

Releasing Reality By Eric D Butler

“Christianity, Democracy, and Social Credit have at least three things in common, they are all said to have failed, none of them is in the nature of a Plan, and every effort of some of the most powerfully organised forces in the world is directed to the end, not only that they shall never be accepted, but that as few persons as possible shall ever understand their nature.” — C. H. Douglas.

Brief For The Prosecution By CH Douglas

Although less than 100 pages in length, this work of Major C.H. Douglas is unquestionably one of the most important books of this century. As its title indicates, The Brief for the Prosecution is an indictment of those persons, groups and organisations responsible for the systematic sabotage of Western Civilisation as a prelude to fastening upon a bewildered and deliberately demoralised humanity, an all-powerful World Government - a tyranny of unspeakable horror. Written in 1943, the expose ...is concentrated mainly on the period between the two World Wars, as they are called - from the Bolshevik Revolution to the emergence of Communist Russia as chief beneficiary of World War II. It was during that period between the two World

History

Wars that the foundations were laid for the rise of the totalitarian Socialist super states - Communist Russia, Fascist Italy and Nazi Germany - and the stage was set for the devastation of Europe by war; for the dismantling of the mighty British Empire; for the submergence of once Great Britain in the socialist-dominated conglomerate of the European Common Market; and for the now-emerging New World Economic Order under an all-powerful international oligarchy.

The Brief for the Prosecution exposes the ‘who’ and the ‘how’ of this vast conspiratorial onslaught, mainly directed against the British peoples and the Christian Church - the conspiracy for World Dominion is essentially anti-Christian in both its means and in the Satanic ends to which it is directed. - LD Byrne Dec, 1982

Major Clifford Hugh Douglas,

M.I.Mech.E., M.I.E.E., consulting engineer, economist, author, and founder of the Douglas Social Credit Movement, was born in 1879 and died in 1952. Among other posts which he held in his earlier years were those of engineer with the —

Canadian General Electric company,

Peterborough, Canada, — Assistant Engineer,

Lachine Rapids Hydraulic Construction,

Deputy Chief Electrical Engineer, Buenos Aires,

and Pacific Railway;

Chief Engineer and Manager in India British

Westinghouse Company;

Assistant Superintendent, Royal Aircraft Factory

Farnborough (GB).

During the First World War he was a Major in the Royal Flying Corps and later in the R.A.F. (Reserve).

After retiring from his engineering career, he and his wife ran a small yacht-building yard on Southampton Water for several years.

The combination of beauty with functional efficiency in a successfully designed racing yacht had a special appeal for him.

When he lived in an old water mill in Hampshire he used the water wheel to turn a dynamo which lit and warmed the house as well as providing power for lathes and other tools. Later, when he moved to Scotland, many of his friends and followers remember helping to build his small hydro-electric-powered house, sited on the local burn which ran through his land. Since decentralisation of economic power was of the essence of his teaching, it should be put on record that he practised what he preached.

One of his most interesting jobs, just before the 1914 War, was that of conducting preliminary experimental work and preparing plans and specifications for the electrical work on the Post Office Tube in London, with later supervision of the installation of plant in what was to be one of the earliest examples of complete automation in the history of engineering.

From Economic Democracy First edition (1920), by CH Douglas

Institutions exist to serve Individuals

Accepting this statement (systems were made for man, and not men for systems) as a basis of constructive effort, it seems clear that all forms, whether of government, industry or society must exist contingently to the furtherance of the principles contained in it. If a State system can be shown to be inimical to them it must go; if social customs hamper their continuous expansion - they must be modified; if unbridled industrialism checks their growth, then industrialism must be reined in.

That is to say, we must build up from the Individual, not down from the State.
