Thought For The Week: A 'Problem' correctly stated is already half solved - CH Douglas

And being asked by the Pharisees, when the kingdom of God should come? he answered them and said: The kingdom of God cometh not with observation: Neither shall they say: Behold here, or behold there. For lo, the kingdom of God is within you. Luke 17:20-21: Douay-Rheims 1899 American Edition

THE KINGDOM WITHIN By Arnis Luks

Covid 19 and Climate are presented as threats to strip the assets of the whole world using the rigged financial system as the mechanism. The Lima Agreement and Climate Agenda 21, 2030 and now 2050, we sent western industry across to developing nations such as China. Shutting down our own industry under Lima and jeopardising the stability of coal fired power generation over our own remaining industrial security, we have put in place (fly by the seat of your pants) wind turbines and solar arrays with big batteries. The lockstep/lockdown makes the West reliant upon developing nations for filling up the shelves. This is industrial and political madness.

While the news headlines are directing attention towards the many and varied scuffles on the ground, it's appropriate to ask some questions: How did we get here? What forces were in play simultaneously across the world? Who is driving this globalist agenda? Is this an entirely natural phenomena beyond man's control that can explain what we are experiencing? Has there been a meteor shower or other observable catastrophe that has thrown the world out of kilter?

Reading "Usury and the Church of England" by the Rev Henry Swabey was hard work. The evidence presented is concentrated throughout the 150 page dissertation. Literally hundreds of other author's works are confirming his thesis of the historical condemnation of usury as a social pariah.

Usury, meaning 'bite', was condemned by the traditional church as a great sin against both the individual and society. What is usury? It is not simple nor straight forward to put your finger on an accurate definition. The traditional church's arguments against usury highlighted the 'charging for the use of money' as part of this sin. Lack of risk was another. Lack of shared partnership was another. Scripturally the condemnation of usury goes back millennia. However, the modern Protestant movement under Calvin, has gone so far as to tolerate and even license usury as a legitimate function of a modern financial business - neoliberalism or libertarianism. If Usury is the illicit manipulation of money as an inert medium, then 'What is money?'

Money is a method of attributing value - financial value, generally for economic goods or services. Money is simply a measuring tool. As a measuring tool should we be charged for the use of it? The correct answer is no.

Swabey highlights that Bishoprics (a diocese or region of a church which a bishop governs) had their own mints to ensure no shortage of physical money. Physically, money then was just stamped blank coins (which could be copper or lead or tin or silver or gold), or even shells or bits of wood. How then from the Bishopric did the money get issued? Was it just spent into circulation, handed out to those who needed it? Should money just be handed out today to those who need it like the latest helicopter money proposals?

Real Credit from Modern Manufacturing

In the modern industrial world manufactured-goods are generally a function of community effort and cultural inheritance. Technology today has taken us to the point where shortages, or scarcity are extremely rare. Have you ever heard of a shortage of cars to buy? (except during the forced lockstep/lockdown of the whole world which severely restricted supply chains.) Neither have I. If a factory is having trouble supplying orders, the factory managers simply expand the business to satisfy the increased demand. The same situation occurs in every industry. If the demand is there, individuals take up the slack and provide the service.

In our physical world shortages and scarcity are extremely rare. Unless....Cars are a prime example during this lockstep/lockdown. Transport and distribution are being severely restricted during covid lockstep/lockdowns. This causes a shortage of available cars from overseas manufacturers for our market to sell, which effect is now compounding towards second-hand car prices to rise to the benefit of the seller. Deliberate supply 'shorting' of an item causes the price to rise. There are many historical examples of where a producer/distributor has deliberately destroyed a crop/product to optimise profit - think of the spice trade where crops were deliberately burnt/destroyed to increase their selling price - ploughing in the harvest.

So the moral question, not the production/supply question comes to the fore. Is profit a more important priority than supply or national security? Ask the Irish during the potato famine – all the other crops did not fail, only the potato crop in which the merchant/usurer gave no consideration to the starving, only their filthy lucre. The immoral abstract became more real than the human suffering. Hundreds, if not thousands of similar occurrences are found in the historical records if you take the time to investigate. Joseph with his coat of many colours was another shorting of supply against Egypt.

Financial Credit

A world of material abundance is not correspondingly so in the financial realm. Money, as a measuring tool, is deliberately held in short supply. Today, money as credit, can only be accessed by mortgaged debt, even for governments. CH Douglas on the other hand, presented the case that sufficient money (as spending power) in the community's hands should be balanced (held in equilibrium) with the prices associated with what the community produces. As a measuring tool this approach makes sense to hold both in balance so as not to put pressure on the available spending power, nor unnecessarily on the producer's prices. Money is only a man devised method for distribution of the fruit of production.

With more thought given to the subject, understanding of how usury has evolved into the modern day variety can also provide a way of freeing us from their grip.

Usury is the power exercised by financial manipulation over the economic interests of society - financial credit being exercised over the real credit. This financial/economic power rightfully belongs to the individuals in society. Not the government, not the church, not secret societies or think tanks, nor the financial institutions, but to the individuals in society. So modern usury becomes: the filching of the community's inheritance (of the fruit of the real credit) by the manipulation of financial credit for private purposes - stealing the community's cultural inheritance.

The National Dividend - A Negative Tax

As governments confiscate incomes through taxation, the Douglas proposal of a National Dividend performs the reverse function of placing into the physical hands of the individual a financial dividend - essentially and factually a money vote to be exercised within the economic system as they see fit. A small cup of supplemental 'credit-power' to alleviate the inherent shortfall of available spending power within existing "prices". As the political vote was conceived (across many hundreds of years) to distribute political power across communities, so the economic vote as proposed by Douglas, distributes financial power with the dividend.

Real Credit

If the raw materials, the massive historical investment in infrastructure and all sorts of utilities, the massive historical legacy of technology are all included within our inheritance, our cultural heritage, who then does the fruit of production and the whole purpose of production belong to, but the community. The manufacturer must be compensated to alleviate costs and a legitimate profit – for sure. But the purpose of producing in the first place is for people to consume. Thinking only in terms of money causes an entirely skewed perspective on the natural world. Numbers, an abstract perspective, being more important than what is actually being achieved in the real and natural world. Can we start looking to factually see the world of plenty in context rather than the abstract world of scarcity presented by the money-power-industrial-MSM-education-behemoth?

The Abstract Voter

With several states and a federal election on the horizon, it's important to separate truth from wishful thinking. Craig Kelly MP is attending anti-lockdown rallies around the nation on behalf of United Australia Party. He is managed dissent with the hope of harvesting a healthy vote for UAP. Scott Morrison is presenting the narrative that he is arguing with Daniel Andrews over covid restrictions. As if written for a wrestling match, these players are all running to script.

The truth is we have been in lockstep/lockdown for nearly 2 years and every politician has done nothing to alleviate the carnage against our limiting Constitution, the economic and financial destruction imposed on the middle class (which is nearly all of us) with this massive confiscation of assets - loss of cashflow, employees, business or home equity; to draw in a compliant public to rely on the federal government for financial handouts; and to surrender all rights to independence and bodily autonomy. We have experienced a coup d'état at all levels of government with all political parties in lockstep. This is hard to fathom but our governments have been taken over by a foreign power while all the usual players are still in position. This is what has occurred.

Wikipedia describes a successful coup d'état as lasting longer than 7 days. We are two years in and yet do not realise what has occurred. We have lost control of our constitutionally limited governments and we live in the entirely deluded hope to right the wrong at the next election. Any change in future voting patterns for the next round of elections will not alleviate the circumstances we find ourselves in, especially considering the massive election frauds conducted across the world in supposedly free nations. Our results will be no better, for sure. The covid/climate program continues.

Voting as a Mechanism for Effective Representation

Filling in a piece of paper every 3 or 4 years is not democracy - rule by the people. It is not even close. It is firstly a manipulated fraud for the benefit of criminal gangs called political parties. We have been subject to a massive psyop - psychological operation, to bring about world government with the final nail in the coffin of our freedoms being the planned introduction of central bank digital currency. Every move you make, every thing you buy will be monitored; and you will be assessed as to mandated compliance. The tyranny of parliament acting as the agents of a foreign power is complete, our constitution is overthrown with the corruption of political parties controlled and fully supportive towards the money-power. MSM is simply the propaganda arm and cheer squad for this centralised power. We must look elsewhere if we are to regain our ancient freedoms.

Transferring Responsibility

Employers are now required to maintain medical records of their workers to ensure "jab" compliance, facing massive fines for any failures. Where did this come from except through a massive propaganda campaign from big Pharma. This is the face of corporate Fascism - (international) industry driving government policy. The proposed medical passport - a digital identification system - is an integral part of the agenda to introduce a central bank digital currency. World government is a Fascist dictatorship controlling every step you take, cameras everywhere, smart devices, QR codes, digital records everywhere, assessment everywhere and all fully digitised thanks to the West. These things did not occur by chance but were planned, and our governments have been in on the subversion from the beginning. The high speed internet NBN did not just happen but was planned and implemented across the free world. It does not matter who you vote for the results will continue along this path unless...

A Moral Question

Is it right and moral for a small group of individuals to control the people of the world and all the assets of the world for their good pleasure? Is it?

OR Is it right and moral for every individual to enjoy sufficient freedom to choose or refuse one thing at a time, to control their own space and maintain bodily autonomy as they see fit for their good pleasure? Is it? Only one answer can be 'more' correct. Your answer depends on your point of view, your philosophy.

Collectivism, whether it is ideological or theological, answers that the group is of more importance than the individual so world control for those few's good pleasure is correct from that philosophical point of view.

On the other hand IF "the kingdom is within" - and

"Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's, and unto God the things that are God's" - and finally "love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, and with thy whole soul, and with all thy strength, and with all thy mind: and thy neighbour as thyself." - all these statements by the Christ in 'red' are warnings against too much power being a corrupting influence behind some other person's utopia - where you will own nothing and be happy: K Schwab

The idea that someone else manages everything you do cannot sit well with a rational person, let alone a God fearing person. Who is that someone else to be and what is it they want to control down to the last decree, exactly?

Chinese Social Credit

China is using state of the art surveillance (Western Technology) to monitor its 1.42 Billion peoples. The system attributes points for and against each person based on their 'mandated' behaviour. Obviously other individuals monitor and administer this system over those people. The administrators are also monitored by a level of administrators above them, as they also are ad infinitum. Sometimes the administrators above appear as normal people but are actually assessing those below to ensure compliance of state mandates. The only theoretical person not monitored is possibly the leader of the CCCP Xi. I think the CCCP would also be monitoring him very closely and will execute whatever is necessary if he deviates from the party's line.

Is this really where we want to go as a civilisation?

Human Frailty

Who are these superhuman beings to monitor and control us all - Fauci, Gates, Schwab, Xi, Morrison, Andrews? Once a name is placed next to the potential supreme administrator you quickly realise they are as mortal as we all are. This monitoring equitably is impossible to be effective and lasting without inordinate levels of personal temptation leading to corruption. This natural law of human frailty is to be considered when we look towards finding our way out of this covid/climate dilemma.

I note that Archbishop Carlo Maria Viganò is calling for another world power to combat this current world power, calling it an International Global Alliance: APPEAL FOR AN ANTI-GLOBALIST ALLIANCE. I think the principle is wrong, in that this moral dilemma requires a moral answer: The Kingdom of God is within. From this 'within' comes self government, self discipline and self restraint. Not world anything.

Free, Moral and Responsible - a trinity of virtues that cannot be disassembled in favour of one facet over the others. It must be balanced, held in equilibrium as a natural law. I want my freedom (to work or travel) in favour of the moral obligation to manage and be responsible for your own body and your own life. Government has entered into this realm illegitimately and must be resisted back into an agreed and limiting arrangement, so you are free enough to render unto God.

We have ignored our personal responsibility to God for beer and circuses (prodigal son). The ongoing public demonstrations are lacking a clear message of direction founded on the philosophy of truth. Without a firm basis of association the crowds are rudderless and drift from one thought to another, when if there was an acceptance that their historical links to Christianity gave them their legitimate freedoms in a moral and responsible environment, the natural law as stated provides the true light to navigate the road ahead. From each statement 'in red' of the Christ comes direction and policy. The discussions about methods - administration are of a secondary nature. Government must be limited. The individual must not relinquish their personal responsibility over their own life, and freedoms given from God alone, not government allowing some rights. The individual is given this life to know God, love Him and serve Him in this world, and be happy with Him forever in the next... This cannot be done if Caesar is lord of all. That would be a sacrilege of the life given.

The End Point

Central Bank Digital Currency is the end point of the covid and climate campaign. This currency will be conditionally issued and controlled by a policy of scarcity, whilst we live in a world of material abundance from a gracious and loving Heavenly Father.

"...Seek ye therefore first the kingdom of God, and his justice, and all these things shall be added unto you..."

WWI came into being in order to pursue the policy of establishing communism in Russia - Korean war to establish communist China. WWII came into being in order to pursue the policy of expanding communism across eastern Europe. Covid and climate campaigns came in order to pursue the policy of establishing a world communist slave state using digital technology and central bank digital currency to monitor and control the world for the pleasure of the few. This movement is the anti-thesis of Christianity. It is a false religion of power over the individual in defiance of "the kingdom of God is within". The purpose and justification of coming together to form communities in the first place is for the mutual benefit of each and every individual within community.

A Novel Political Initiative

What is lacking in the political sphere is a service movement separated from both church and state, established to ensure our ancient freedoms are upheld, maintained and promulgated across the land. A service movement of faithful knights of differing skill-sets, that take up this fight against tyranny and moves towards centralisation of power by would-be dictators, being a counter to the harlotry of modern political parties or secret organisations who seek out the highest bidder for their lascivious services. A loosely formed association of like minded patriots that operate independently of any formal structure to pursue freedom with responsibility in a moral environment - calling a nation to repentance, rebuking the over reach of government and bureaucracy, and persevering in the face of public misunderstanding and malicious persecution. Modern knights of the Saint George calibre, who pursue that pot of rare jewels, our freedoms: that wrestle the dragon to the ground as their Christian duty. Such is the times we live and die in. The anti-christ has shown their face in the form of the WHO and the WEF and the BIS. These forms have always been there behind the scenes, but now they are revealed to this corrupted world. Christian knights stand to order and do your duty - a special calling given you by a loving Heavenly Father. Go ye out into all the nations...

ACTION TARGET

There is a massive amount of information about Covid and how it has affected our freedoms, but unless the information is advanced to political action it will remain like some brand new gadget - it will be useless until the operator turns the switch to ON! We needed to be educated but now the knowledge is out there and remains ineffective unless we actually mobilise this into action. Actionists are encouraged to use the information as ammunition to be released upon the media & politicians.

Covid is not a health matter - it is a control measure which requires a political solution

Covid is the tool being used to convince the population to accept control (we must be kept safe!).

All readers are encouraged to write to their MP, politely stating they will only vote for a candidate willing to restore our freedom. Ask, "Will he/she be the one?" Better still, arrange a regular meeting with your MP. Recommended to take only two or three along to the meeting and stick to the key issue.

Do not get into debate about Ivermectin or the lack of guaranteed vaccines etc - these are diversionary. Guiding notes are available from the League office about lost freedoms arising from the discrimination between vaxxed and un-vaxxed citizens when in fact they both have equal capacity to contract or transmit Covid. There can be no justification in requiring police, teachers, shop assistants etc to be jabbed.
