each in violation of the essence of the British Constitution, whereby under it, "a man is free to live, by no man's leave, underneath the law."

It is this condition which is to be destroyed. Shadowy influence is everywhere: behind the parliamentarians in the initiation of legislation: in the drafting of Bills: and among those who draw up the Party programmes.

At this point the policy to be injected becomes emulsified for the digestion of electors; whether it is presented in the mould of ideology, or pulped with current catchwords which may be construed as some aspect of what the ordinary man does want. Mr. Eden's "Nation of Property Owners" strikes a note resounding as Big Ben and hollow as an eggshell; while Mr. Churchill's recent reference to the "pure and mobile thought" of the U.S.A. electorate is above the common sense which observes the gyrations of their President in the effort to 'capture' their votes. To say that 'strings are pulled' is crude representation of the ceaseless flow of propaganda which inculcates just that blend of misinterpreted facts, noble sentiments and delusive proposals which will carry over into law some further binding down of the ordinary man to the will of those who want it so. In the outcome — the calculated sequence of a false relationship between men and things — is to be found the deployment of the heavy brigade.

"The one essential about common sense is ... the decisive exercise of judgment; whether to do this thing or that, whether to do either of them or nothing at all." Inadequate knowledge of facts, distortion of information, unscrupulous propaganda, the debased use of words, confused thought; all are contributory to a deterioration which amounts to paralysis in the use of common sense by the ordinary man. — End of Extract

250,000,000 Take To The Streets in India to Protest

The largest peaceful protest in the history of humanity took place in India on November 26, 2020 where a staggering 250,000,000 pan-India stood together in a worker's strike. Why? Against the nefarious farm bills surreptitiously passed without debate during lockdown, threatening food sovereignty, livelihood of farmers and accelerating the globalist takeover of the food supply. This report from our ABC fails to get anywhere near the root of the problem, nor to accurately report the numbers: https://www.abc.net.au/news/2021-03-16/sydney-indian-community-tensions-grow-over-farmers-protest/13249732 ... 250 Million people – the largest strike in history https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=Z9maFJewHQg

I'm OK, You're not OK – Or Pulpil For Beginners

Many years ago, as part of my personal development and training, the company I worked for sent me, along with my colleagues, to a retreat for team-building. The facilitator happened to be a well-known psychologist, who spoke of and explained the psychological "okay Corral" of Franklin H Ernst Jr, M.D., http://franklinernst.com/Publications/Guide%20to%20OK%20Corral.pdf

Understanding this psychological model will assist to identify where someone is coming from in what they say or do. Another tool to be aware of is "pulpil" of which Gilad Atzmon will explain here: https://gilad.online/writings/2020/5/18/pilpil-for-beginners

Understanding the use and technique of both these 'tools of argument' are important if you wish to uncover the truth of any matter.
The Trivium - again

I remember Dolly Parton once mentioning in regard to a mass shooting of young people, that it was not only the victims, it was also the young perpetrator who was lost during that tragic event. This was a telling comment, to consider the mental state and circumstances of the suspect or perpetrator in any assessment of a tragedy.

CH Douglas in “ Causes of War” mentions the direct correlation of bankruptcies with suicides. Images of the 1929 financial collapse, of men losing everything and jumping from buildings to their imminent death reinforces this correlation. In that instance, the planned and executed financial catastrophe was the trigger for moving people into a state of complete despair. Can we find other influences that move people into this state of complete despair?

In a recent "UK Column" broadcast, statistics were provided in regard the suicide of over 1,000 (military) personnel as a result of illegal garnishing of their wages under the banner of child support, compounded by their inability to achieve adequate child visitation rights.

The individuals responsible for administration of this Act within that bureaucratic department, were not only mentioned, but images provided. They have faces and names. The “state” is made up of real flesh and blood people. They see their position as one of power over others and not of service — public servant — ...I'm OK, you're Not OK.

State sanctioned brutalising caused these military personnel to go over the edge. The current state sanctioned brutalising of our isolated, elderly, in-firmed and vulnerable under the COVID 19 restrictions does not enter into any set of statistics, and yet the morbidity outcome may be the same. The psychological trauma inflicted upon our young by extended isolation and mask wearing may not surface statistically in the future, but the damage will have been done none the less.

Tradition as Wisdom – Or Falling For The Shadow

Tradition may be described as the simple man’s wisdom. Tradition places the father and mother as the ordained custodians of the family unit, marriage as a holy Sacrament between three parties, husband, wife and God. The lioness at the gate guards her young charges and develops and nurtures them in the sanctity of their family home. It is this foundational role of motherhood that is under the greatest challenges by these pedlars of propaganda.

The role of motherhood is discounted to our peril. The role is not sufficiently weighted in our minds to cause sustainable social stability. The reverse is actually occurring — by edict against the nuclear family.

The ‘child endowment’ payment was originally instituted to foster and support the nuclear family. The breadwinner’s wages were also biased to support the same. There was a time when our elites actively pursued the building up of our society, rather than as is now, the deconstruction of this most foundational unit of society.

Where are the advocates of today that support the nuclear family? Especially, in this age of automation, advanced control and robotics, where the necessity for work is hugely diminished. God's kingdom is one of plenty, not scarcity, an abundance. Where are the advocates to bring about God's kingdom? Why is there silence from those who should be making the most noise about these issues?

State as Mother and Father

The “state” is an abstraction. The administrators of each state function have a name, they reside somewhere, and they need to be held to account for their individual actions. Equally, we as individuals need to accept personal responsibility and live out our lives accordingly.

We cannot expect others to be held to account while we hide from life under the table. Worse still, is to avoid making decisions altogether and allow others to do that for us. You become a slave to someone else's whim. Speech, thought, travel, medical choices, dietary choices, work choices, career choices, all these freedoms are under attack in the planned future society, managed by ‘other’ people. Our Constitution, whereby under it, "a man is free to live, by no man's leave, underneath the law."

Why are they doing this?

The deconstruction of our society is a planned event no doubt. You may label those bringing this about as feminist, communist, internationalist or totalitarianist. The intent is the same, to de-construct our civilisation and remake it in the image of the communist slave state. We are at war, a war currently at the stage of demoralization against our culture and we are now at the point of crisis before collapse. For the most part, it is a war on our minds. We either have the vitality to respond against this coordinated and determined attack, or we face collapse and defeat.

What Does the Response Look Like? –

A Deliberate Act of Free Will

Individual initiative, which must include courage, personal discipline and development, are the counters to the collectivist state of mind – the crowd. Each week our readers are provided with an multitude of choice for further reading and viewing - personal discipline and development. You can be a full time / part time ‘advocate for freedom with responsibility’, as a deliberate act of free will, overcoming fear with courage.

It is time to accept this civilisational challenge, to move back amongst the community and take the initiative with this act of free will. The lockdown must be managed’ while these things occur, but they still must take place. There is always a way of achieving those things which appear difficult or even impossible. The parable of the ‘barren fig tree’ is of this very point.

By destroying manhood, they advocate (for women) to only find meaningful expression within the workforce - as an economic unit. This is the debasement of traditional womanhood with the deconstruction of the nuclear family unit – from the beginning it was not so:

Matthew 19: 3 And there came to him the Pharisees tempting him, and saying: Is it lawful for a man to put away his wife for every cause? Who answering, said to them: Have ye not read, that he who made man from the beginning, Made them male and female? And he said: For this cause shall a man leave father and mother, and shall cleave to his wife, and they two shall be in one flesh. Therefore now they are not two, but one flesh. What therefore God hath joined together, let no man put asunder. They say to him: Why then did Moses command to give a bill of divorce, and to put away? He saith to them: Because Moses by reason of the hardness of your heart permitted you to put away your wives: but from the beginning it was not so.

René Girard, in a recently viewed video, discusses in detail Peter’s thrice denial of knowing or associating with the Christ. Grieved by fear, Peter was unable to overcome at that time. Peter’s mimicking archetypal behaviour can grip us all. To step out and away from the security of the crowd requires a deliberate act of free will. It may also require personal sacrifice, loss of prestige. It might even require pain and suffering as most of Christ's disciples found.

It was the crowd which called for our Lord's crucifixion.

A deliberate act of free will to step out and away from the crowd, is the greatest creative opportunity we have been given. It is an act of faith. We enter the unknown, the uncomfortable, the demanding, an area of personal risk.

Major William Mayer in his work “Brainwashing: The Ultimate Weapon” reports that prisoners huddled in a group to keep warm while two (emaciated and soiled) prisoners were bodily picked up and thrown outside by their fellow prisoners to their imminent death (from the elements), while those who could have intervened to save them did not - indifference and conformity to the crowd.

Should we expect our Christian walk of faith to demand any less from us than those early disciples and Christians?

God has given us the necessary tools, the greatest of which is faith. We must choose to put these tools to good use, to step out and away from the security of the crowd and stand apart, proclaim and establish His kingdom on earth as it is in heaven. It starts with every conversation, interaction and thought – to right what is wrong. ***

Action Target

Even though the incidence of Covid 19 cases has declined, there is a threat that Australia may follow other moves and introduce a ‘vaccination passport’.

What does that mean? It means you would be required to show proof of being vaccinated before gaining access to a variety of services and facilities. It would be an extension of the current ruling where we are denied entry to Aged Care facilities to visit relatives UNLESS we prove our status of vaccination.

Of course once established it would likely be required to access banking, supermarkets, fuel stations, medical centres, sporting and social events.

It would become a Licence to Live

We have the basic right to choose whichever means available to achieve good health so we can avoid illness like Covid 19 but the passport would be available only to vaccinated people.

The whole system would be much like the Chinese surveillance system and has no place in our country.

Please use the Form letters attached to this issue of On Target to register your opposition to the passport.

One letter is for sending to your State Premier who sits at National Cabinet where this matter is likely to be on the agenda.

The other letter is for sending to your Senators who may be the ones to save us if the passport is part of legislation.

BEFORE you begin to sign it, please make some copies for sending to several Senators. Make sure some ALP Senators as well as Coalition Senators receive a letter from you.

Even more important will be the Independent and minor party Cross-bench Senators so make sure they get one of your letters.

Be active -- it couldn’t be much easier; just fill in the blanks and post it.

Regarding the House of Representatives is concerned, an appropriate petition is being drafted.
