Thought For The Week:

Push Back - Australia's Fight For Freedom
The longest journey begins with the first step

ARE WE TO FOLLOW IN 1933 GERMANY'S FOOTSTEPS? By Arnis Luks

Media articles depict the worsening political situation in Australia, not only on the economic front with the gross bankrupting and indebting of our people, but inordinate psychological pressure to the point of the significant increases of suicides. The escalation of violence at anti-lockdown protests is now surfacing as the real political agenda – a more militant police state of totalitarianism.

Crowds were provoked and crowd dispersing weapons deployed. The media is refusing to focus on any of these huge issues, but rather the fixation on the number of positive PCR results - brainwashing of the public to choose supposed safety over freedom. 1933 Germany was caught up in this same psychological dilemma - psyop.

Society have continued to be mesmerised almost as long as societies have existed. Spin doctors are masters at this (witch)craft. Noting a few responses regarding the loss of our ancient freedoms and the corporatising of our economy, I am having to reluctantly realise that many (at the moment) do not wish to lift the veil of deceit and start thinking for themselves, in fact most people are behaving as mushrooms and happily feeding on the same. I see that energy must be directed towards those that choose to do something about restoring our ancient freedoms.

I have just completed watching Dr Judy Wilyman's eight interviews on covid, the chronic effects of vaccines and our experiencing of this medical tyranny. This policy intends to inflict immeasurable physical harm on every Australian. The current government has been at the forefront of full vaccination of our children since 2015, with financial and educational penalties to all naysayers. The now 16 scheduled vaccines for our children amount to about 50 injections over the course of their education with financial penalties imposed against families who refuse to vaccinate as the stick to beat them into compliance. I also find the carrot, there are financial benefits for clinics which promote vaccines and medication as 'the primary' legitimate form of medical care.

Let's be clear on this issue; nearly 50% of our children now suffer from some form of chronic illness. These chronic illnesses place them on the medical never-never requiring intervention all of their life. The medical system damages them and then provides the solution. A never ending gravy train for big pharma.

Liberal (LibLabor) parties, being really only one political party, both pursue this policy. The dominating political party system, reinforced by MSM is a product of these (medical) cartels as was Hitler in 1933 Germany.

To begin to describe this policy as organised evil is an understatement. To acknowledge even a crumb of goodwill coming from it is an overstatement. The medical cartels, who holds significant influence over our media and major political parties, are having a field day damaging us and our children. They are making a killing. There are reports just this past week of mass vaccination events of our children going on in NSW and the NT. Any publicly demonstrated dissent is now met with increasingly strong-arm tactics from our governments.

Our politicians, being keenly aware of the upcoming federal and state elections, are in need of placing some runs on the board in order to get over the electoral line. Political Parties are no more than organised gangs. The fiasco of the WA liberal pre-selection manipulation is only the tip of an iceberg of corruption within all parties. Let's be realistic, they are responsible for damaging our children and if we fail to take into account their 'gangs' involvement we have missed the mark.

While George Christenson has finally found his political voice, it has taken him a political lifetime to get there as he is heading out the door risking little of any real consequence. He has not been in the trenches with the troops, but signals a final gesture as he departs from a lifelong attendance at the trough. Is there anyone you can really trust? I say a very loud no!

Only by their fruits can you know them.

OnTarget Vol 57 No 05 - 12th February 2021 covers the historical record of gunboat diplomacy against China exercised by mega-corporations during the Opium Wars. This was to physically, intellectually and psychologically (spiritually) injure the Chinese in order to allow unencumbered exploitation of their natural resources by these mega-corporations. This policy is no different today with the vaccine schedule over our children and now the mass injections of mRNA gene therapy to our entire population so as to allow unencumbered exploitation of our natural resources while impoverishing our nation through irredeemable debt. This may be a different time in history from the Opium Wars but the methods are aligned with the same purpose / policy outcome.

Big finance and big pharma are making a killing!

Gunboat Diplomacy can just as readily be directed 'personally' against our politicians. We need to understand this if there is to be any effective pushback.

Former PM Tony Abbott is concerned with the demise of the coalition voter base, warning that any loss will give the Greens/Labor alliance government. I do not think policy will change one iota with a change of government from coalition to Greens/Labor. We need to try something entirely different to achieve a different result. Voting is much more important than just another horse race, winner take all. It is the future for generations yet to come. Voting does not conclude at elections but continues every day until your political voice is heard.

Ted Mack, former Federal and State MP, and Mayor of North Sydney, introduced novel forms of open government into North Sydney council. His two papers on this and other important issues are vital reading/listening to see what has worked in the recent past.

Henry Parkes Oration By Ted Mack

extract...Political parties as they have developed over the last century seem like two Mafia families seeking control of the public purse for distribution to themselves, supporters, the special interests who fund them and for buying votes at the next election. Political parties are not mentioned in the Constitution. They are effectively unregulated private organisations but they now control government treasuries. When they unite with common interests, for example funding themselves, the public are mostly powerless except on the rare occasions when public outrage is too great. For example the attempted 60 million dollar virtually secret increase in public funding for the parties earlier this year (2013).

Both parties have rightly suffered huge reductions in membership over the last few years almost in direct proportion to the centralisation of power in their organisations.

Public election funding and huge allowances have reduced the party's need for workers for elections. Candidates now can rely on direct mail, general advertising and paid help.

By centralising power as Tony Fitzgerald puts it: The public interest is subordinated to the pursuit of power, party objectives and personal ambitions, sometimes including the corrupt acquisition of financial benefit. Branch stacking has become endemic and as Fitzgerald says "The parties gift electorates to family connections, malleable party hacks and mediocre apparatchiks"...end

The Prodigal Son

The biblical narrative of the prodigal son is a parable for our time. Our constitution is 120 years old, being the high water mark of accumulation of the cultural wisdom of that time 1890s - 1900. Since 1901 our limiting constitution has been under constant attack, and, generally speaking, we have failed to recognise the great cultural gift bestowed upon us (we have squandered our inheritance), especially in the last 60 years.

As we begin to sup on the pigswill of totalitarianism, the realisation of our folly becomes more apparent by the day. Constitutions, especially our constitution as a limiting document, are a rich cultural inheritance in the political realm. They must be defended and updated as circumstances evolve. Maintaining and defending our cultural inheritance is a task for every generation.

Love Letter To America By Yuri Bezmenov

https://alor.org/Storage/Library/PDF/Bezmenov\_Y-Love\_Letter\_To\_America.pdf

Soviet dissident Yuri Bezmenov warned the West, as did Whittaker Chambers and Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn 30 to 50 years ago. We failed to sufficiently listen to those warnings, so the task set before us is more difficult than it would have been back then. But it is not impossible. It will take a persistent and unwavering push-back to restore Australia's limiting Constitutional Democracy. But even more than that, the 'Keys' listed further on in this document will unlock democracy for generations not yet born.

Over the coming weeks I will present thoughts on 'The Keys to Unlocking Democracy'. These are certainly not original, but rather the accumulation of generations of thinking gone before us. They are part of our rich cultural inheritance and have been withheld by our subverted educational systems at least for the past 60 or so years. We must relearn these important lessons of history and put in place suitable safeguards against the forever present attempts towards political tyranny.

Push Back - Australia's Fight For Freedom - The Keys to Unlocking Democracy

- Hare-Clarke voting method for all lower house seats (being converted into voting regions)
- CIR - The Peoples Law introduced to all levels of government
- Anti-Monopoly Laws, especially all forms of media ownership and inordinate cartel influence over our media
- Repatriation of all our national assets and primary industry to Australia with Australian ownership restored
- Rehabilitation of the People's Bank to all levels of government, and the repatriation of all personal and private debt as a legitimate function of national security
- Rehabilitation of all our learning institutions - civics and our rich cultural heritage, the three Rs and Classical education :- grammar, logic and rhetoric
- Implementation and facilitation of the industrial arts to the point where the working week be reduced, retirement age lowered and all forms of income be supplemented with a 'National Dividend for all' as their rightful cultural inheritance - sufficient to liquidate all prices of Australian Goods and Services at the point of sale
- Open, Accountable and Responsible Government – Hansard record for all public committees and meetings including parliamentary cabinets, except where legal advice is sought – an open and full record of events and outcomes of the public service available for scrutiny
- Open, Accountable and Responsible Vote – an open and full record of responsibility and accountability of the voter
- A full Constitutional Review through a series of open public conventions attended by popularly elected representatives. Originating at the local government level, then the state and working through to conclusion at the federal level.

Is there a Statesman or Stateswoman who will stand on this platform?

Will those who claim themselves statesman and stateswomen initiate their own campaign of educational service for the community? And will they continue on this campaign of service until these objectives are achieved?

Will voters also commit to placing the sitting member last for every election and only vote in order of priority for those candidates who will implement the 'Keys to Unlocking Democracy' policies? This is a long-term strategy for the restoration of democracy within Australia.

Hare-Clarke

Within the 'Keys to Unlocking Democracy' is the Hare-Clarke voting method. The purpose behind this existing electoral work-practice for both the ACT and Tasmania, is the reduction of the dominating influence of the two major political parties. The existing single-seat-electorate system barely achieves 50% representation from the voters except through the flow of preferences. By having lower house "regions" of 5 or 7 seats allows a clearer reflection of the people's choices for representation.

Under Hare-Clarke in a five-seat-electorate region, there is the potential for 5/6ths of the voting public finding first preference representation within the parliament.

Under Hare-Clarke in a seven-seat-electorate region, there is the potential for 7/8ths of the voting public finding first preference representation within the parliament.

What is Hare-Clark?

The Hare-Clark counting system is used in Tasmania (and in a form in the ACT-ed) to elect five Members to each division (region-ed) of the Tasmanian House of Assembly.

Hare-Clark is a Single Transferable Vote (STV) method of proportional representation. STV means that a ballot paper moves between candidates as determined by the elector's marked preferences. The Australian Senate also uses a proportional representation counting system, although their counting system has some significant differences to Hare-Clark.

Hare-Clark enables parties, groups and independents to be elected to the House of Assembly in proportion to their support in the division (region-ed). In other words, compared to other counting systems, the composition of the Lower House more closely reflects the proportion of primary votes for each party on a state-wide (and region-wide-ed) basis.

Where does the name Hare-Clark come from?

Thomas Hare was an Englishman who, in 1856, proposed the idea of a proportional representation election system which was further developed and became known as the Hare system.

Andrew Inglis Clark, Tasmania's Attorney-General from 1887-92 and 1894-97, proposed a modified version of the Hare system which became Tasmanian law in 1896. This is now known as the Hare-Clark electoral system and it has been used statewide since 1907.

The ballot paper displays multiple columns of candidate names. Each registered political party can nominate candidates to appear in a single column under the party name. A group of other candidates can nominate to run together in a column however without a column title. The order of these columns across the ballot paper is determined by a draw. All ungrouped candidates are listed in the final column.

Under Hare-Clark, electors must mark preferences for individual candidates unlike the Australian Senate ballot papers which include above-the-line voting where electors can choose a specific party or other column of candidates.

While the term Hare-Clark was originally given to just the process of counting votes, more recently it has taken on a broader meaning to also include a specific ballot paper configuration and rotation of candidate names (Robson Rotation).

Robson Rotation is a process of rotating candidate names within each column so that the advantage of appearing at the top of the column or directly below another popular candidate are shared equally between candidates. Neil Robson, a former member of the House of Assembly, introduced the process to the Tasmanian Parliament in 1979.

Note: In Victoria and WA, their modified constitutions have sneakily placed their Upper House elections into regions in order to stifle any view for the benefit of the 'state as a whole', similar to our Senate at the federal level. This needs to be reviewed for their Upper House to better reflect the view of 'benefit for the state as a whole'.

More than half of US households paid no federal income tax last year

An article from an American news service indicates a 40% increase in the number of families no longer earning sufficient income to pay tax. This now represents more than half of all US households. Australian family situations would be little different. Combined with the "No Jab, No Work" corporate initiative places compounding pressures upon all Australians. As mentioned previously our media news services are not presenting these facts as newsworthy. In a healthy development, originating naturally from the grassroots, is a marked increase in informative newsworthy emails. Perhaps the Internet does hold this key to the dissolution of the mainstream media monopolies and censorship by omission.

Not to put all our eggs in one basket, the printed word has a legitimate permanency about it. Pondering the written word allows an opportunity for contemplation and further consideration. Audiovisual, while entertaining does not hold this permanency, and is by its very nature transient. The issues we are dealing with every week in OnTarget require that level of contemplation and further consideration. Further, these issues require a certain level of commitment and personal research and investigation.

Freedom must be in a Moral and Responsible environment in order to maintain permanency

God Bless Australia was a proposed 1961 Australian national anthem by Australian songwriter Jack O'Hagan to the traditional tune of Waltzing Matilda.

God Bless Australia

Here in this God given land of ours, Australia
This proud possession, our own piece of earth
That was built by our fathers, who pioneered our heritage,
Here in Australia, the land of our birth.

God bless Australia, Our land Australia,
Home of the Anzac, the strong and the free
It's our homeland, our own land,
To cherish for eternity,
God bless Australia, The land of the free.

Here in Australia, we treasure love and liberty,
Our way of life, all for one, one for all
We're a peace loving race, but should danger ever threaten us,
Let the world know we will answer the call.

TARGET FOR THE WEEK

Recently the Target was set encouraging letters to be written to MP's about the National Curriculum draft proposals for schools to adopt in 2022.

The proposals were very much to the left with notable exclusions being references to our British heritage; the Constitutional Monarchy system of government and the origin behind many of our laws etc.

Minister Alan Tudge who is responsible for Education was suggested as one to receive your letters.

This week the Minister has rejected the whole proposal and told the committee to rewrite it before he will consider endorsing it with his signature.

It is not often our letters have such an effect, so he deserves our support. We can imagine the left will be angry with his decision so it needs countering with some generous support. In your letters of support encourage him to direct the committee to focus on the importance of our heritage which has provided the most stable form of government.

All Federal MP's and Senators can be addressed at "Parliament House", Canberra. ACT 2600 - ND
