Albertans Will Triumph In Fight To End Poverty and Debt

Exclusive Interview with Mr. L. D. Byrne

I AM entirely confident about the Alberta situation. I hope that Social Crediters everywhere will recognise that the fantastic press reports which are appearing are all part of a hurriedly organized campaign of lies and misrepresentation upon the purpose of which is to obscure the real issues. The Alberta legislati

So said Mr. L. D. Byrne on his arrival last Saturday. He has just returned from Alberta, where he has been a guest of the party on a mission from Mr. William Aberhart's Social Credit government.

He was looking bronzed and fit after his three months' absence, and was full of praise for the way Alberta is tackling their great struggle.

"Inevitably the forces of freedom will join issue against financial tyranny on other fronts. If at the moment there seems to be some hesitation on their part to do so, they will soon realise that there is a very grave responsibility resting on all who recognise the issues being fought out by Alberta—and the time to act is NOW!"

National upswing and heavy rains during the first half of July greatly changed the farm production outlook. It is now estimated that Alberta farmers will receive from $175,000,000 to $180,000,000 for their wheat, livestock and other products this year.

This represents a new high record in value of farm production since 1929. Alberta's wheat crop alone, if present expectations are realised, will be worth at least $60,000,000. It will be an increase of 13 or 15 millions over last year's value.

Hon. D. B. Mullen, Minister of Agriculture, says the volume of wheat will be at greatest or greater than in any year which with improved prices will bring a substantial increase in revenue to the province has been overlooked, says the Alberta legislation by the Federal Government, will emerge triumphant from the struggle in

Mr. L. D. Byrne

A Constitutional Crisis

The act of disallowance by the Federal Government, Mr. Byrne continued, "cannot be in any way a victory. It is clearly unconstitutional, for the Federal Government has no right to do so. Never have had power disallow this Provincial legislation. Previously such power could be exercised by the person of the Governor General, but not by the Governor General in Council. Moreover, it is contended that even the Governor General has no such power at the present time.

"Thus a constitutional crisis has been precipitated, not by Alberta, but by the Federal Government."

"It is common knowledge that pressure for this act of disallowance was brought to bear on the Federal Government, and the widely pub

Typical of the support which is being given to Premier Aberhart by his own people is the action taken by the Jarvis Bay Social Credit Group at a special meeting.

The following resolution was passed, a copy of which was read to the delegates in the presence of Mr. M. P. and D. Bruce MacMillan, M.I.A., who represent the people of this constituency.

"Whereas, we, the members of the Jarvis Bay Social Credit Group, resolve as follows:

First, we hereby resolve to make known to you, our representative, our wishes and urge you in every vote you cast to keep in mind this, our resolution. We further resolve that in spite of past misunderstandings and differences, to give to you our whole-hearted support and to stand back of you to the man so long as you stand alongside the Social Credit government of Alberta in whatever steps they take and their export destinies which will lead to the objec

Another resolution to be sent to the Prime Minister of Canada, the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, was passed as follows:

"Whereas we, the members of the Jarvis Bay Social Credit Group, have signed our pledge of unity for results, and are determined to stand back of that pledge demanding that your government pay a dividend of at least 5% on their bond issues, to save them from being foreclosed and going to a lower cost of living, we hereby resolve to advise you of our stand and demand that you co-operate with the Social Credit government of Alberta and keep your campaign promises."
Pirate's Resound

"CREAT secrecy surrounds an important event enabling us to be held in the Red Sea off Sydney, between the American bankers, Mr. F. P. W. Mackenzie, and Mr. Davies, United States Ambassador at Moscow," said the Observer, August 21. "The two vessels, specially from Moscow for the occasion, and after a short stay at Vlissingen (Phaëthon)."

"Neither parties are participating in the secret sea conference. According to a number of Mr. McCarty's friends, they have been able to be connected with events in Russia and the attitude of the United States and Russia to the Quinquennial Treaty shows the common factor, the misuse of money, which has fastened on and devoured all former civilisations as it is devouring our present-day "Dictatorship By Taxation," lays bare the system, are vividly outlined. by the Dean of Canterbury."

The present-day "problems" of Starvation, Poverty: Democracy versus Tyranny; and, many valuable inventions have been bought up by vested interests and suppressed in order to save the lesser loss that their exploitation would involve to already operating number—the tide of prosperity never flows, it rises and falls, and will continue to do so called "capitalistic experts," talk is of how to stem the tide. Mr. Byrne's literary style is, like himself, radical. Quotations:

"Every tax paid reduces the spending power and consequently the freedom and the liberty of the individual taxpayer. When this is combined with the vicious practice of taxation to which we submit, the entire system constitutes a tyranny comparable with the Spanish Inquisition and furthered by parameter and practice."

The beneficiaries of taxation are chiefly the financial institutions of the world and, consequently, the freedom and the liberty of the individual taxpayer. When this is combined with the vicious practice of taxation to which we submit, the entire system constitutes a tyranny comparable with the Spanish Inquisition and furthered by parameter and practice.

"Like taxation and debt poverty, its existence in modern Britain is unnecessary and can be traced directly to the financial system, for it is the only way of securing the end of lacking buying power, in the form of money, which alone prevents the poor from buying the necessities and resources could provide in any quantity for a population of 14,000,000."

Human Nature

SEVEN hundred motorists have been sum- moned for not observing the "halo" sign on the road. So far 300 summonses have been issued, yet the figure is still 'too low, apparently." According to the theory that it is the neck- bone and bad driving of motorists which causes road fatalities, all these people must be punished for what they and others believe are the outcome of inadequate monitoring roads.

The Risks of Prosperity

LOTS of people would like to have a chance to get ahead, and by the time which "prosperity" has reached in Australia, however, that the Sydney Stock Exchange Gazette recently produced an article under the heading "Avoiding the Risks of Prosperity."

The Increase of Debt

THE National Debt, totalling £3,739.345,412 at March 31 last, had increased by £1,000,000 over the year before, according to a White Paper issued last week. If capital liabilities in respect of some
In Darkest Africa

NYASALAND, we are told, possesses many hundreds of thousands of acres of land urgently needed for cotton cultivation; it also possesses millions of acres that could be put to good use. The conditions of life are so poor that the natives have even paid their taxes but tax to the Government. Moreover, each year numbers of them leave their homes for work in Rhodesia and South Africa—Mr. W. E. H. Lecky, recently, Nyasaland Railways.

* * *

This is a machine age, and the machine has come not only to industry but to agriculture. In trying to get a machine to work in the kitchen, a farmer once forgot that the machine is now there because the farmer, not the machine, has to make his own living.

"In addition, she gains the superiority in social status which marriage still gives to a woman in every type of society. For the great majority of middle-class women, a success in marriage is comfortable, secure, the work is light, your time is your own, and what you are working for, is respectable and approved by society."

The truth is now nothing but the name of the lie, looks on and listens while these self-appointed judges of dreams and illusions?

The words spoken by Miss Hawarden, herself a spinster, and with an interesting career, are curiously reactionary in tone. They take us back to the beginning of the nineteenth century.

Those who know their Pride and Prejudice will remember how, when Charlotte Lucas accepts the egregious Mr. Collins, Jane wrote:

"Mr. Collins, to be sure, was neither sensible nor agreeable; his society was intimate, and his attachment to her must be imaginary. But he would be her husband. Without thinking highly either of men or of marriage, marriage had already been her object: it was the only available protection for well-educated young women of small fortunes, and, however much she might be disappointed, she must be her own preserver from want. This preservation she had now obtained, and at the age of twenty-seven, without ever having been handkerchiefed by a suitor of her own class, and at the age of twenty-seven, without ever having been handkerchiefed by a suitor of her own class, and..."

* * *

Jane Austen is, in fact, a more complete realist than Miss Hawarden, who, in advocating the advantages of marriage, fails to mention the fact that they are dependent upon the goodwill of the man who is the partner to the contract!

"Deep down within herself, each woman knows that there is only one reason for marriage—the desire, sooner or later, to become overwhelming, of giving herself body, soul and spirit, to one man."

That mercenary considerations should quench or divert this divine flame, so that the marriage altar becomes a mere table of accounts, baring how much a bride is worth, whether she admits it or not.

"A woman in her 20s may adopt an attitude very much like that of Charlotte Lucas, outraging their inquest for the sake of getting a 'preservative from want.' But they will not be merely husband and wife. She has in addition to have, as her children grew up, unable to love or respect her father.

There are, of course, in all classes, a large number of happy marriages; but we are all too often the sly: tricks and deceptions.

An independent income, such as a National Dividend, would prevent many a woman from making a marriage she must afterwards regret.

For how strong must be the temptation to some women to accept perhaps the only offer of marriage they may ever get in order to escape from the necessity of earning a meagre livelihood, followed by an insecure and forlorn, old age.

Such women, marrying men for whom they feel too little but indifferent help to swell the list of divorces. Those who are alarmed about the increasing number of cases should consider whether the economic insecurity of spinsters has anything to do with it.

* * *

To secure economic emancipation is the next great task awaiting women. We have vindicated our right to be treated as educated adults, to have equal education with men, to enter the professions—but many of us feel that our achievement is lost because life is so insecure, because we are, most of us, so poorly paid.

The many women who must demand security for all,

* * *

"Tell of dreams and illusions?

When women realise that they must demand security for all, they will sweep the country.

And we want the spinsters in our movement. Please write to us or come to our Residencia at 1694, Strand, where you will find fellows like us. You win say, "This was waiting for me, and only I can do it."
While Rome Burns

The statement to the British Association by Sir Alexander Gibb, President of the Institution of Civil Engineers, that many valuable inventions have been bought up and suppressed by vested interests is merely another confirmation of the colossal plenty that awaits us all when we wake up and unitedly demand its distribution.

It is too much to hope, we fear, that it will galvanise the Engineers' Study Group to desist from its deplorable fiddling with figures, and get on with the job for which it was formed.

The group was initially formed by "representative engineers and scientific workers, dissatisfied with the [our italics] that the community is not enjoying a standard of living and leisure commensurate with the potential advancement for which science and technology are responsible," in order to meet and "discuss why the paradox arises and how it can be resolved."

Bootleg Potatoes

NEWS comes from Vancouver of British Columbia's annual Potato War. First move in the campaign—which last year, when the Marketing Act came into force, brought at least three cases of violence and one of bloodshed—was taken by the government when it ordered out khaki-coated provincial police.

The police were ordered to guard bridge heads along the Fraser river to prevent recalcitrant farmers, opposed to the British Columbia Marketing Act restrictions, from bootlegging potatoes into Vancouver wholesalers.

It would be comic were it not so tragic—thousands of people in British Columbia would buy more potatoes could they but afford to do so. Meanwhile, the farmers are prepared to risk bloodshed to keep prices up, although a minority, which opposes restrictions, and has been defeated in the local courts, is preparing to appeal to the Privy Council.

This is how those who control finance "divide and rule" policy. If the farmers would but unite in a demand that people should be enabled to buy all that can be produced, they would have the support of all consumers, and they would win. Instead, they fight over the application of restrictions, which must penalise the majority—the consumers.

READERS in B.C., in touch with the farmers, are invited to send for copies of "The Farmers' Policy," written by farmers for farmers. It is designed to show how British farmers can make farming pay, not by mulcting consumers but by serving them.
Things are Looking Up

It is said, in an idiom and proverbial fashion, that more wars break out in August and September than in any other months of the year, and that diplomats heave a sigh of relief as October arrives. As it was said some time ago, “We have been able to look up and see nothing but a blue sky and a hint of a future.”

Peace movements are gearing up nicely—and all good luck to those who are fighting for them.

Peace movements have been canvassed and over 1,500 signatures obtained, including that of the Mayoress. Only then was it realised this.

The strategy for securing this remedy is to practise what we want in little events (gerrilla warfare) and to lead up to getting what we want in big ones.

The War against War also seems to have broken out in the autumn, in the quite traditional manner.

Council has permitted the General Billposting Co. to erect at the corner of Kinnear Square.

The new erection is not only totally out of keeping with the surroundings, says a letter in the local paper—its a gross insult to the residents of the square.

The old bill-board, which the new building replaces, was sufficiently small to cause little annoyance.

The annual rent received by the Council will not compensate for the hideous defacement of the Square, says the letter writer.

The council said that no businesses could be carried on in the area and they did not see why the Brotherhood should hold services there.

The Brotherhood appealed to the Minister of Religion.

The Ministry agreed to let them build their hall on condition that it confirmed to local planning regulations.

The hall is to be built.

Here is the Will, And

Here The Way

Sandbourne Road, on which there are about thirty houses, is flooded at every rainfall as the surface water-drains are blocked by gravel washed down them. The last flood was looked on with interest among the residents, as several of the houses were temporarily flooded, but there were many complaints as the drains could not be cleared.

Sandbourne Road, here is the Way

Here The Way

Sandbourne Road, on which there are about thirty houses, is flooded at every rainfall as the surface water-drains are blocked by gravel washed down them. The last flood was looked on with interest among the residents, as several of the houses were temporarily flooded, but there were many complaints as the drains could not be cleared.

Sandbourne Road, here is the Way

Sandbourne Road, on which there are about thirty houses, is flooded at every rainfall as the surface water-drains are blocked by gravel washed down them. The last flood was looked on with interest among the residents, as several of the houses were temporarily flooded, but there were many complaints as the drains could not be cleared.

Sandbourne Road, here is the Way

Sandbourne Road, on which there are about thirty houses, is flooded at every rainfall as the surface water-drains are blocked by gravel washed down them. The last flood was looked on with interest among the residents, as several of the houses were temporarily flooded, but there were many complaints as the drains could not be cleared.

Sandbourne Road, here is the Way

Sandbourne Road, on which there are about thirty houses, is flooded at every rainfall as the surface water-drains are blocked by gravel washed down them. The last flood was looked on with interest among the residents, as several of the houses were temporarily flooded, but there were many complaints as the drains could not be cleared.

Sandbourne Road, here is the Way

Sandbourne Road, on which there are about thirty houses, is flooded at every rainfall as the surface water-drains are blocked by gravel washed down them. The last flood was looked on with interest among the residents, as several of the houses were temporarily flooded, but there were many complaints as the drains could not be cleared.
Albertans Put Their Own Case

ON Friday, August 6, the Alberta Legislature, in special session, passed Acts designed to bring the business of banking under the control of the people of Alberta to secure the results demanded by them. Mr. Low, the Provincial Treasurer, introduced the Acts in the words which follow.

Under the terms of these Acts every bank official in Alberta must be licensed. Under penalty of fines, or in some cases of imprisonment, licences must be obtained promptly, the time limit for senior officials being two weeks and for junior weeks.

* * *

On Thursday, August 12, Mr. Mackenzie King, whose pre-election address included the following text in the foot of this page, telegraphed to Mr. Aberhart, Premier of Alberta, asking if his proposals have consequently ceased to record results?

The provision of local directories by this Act will be used to bring into touch with the management of our banks a variety of producers—such as farmers—men and women and communities who will help us figure our subjects bankers to a people in the welfare of what they are.

This should help, too, to avoid in future the present scandalous state where the accounts of the banks are closed to the public, and where the pockets of most of us tell us we are poor, when all the time it is so evident that we are producing and profiting materially.

In fact, no PEOPLE of any state or province realize more fully than Albertans the necessity of securing for each the full use of his sphere of jurisdiction.

Mr. Aberhart replied in a telegram which challenges Mr. Mackenzie King's statements.

Suppose democracy versus financial tyranny, which is the only justification for having a provincial government. Some people who consider the financial interests of their respective provinces always have been compelled you to take such action. We all concur in your statement that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This constitutes social lawlessness, which is the only way of dealing with the challenge of the banks to monopolize the sole credit of Alberta or they will be disallowed the Acts.

We all concur in your statement that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This means the Alberta government could facilitate reference of the banking legislation to the Supreme Court. And the Alberta government underwrites, pending the decision of the Court, not to take any steps towards the enforcement of any of these measures.

Mr. Aberhart replied in a telegram which challenges Mr. Mackenzie King's statement.

We will resist the financial tyranny to reveal itself as such if it dares to oppose. We remain united in the resolve that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This constitutes social lawlessness, which is the only way of dealing with the challenge of the banks to monopolize the sole credit of Alberta or they will be disallowed the Acts.

We all concur in your statement that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This means the Alberta government could facilitate reference of the banking legislation to the Supreme Court. And the Alberta government underwrites, pending the decision of the Court, not to take any steps towards the enforcement of any of these measures.

Mr. Aberhart replied in a telegram which challenges Mr. Mackenzie King's statement.

We will resist the financial tyranny to reveal itself as such if it dares to oppose. We remain united in the resolve that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This constitutes social lawlessness, which is the only way of dealing with the challenge of the banks to monopolize the sole credit of Alberta or they will be disallowed the Acts.

We all concur in your statement that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This means the Alberta government could facilitate reference of the banking legislation to the Supreme Court. And the Alberta government underwrites, pending the decision of the Court, not to take any steps towards the enforcement of any of these measures.

Mr. Aberhart replied in a telegram which challenges Mr. Mackenzie King's statement.

We will resist the financial tyranny to reveal itself as such if it dares to oppose. We remain united in the resolve that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This constitutes social lawlessness, which is the only way of dealing with the challenge of the banks to monopolize the sole credit of Alberta or they will be disallowed the Acts.

We all concur in your statement that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This means the Alberta government could facilitate reference of the banking legislation to the Supreme Court. And the Alberta government underwrites, pending the decision of the Court, not to take any steps towards the enforcement of any of these measures.

Mr. Aberhart replied in a telegram which challenges Mr. Mackenzie King's statement.

We will resist the financial tyranny to reveal itself as such if it dares to oppose. We remain united in the resolve that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This constitutes social lawlessness, which is the only way of dealing with the challenge of the banks to monopolize the sole credit of Alberta or they will be disallowed the Acts.

We all concur in your statement that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This means the Alberta government could facilitate reference of the banking legislation to the Supreme Court. And the Alberta government underwrites, pending the decision of the Court, not to take any steps towards the enforcement of any of these measures.

Mr. Aberhart replied in a telegram which challenges Mr. Mackenzie King's statement.

We will resist the financial tyranny to reveal itself as such if it dares to oppose. We remain united in the resolve that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This constitutes social lawlessness, which is the only way of dealing with the challenge of the banks to monopolize the sole credit of Alberta or they will be disallowed the Acts.

We all concur in your statement that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This means the Alberta government could facilitate reference of the banking legislation to the Supreme Court. And the Alberta government underwrites, pending the decision of the Court, not to take any steps towards the enforcement of any of these measures.

Mr. Aberhart replied in a telegram which challenges Mr. Mackenzie King's statement.

We will resist the financial tyranny to reveal itself as such if it dares to oppose. We remain united in the resolve that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This constitutes social lawlessness, which is the only way of dealing with the challenge of the banks to monopolize the sole credit of Alberta or they will be disallowed the Acts.

We all concur in your statement that credit is a public matter, that is your Government with full responsibility for producing a serious constitutional crisis.

Our people, realizing that no statutory obligation or public accountability compelled you to take such action. The King-II Government is the only justification for having a federal government. And the existence and welfare of our people is the first and most necessary, let us hope that the genius for efficiently any retaliatory measures bankers may possibly endeavour to impose on our people.

This means the Alberta government could facilitate reference of the banking legislation to the Supreme Court. And the Alberta government underwrites, pending the decision of the Court, not to take any steps towards the enforcement of any of these measures.
HOLIDAYS
Furnished Cottage to Let, accommodates four people. Must be occupied for a period of one month. Full particulars and photograph by post. Ten per cent deposit required by R. G. M. McCallum, 22 Parly Road, West Parly, Ne. Borrowmoor.

Subscribe to the New Era

SUBSCRIPTION ORDER
Send SOCIAL CREDIT to Name
Address
For 12 months I enclose £1 10s.
For 6 months I enclose 5s.
For 3 months I enclose 2½
by GEORGE HICKLING

Vox Populi

This story was told recently by a distinguished Canadian politician who is visiting this country and whom...
Northampton Wrathful At Foul Rubbish Tip

A RESOLUTION strongly condemning the refuse tip at St. James’ Gardens, Northampton, was passed at a meeting of local residents on August 30.

Residents drew a forbidding picture of the tip as it exists there now, and on Monday, September 7th last, your correspondent on behalf of the residents of St. James’s Ward, represented the local tip to the Corporation, and he (Councillor Strickland) would ask the Council to consider the matter.

It was claimed that the tip was no nuisance, as the Corporation had been given no evidence of its nuisance. It was further decided to send a deputation to the Corporation dump on the Ardwick Road to see what the tip was like.

The meeting finally adopted the following resolution:

"The residents of Poole’s Way have the right to demand an efficient refuse tip. They demand that an efficient refuse tip shall be provided.

If the Council does not derive its authority from and to whose representatives its responsibility is, this is purely a matter of etiquette. Whether the Council does not admit.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served ill or well in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

Whether the abdication of the tip is important, it is only secondary. What is of paramount importance is the functioning of the representatives of St. James’s, democratic power. The power to make its institutions serve them, and deliver the result they require. If this power is not admitted, all talk of democracy is pure bunkum.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it.

The Council does not derive its authority from the public and does not exist to carry the public’s reasonable demands, where does it derive its authority from and to whose responsibility is it?

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The abdication of the tip is important, it is only secondary. What is of paramount importance is the functioning of the representatives of St. James’s, democratic power.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.

Whether St. James’s Ward has been served well or ill in the past is beside the point. The job of the representatives is to keep on serving it.

The threat of a great betrayal is rather difficult to see; in fact, I did not know who were the representatives of St. James’s Ward, as Councillor Strickland describes it. It is purely a matter of etiquette.