Thought For The Week: "Simple people, like children, love security more than freedom; they worship authority blindly, and swallow its teaching whole. You may smile at this and say, "We are civilized. We don't behave like that..." We now condemn "Aristotelian dogmatism" as unscientific, yet there are still people who would rather argue from a book (or MSM-ed) than go out and find out what really does happen. The modern scientist is realistic; he tries experiments and abides by what he gets, even if it is not what he expected."

- Eric Rogers, Physics for the Inquiring Mind, p. 8

Dr. Jimmy Vigo... Science is only a tool to understand nature in a very approximate manner, nothing is exact. Math is rules that only apply inside the set ups of our universe. Our math, formulas, and statistics are only models for us to represent the manifestation of nature, in the sense that they are NOT telling us what nature is exactly. They rather tell us about systems that can work in this nature...

Science is NOT saying that the universe is made of these entities; it says that the system of those entities is a good model to explain most of what happens around us and is excellent as a base to build industries like electronics and drugs (medicines)... There is no absolute scientific knowledge of the universe, the elusive identity of time is a good example, and any science that refuses to independently and objectively revise/corroborate/ double-check any claim is automatically pseudoscience.

The true place of science in society is as a tool for us to make decisions on how to proceed to solve problem 'X' or to make product "Y". It is not to dictate at the societal arena what to implement as a dictator, because although it does represent the best understanding that humans can produce, it is unfortunately also subjected to 1) be very good in theory but bad in practice, 2) deliberate manipulations of data, 3) errors from instruments of measurements/calculations, 4) bad experimental method/design, 5) biased conclusions.

It is up to us, the ones in charge, to test/interrogate/question whoever proclaims the "big chairs of great scientists" and it is a scientific responsibility to test their scientific claims too. -- JBVigo, PhD

PETA CREDLIN AND DANIEL ANDREWS : PREYING FROM THE SAME SONGBOOK By Arnis Luks

In this week's media reports, the Premier of Victoria (Labor) and the former head of the Prime Minister's Department under Tony Abbott (Liberal) are both preaching unconstitutional totalitarianism. Peta Credlin in describing the National Cabinet as dysfunctional and in need of stronger national leadership for this once in a generation crisis, is advocating more power to politicians over and above our parliaments, welcoming in another era of dictators - Mao, Stalin or Adolf. State Premier Daniel Andrews now recommends lockouts - locking the state borders. Both advocates are suggesting unconstitutional to the Covid scenario.

Medical decisions are personal and informed choices, not the business of federal government. Freedom of movement since before Federation, unless you were incarcerated, has been an unquestionable right of every citizen to travel 'on the King's Highways' wherever, however and whenever they choose. Unrelenting COVID propaganda is nothing more than generating excessive fear as the psychological weapon of mass control.

These two articles from "technocracy news" show us how unreasonable (without reason) we have become:

Technocracy Exposed: Pseudopandemic Designed To Terrorize The Public

<https://www.technocracy.news/technocracy-exposed-pseudopandemic-designed-to-terrorize-the-public>

...Technocracy's coup d'état is now clearly seen and elucidated ...that it is a sham designed to transform the world. It was the gross exaggeration of the threat posed by a low mortality respiratory illness, comparable to influenza. The pseudopandemic was a psychological operation (psy-op) designed to terrorise the public. The objective was to accustom the people to a draconian system of government oppression by familiarising them with the mechanisms of a biosecurity state. The pseudopandemic was based upon an influenza like illness which, regardless of its origin, was not and is not a disease which can legitimately be considered the cause of a "pandemic." The only way it could ever be described as such was by the removal of any reference to mortality from the World Health Organisation's definition.

Behavioral Science As The Weapon Of Control

UK government recruits "behavioral warfare" psychologists to engineer vaccine compliance schemes
<https://www.naturalnews.com/2021-06-30-uk-government-behavioral-warfare-psychologists-vaccine-compliance.html#>

Not enough people are willingly lining up to get injected for the Wuhan coronavirus (Covid-19) so the British government is resorting to "behavioral warfare" programs to try to brainwash the masses into compliance. According to reports, government bureaucrats in the United Kingdom are now hiring "behavioral warfare" psychologists to come up with devious new ways of convincing the vaccine "hesitant" to roll up their sleeves and permanently alter their DNA in order to help "flatten the curve." Mind manipulation experts are busily scheming up fresh ideas to "sell" the notion that "vaccines" are the best and only way to stay "safe" against the Chinese Infection.

There is a war on for your mind, as behavioural scientists increasingly shape the narrative that you hear and see. This is especially true in regards to Covid-19. As a UK government document from March of last year stated, "many issues around the coronavirus response relate to behaviour."

This is why the UK government has an entire team of behavioural scientists who work to improve public compliance with scientific dictates in relation to Covid-19. It is called the Independent Scientific Pandemic Insights Group on Behaviours (SPI-B), with a similar group formed during the so-called Swine flu pandemic of 2009/10 and the Ebola crisis of 2014. The behavioural team is a sub-group of the Scientific Advisory Group for Emergencies (SAGE), which advises the UK government on Covid-19. This sub-group is comprised of more than 40 scientists and academics, from such fields as health psychology, social psychology and anthropology. They provide "behavioural science advice aimed at anticipating and helping people adhere to interventions that are recommended by medical or epidemiological experts." The behavioural sub-group has suggested various measures in order to increase public compliance with Covid dictates. For instance, the sub-group suggested "increasing risk perceptions." A UK government document also notes that the behavioural sub-group is "maintaining a log of COVID-19 specific behavioural science, including polling." In other words, Covid-19 is the grandest live social experiment in human history, and we are the guinea pigs...

Governments Are Engaging in Behavioral Warfare to Push Vaccines. Is This Just the Dry Run?

<https://noqreport.com/2021/06/28/governments-are-engaging-in-behavioral-warfare-to-push-vaccines-is-this-just-the-dry-run/>

The Organisation for Economic Co-operation and Development (OECD) defines behavioural insights as "an inductive approach to policy making that combines insights from psychology, cognitive science, and social science with empirically-tested results to discover how humans actually make choices." The OECD notes that there are over 200 institutions around the world that are applying behavioural insights to public policy. "We are being programmed," warns J.D. Rucker, writing for No Q Report. "There are a few who are aware of the propaganda and indoctrination campaigns geared towards complete vaccination of the United States population." "There is a war on for your mind, as behavioural scientists increasingly shape the narrative that you hear and see. This is especially true in regards to Covid-19."

In the U.K., the Independent Scientific Pandemic Insights Group on Behaviours, also known as SPI-B, is doing whatever it takes to sway all holdouts to give up the fight and roll up their sleeves. Similar groups are doing the same thing here in the U.S.

Redefining - redirecting - consensus-building - marketing Appealing marketing slogans are defined by advertisers. As soon as people are aware what the slogans and terminologies really mean the slogan is changed to achieve the same or similar outcome - global warming becomes climate change, covid-19 becomes delta variant etc.

Cloning of The World's Mind

Beverly Eakman in her 6th book titled "Cloning of the American Mind" walks the reader through the gathering of all your personal information and subsequent manipulation of your opinion, starting from the psychological agenda imposed over pre-school children, through virtually every interaction we experience within education, entertainment, media, employment and most of our social institutions. Gathering a massive database of information on every individual in society is also at the heart of the surveillance state.

Eakman gives you example after example of the imposition of foreign thoughts into your psyche, with collection and correlation of the effect of this 'programming into your personal thoughts' through all education levels, purchasing history, employment, credit worthiness and vast arrays of other information gathering systems, to the point that analysts are capable of 'predicting' with confidence your individual personal behaviour, and of course any remedial reprogramming. This information gathering, at the same time as the imposition of ongoing propaganda over your thoughts, can readily identify 'areas for further work' to close the gap of where social engineers wish to take you, to the point where your thoughts are not yours at all, but your mind is in a position of malleability, ready for injection of other thoughts. Monitoring of the effectiveness of these 'thought injections' is done as the feedback mechanism as to the effectiveness of the psy-op program.

Chris Kenny's recent Australian article of indications of collective 'Stockholm Syndrome', analysts can extract this process of 'thought control' (of the current Covid imposition) with almost real-time feedback through marketing research and polling. Before you can even put pen to paper, the political analysts in almost real-time, knows the results of the thought injections. Feedback from your politician to you is determined by the latest polling-analysing-re marketing-re polling results.

Political Parties and Data Garnishing

Data gathering and providing information to interested parties is the essence of the surveillance state and also any modern marketing strategy. For a price, almost all collected information is available, whether bona fide or through underground sources. All political analysts use data-information as the basis of their policies and feedback for their target audience or electorate. Participation in a program of data garnishing can also be a two-way street, gathering and entering data into the very draconian system they are utilising. This method is feeding the monster of the surveillance state, while possibly proposing an alternative to avoid or even undo 'the surveillance state'.

Peta Credlin and Daniel Andrews, whether knowingly working together or not, are 'nudging' public opinion towards mandatory vaccinations, certificates and closed state borders. In this state of increasing panic, the public are being softened up to accept totalitarian outcomes. There is no question in regard to the observable and demonstrable scientific legitimacy of benefits to mask wearing, mRNA injections, or lockdowns as effective treatments against what I'm not sure.

No one is asking : What are the symptoms? Do you feel unwell? Have you any congestion or difficulty in breathing? How many are in Intensive Care at the moment? How many people are not receiving any treatment whatsoever? How many died from this cause? There are no cards on the table of information to realistically analyse. Just statistics, computer models within this abstract and theoretical nightmare, and now the national-covid-plan to not open up until late 2022.

Yesterday, 30th of June 2021, there was one person in intensive-care in all of Australia identified as a Covid patient. 12 million people are locked down. In this atmosphere of fear, statistics and observable fact mean little or nothing. More than 95% of covid fatalities are over 70 years of age - no variance from normal morbidity. Positive covid testing results can be false positives or show no symptoms whatsoever. Contact with anyone who has a positive test result will include you into the statistics of Covid, as will those who you happen to also contact within the time window. Very few 'by historical seasonal flu standards' end in a fatality within Australia. Covid identification for a mortality does not mean the deceased has been tested and that Covid is the only cause of morbidity; just that they have had certain symptoms that could be covid-like. The PCR test is not designed to isolate for identification COVID-19. Statistics and observable fact mean little or nothing when you are in a state of fear and panic.

The Inductive (Scientific) Method - Deductive Reasoning vs. Inductive Reasoning

"Readers of crime fiction will be familiar with two types of detectives. One adopts the card index method of Francis Bacon, collecting all relevant information piece by piece. The other follows a hunch, like Newton... From time to time the philosophers of science emphasize the merits of one or the other, and write as if one or the other were the true method of science. The unity of science resides in the nature of the result, the unity of theory with practice. Each type of detection has its use, and the best detective is one who combines both methods, letting his hunch lead him to the best hypotheses and keeping alert to new facts while doing so."

- Lancelot Hogben, Science for the Citizen, 1938, p747

Inductive vs. Deductive Method

The inductive method (usually called the scientific method) is the deductive method "turned upside down". The deductive method starts with a few true statements (axioms) with the goal of proving many true statements (theorems) that logically follow from them. The inductive method starts with many observations of nature, with the goal of finding a few, powerful statements about how nature works (laws and theories). In the deductive method, logic is the authority. If a statement follows logically from the axioms of the system, it must be true. In the scientific method, observation of nature is the authority. If an idea conflicts with what happens in nature, the idea must be changed or abandoned.

Is Science Entirely Inductive?

Physicists make extensive use of mathematics as a powerful theoretical tool. Theoretical physicists often construct theories as "mathematical models" deductively, starting with assumptions about the inner workings of stars or atoms, for instance, and then working out the mathematical consequences of their assumptions.

An essential difference between a mathematician and a theoretical physicist is that the physicist uses mathematics as a reasoning tool. The success of the mathematical model depends on how well its results agree with observations of nature - if they do not agree the physicist knows that this means that their assumptions - not the observations - need to be adjusted.

Our Chief Medical Officers are predicting that Covid will bring about a mass extinction event if left unchecked without their intervention of QR Codes, masks, lockdowns, mRNA injections, medical passports and the police surveillance state. The natural world shows that for morbidity alone, Covid is no worse than any other seasonal flu. The Chief Medical Officers' predictions do not correspond with what is observable in nature and needs to be adjusted based on what is observable in nature - the scientific method. The prediction is not being adjusted, due to the political nature of these draconian methods of totalitarian "behavioural warfare". A world communist state is the objective, and this method of psychological manipulation of the masses (without any scientific demonstrable justification), is deliberately headed towards the world medical totalitarian state.

The Malleable Mind

At the weekend market I was fortunate to enter into a lively discussion with a young mum. My take on her interesting thoughts go something like this:

...women have been conned into the cultural-marxist-feminist movement of emancipation by employment. Women have given up their greatest calling of raising the next generation within the traditional family unit by handing this responsibility over to the state.

...The state has demonstrated an unhealthy manipulation of our children's minds to the point where children growing up into today's parents and grandparents do not reason, but follow without any critical faculty. Nor do they demonstrate adherence of traditional absolutes or moral anchors. They are putty in the hands of these psychological manipulators without the traditional guardianship of the family arrangement. Modern industry does not require women's participation in a diminishing workforce. Cultural-marxism has deconstructed the family by separating mother and child to leave them both rudderless within this politically correct ideology...

There was more to it, but that is enough for now.

We are all being constantly psychologically manipulated and conditioned from three main areas : Main Stream Media, Education and Entertainment. Each comes from a different angle; all with sinister intentions being masked within this psy-op conditioning.

Group dynamics is the most utilised tool against 'individual thought and reason' - being the important work area for any personal development - to educate is to lead out or develop your latent or potential self.

Each week I look to see within my writing what I have learnt and am able to impart towards others. This is an important exercise to demonstrate what I am actually thinking and not just regurgitating back towards the source. If I can't write about it clearly enough for you to understand, I have missed my mark. The League's training resources are many and varied to suit your own personal learning styles. From Video and Podcast, to Journals and Archives which cover thousands of titles and hundreds of years. The real battle is for your mind in this area of ideas, and cannot be fought without sufficient exercise and regular personal training.

Thank you to all who entered into the fray with the Petitions and helping to spread the word. Paper petitions received 560 signatures and the e-petition just over 6000.
