Towards The Tide Time Is Money

There would be little satisfaction in the contemplation of the enemies of freedom, in the Armaments Race if we could not now clearly discern the very nature of those agonies, and the means of them. The enemy spends money like water to build his war machine. Let there be no mistake about it. The issue is whether we continue to allow the forces of international borrowing and lending, and of international regimentation—miscalled "collective security"—or the forces of the nationalisation of wealth and industry, and the socialisation of wealth and industry, and the socialisation of power within its own frontiers on a permanent and honest basis. The means of life exist in abundance; the only reason why we do not build the strongest possible railway carriages in this country is that it is too expensive.

Newfoundland Is Ruled By Moneymenders' Bailiffs

NEWFOUNDLAND, forgotten dominion of this glorious Empire, is self-supporting. It could produce or procure by barter all the goods and services needed to provide for its people. But it cannot do this because of the demands of the international Shylocks. Until and can do this (which, under the present financial system, will be equivalent to the domination of the world) will remain in being, the seeds of war are in every village, and the tide of unrest all over the world is moving and will sweep all the nations into violent conflict unless one nation succeeds in doing this before the other takes the foot of back page.

Diplomacy

The Japanese Government will break off diplomatic relations with China after the fall of Nanking, according to the semi-official Domei Agency in Tokyo. This is really serious, they will be declaring war next month.

In the event of war, every penny you can give will be needed. This costs money, which we urgently need. TWENTY people are killed every day on the roads of this country. Six hundred human beings are injured—many recover to wish they had been killed.

EVERY DAY:
Total for a year: more than 6,000 killed and 200,000 injured. Total for the last ten years: 66,000 killed and 2,000,000 injured.

One in every five of these victims is a young person. One in ten a woman. You think of this appalling thing in terms of human misery. Then think that this thing need not be.

THOSE who read motoring or cycling journals must be struck by the difference in outlook between these two classes of road users.

It is a cleavage that goes deep.

Urgent!

THE SOCIAL CREDIT MOVEMENT IS COMING TO THE WORLD. IT IS COMING TO THE EMPIRE. IT IS COMING TO THE ENGLISH SPEAKING PEOPLE ALL OVER THE WORLD FOR TRUTH, LIFE, AND FREEDOM AGAINST THE DARK POWERS OF DECEIT, DESTRUCTION AND TYRANNY.

The Prince of the Money Power has all the money he wants, and his will and yours are opposed. In this, the battle of the ages, we can hope to win only by the use of our most powerful weapon, one which the Prince of the Money Power knows he needs in order to realise his power—THE TRUTH.

But the use of this Living Sword of Truth is not merely a battle now that is going to make the greatest change in history.

The winning of this war will banish tyranny, poverty, and most of the fear and anxiety that now afflicts millions, especially the weak, the defenceless, and those who feel but cannot see.

Our cause is the cleanest, the most noble, and the most worthy of any. We are fighting for the most sacred flame of life itself—for life more abundant and free—FOR ALL.

We are not a party, a nation, a class, a race, or an institution, but we are fighting for the freedom of men and women with a vision we know to be true, a vision we are determined to bring down to the solid ground of reality.

We have faith, and we will practice that faith in works, and when men work together in a common faith—Social Credit—then the Father of Lies, the Prince of Darkness, has got a severe battle coming to him.

It is a battle for life, for we have started a fight we are going to stay with to the end. And we have faith that the finish will prove the end of a reign of calumny, cruelty, implacable hate, restriction and violence; and that a true era of peace, security and goodwill will dawn for a race of free men and women to love and be happy in the ways they will freely choose themselves.

With our conscience calmed, and our spirits quickened, we can now without tell the whole world, including the enemy, what we are trying to do, what we are fighting for, and what our strength is.

That is where the enemy is weak; his power is his power, but, his weakness is his soul corruption, he must keep hidden, because, if the people knew the Truth—its light—would expose him and every man and woman would oppose his every move. And the Truth would quicken the spirit to overcome the power which evilly restricts, spreads doubt, and destroys. Keep the people blind and servile for ever.

We know the weak points in the enemy, and we know them too, but they are many, but we have faith in the power which evilly restricts, spreads doubt, and destroys. Keep the people blind and servile for ever.

We know the weak points in the enemy, and we know them too, but they are many, but we have faith in the power which evilly restricts, spreads doubt, and destroys. Keep the people blind and servile for ever.

Money is urgently needed to continue the fight to spread and unfold the Truth—which the enemy of life and liberty is hoping to keep hidden.

It is our common battle—YOUR battle. Strike a blow now; send Douglas some ammunition—some money—and so strike a blow for Truth and Freedom. And having struck prepare to give more.

The need is real and urgent. Strike quickly—a winning blow!

GEORGE HICKLING
FULL reports, occupying many pages of the Albertan newpapers, testify to the unprecedented public interest taken in the trials of Mr. J. W. Unwin and Mr. P. Powell in the Supreme Court of Alberta from November 9 to 15. Mr. Unwin is a member of the Legis- lative Assembly of Alberta, and the Chief Government House Leader. Mr. Powell is the Advocate to the Social Credit Board appointed by the Alberta Social Credit Act.

Both were charged with defamatory libel, and defamatory libel knowing it to be false. Both pleaded not guilty, and they were convicted and sentenced, Mr. Unwin to six months' hard labour. Both appealed against their conviction, and are now on bail.

A State of Fact. Mr. D. D. Mugdan, Conservative leader in the Legislative Assembly, moved that a House Committee should investigate certain leaflets entitled "Bankers' Toadies," which had been found in the Alberta House of Commons.

On October 5, Edmonton police seized eighteen copies of the leaflet in the head office of the Alberta Social Credit League.

Three days later, Mr. Unwin and Mr. Powell were charged with seditious libel, and with publishing, and disseminating defamatory libel "well knowing the same to be false."

Magistrate Gibson committed them both for trial on October 31 on all four charges, after a preliminary inquiry. The evidence against them was marshalled by Mr. George H. Searle, K.C., as private prosecutor on behalf of Major-General the Hon. W. A. Griesbach, Senator for Edmonton in the Senate, which represents a large section of the People's League of Alberta, which opposes the Social Credit party.

COURT CROWDED

When Supreme Court proceedings began on November 9, before Mr. Justice Ives, J. E. C. Cooper, J. W. Unwin, and P. Powell, it was announced that the Attorney-General's Department had taken over the prosecution of the accused on defamatory libel charges. The Crown reserved the right to prove to the jury the existence of sedition libel and counselling and murdering. Mr. Steere then stated that he could not agree to the Judge to act as private prosecutor in the defamatory libel charges.

During the whole of the proceedings the court was crowded. Mr. Unwin's case was taken first. Both charges of defamatory libel and of defamatory libel "well knowing the same to be false" were in the same words, and accused him of publishing the libel on, and concerning W. S. Field, H. H. Price, J. F. Lymburn, D. B. Hunt, L. Y. Cairns, C. W. Axouter, W. A. Grisbach and D. M. Duggan.

"My child, you should never say hard or unkind things about Bankers and Toadies." Mr. Powell's defence was: "just as he makes, slates, mails and calls them by their Revised Version names, so do I do you."

"I have no names."

Cold Charity

There is a story of a skilled cadger who approached a certain Member of Parliament.

In response to a request for money, replied, "I do not approve of charity."
The response was instantaneous and resolute: "Very well, sir, I do not want your charity."

That is the proposition upon which the whole of our case is based. We assert that the practice of charity is morally indefensible.

There appears to be something about the practice of charity that is peculiar both to charity and to the people who have always been led to believe it is a laudable and noble practice.

In a sense this is understandable. Man was once immortal in his simplicity. Then he saw the age of potential abundance.

If we are to be saved from being men of empires that have fumbled this aptly opposed to the releasing of charity. This is something that is opposed to the releasing of the strictly poor.

But there is at work a fraudulent concealment of this vast inheritance, on which every woman, man and child has an indelible right to claim.

In the Social Credit Movement, which is seeking to establish the just claim of all humanity to make Governments— if we will but use it.

We can exercise that power—a greater power than that of all the banks in the world—is shown concisely in the Little Book of Social Credit. A Prophecies have long foretold.

Two years after the election of the Social Credit party in Alberta, the Premier and Cabinet are gathered generally by bigger crowds of supporters than at any time during the election campaign. A fair summarisation of the present situation therefore it would be absurd to say that Alberta is still determined to try Social Credit; and that means that the Alberta Government has been given a fair trial or the present Government announces its inability to carry out the wishes of the people. This is little or no chance of success for any alternative political programme in this Province. From a report in the "Provoe News" reprinted in the "Edmonton Journal," November 19... money power

FAUOLOUSLY the banks have built up and guarded this power over the economic life of the people. Three lines along which they have worked to increase and strengthen their power, which are quite apparent, are: 1. Working through governments to have legislation enacted relating to and protecting their power. 2. Working through political parties through the advocacy of methods to divide the people and prevent them from uniting in DEMANDS FOR RESULTS. 3. Centralising their power over widening areas, thus making it increasingly impossible for those small minority can use to divide its customers upon a major and small minority can use to strengthen its major customers upon a major and small minority can use to strengthen its

Towards • Freedom •

The Times, in its leading article of December 10, recalled Mark’s observation on bourgeois democracy that “the oppressed were only free to the extent of being permitted to choose between alternative forms of frustration by voting for party programmes, none of which could emancipate them or express the wishes of the majority of the people. The tyranny behind this system of Hobson’s choice is none the less real than the freedom and security of a stable supply of this world’s goods. They knew perfectly well that it exists, physically because they see the sabotage and planning of our production and distribution, and symbolically, as we have a medium for obtaining it in Parliament, which is, theoretically, a representative body. True enough. I shall not be said to represent our wishes. We cannot expect them to do that until they receive a definite and authoritative command.

This is what the Social Credit case comes in. We, the British people, have got to give the authoritative command for our representatives to make available for us the things that we want to enjoy.

It has been taken for granted for so long that the representative system of widely representative suffrage constituted a democracy—notwithstanding the fact that the method of choice was the Hobson’s choice—then, paradoxically, we must proclaim that we are a democracy, and yet do not expect to get any results from the exercise of our votes. We have lost that consciousness of our power, and our representatives have forgotten that function of representing us.

We cannot give such a command with the will to back it and the confidence that will strengthen the Members of Parliament and remove the dead weight of the present party system.

To regain our confidence we must practice change. Before we can get our way we must gain the confidence of the majority, irrespective of the “opinion” of our representative or their party politics. We must reinforce the resolutions that insist on the clearly expressed will of the people being carried out in the smallest detail.

Once we have an authentic sincerity in our demands, then we shall be in a position to demand freedom in security, and to get it. This is what we are now doing—getting back the confidence in our own power that has been undermined for generations, and this is how we are getting on.

The first edition has been exhausted, and another reprint is on the way. Sheffield’s lead is being followed by others, and the wire sowing of further seed is likely to produce a good harvest. Each Member of Parliament, along with eight lines over an ever-increasing area and with more and more democratic confidence, is urging his local authorities to take action, get a further supply of those reprints right away.

1. I do not believe that poverty is unnecessary.

2. I want, before anything else, poverty abolished.

3. I do not believe that products such as we now destroy or refuse shall be distributed to us and every Briton so that we can enjoy all we want of.

4. These distributions must not deprive owners of their property nor decrease its relative value.

5. In a democracy like Great Britain European states to make the will of the people prevail.

6. I believe myself to own it if I can for a candidate who will determine national policy and to vote consistently against any party trying to put any other law making before the people.

7. I request the National Parliament of Sheffield to separate this, I will vote against him and his successors until this, my policy, prevails.

What We Have Done

We have begun to get our way in small things. With full consciousness of their democratic right to the fulfilment of their expressed will 1,800 parents at BLACKBURN have caused the authorities to see to the resurfacing of their children’s school; residents near a cross roads at BRADFORD have insisted that measures to reduce accidents should be taken at once; residents of NORTHAMPTON have stopped the tipping of soft rubbish at a place where it was objectionable; 900 parents at WALLSFIELD have forced an immediate start on a school that had been promised for three years; 25,000 ratepayers of BELFAST have stopped the erection of unnecessary and expensive new offices for the water commission; and 50,000 ratepayers at SHEFFIELD have obtained a promise that rating assessments will not be increased at the next revaluation.

A speed-limit has been gained at HAMPSTEAD, a rent control from at Hastings. There has been an epidemic of school strikes; and in the last week it has even glimmered on Members of Parliament that the clearly expressed will of the people to demand (in this case watching a clock) should be obeyed.

What We Are Doing Now

The success of Sheffield ratepayers has inspired people all over the country to make advances and get results.

Such campaigns are proceeding at Newcastle, Liverpool, Birmingham, Southampton, S.E. Essex (four councils), Mid-Essex, Surrey, and Derbyshire, besides tentative attempts in other places. In Bednal Green residents of an area scheduled for demolition object to the prospect of being housed in flats.

Cardiff Gets Rates Promise

Following the success of Sheffielders in gaining a promise that rating assessments will not be increased at the next revaluation, resolutions of Home Secretaries concerned with publicity and in the press publicly to a demand organised on similar lines.

Almost at once, Alderman Sir William R. Williams publicly assured the citizens of Cardiff that a general increase in assessment values was not contemplated in April, 1939.

"I make this statement," he said, "because of newspaper paragraphs which we appear related to other areas."

It only remains for the Cardiff ratepayers to see that this assurance is fulfilled.

Swindon Bus Fares Down

The Swindon residents who have been steadily walking to work as a protest at the increase in fares on the Corporation bus routes can now collapse comfortably into buses again.

In defence of the Passenger Transport Committee it was stated that it had been realised a mistake had been made and was being corrected.

Cowan. Husbands held the view that the reduction was due to the fact that a petitioner had come from Old Town, and that if the petition had come from Redbourn it would not have had the same results.

It took the footwork of a great many people, a signed request and a threat of ridicule to bring home to the Council the reality of the situation. But no doubt it will be quicker in the uptake next time.

What We Shall Do In The Future

When we see that we get our way in little things by sticking to our demands, insisting on refusing to argue about the technique of carrying them out, and realise by practice that united we have the power to get what we want, then we shall demand the objective that we all want but have not now the conviction to insist on—the abolition of poverty.

Better Road Demand Succeeds

A CITATION for the remaking of the Dalmally road at Keinney, near Dun- bar, from the National Union of Auchinleck residents, the back of the quarters for a distance of several hundred yards, has had length been successful. A meeting was held there, and in the county provisional road estimates for the year 1939, for the much-needed re-surfacing work.

The most that has been done up to now is a little patching of the wear of the potholes, and the road has remained a nightmare for motorists, some of whom suffered broken spines and still others were blackened workers who traverse it, on foot or on cycles, four times a day.

Keinney’s grievance about the road recently reached a pitch which induced a petition to be signed.

The top rural roads users signed a petitition, the undersigned, to the authorities about the condition of the road. They were determined that the road should be improved the time, even if they had to go to the Ministry of Transport about it.

Subject to Ministry approval of the estimates, the resurfacing of the road will go on during the next year.
