THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK: Quadrant Constitutional Convention

FOR AND AGAINST THE CONSTITUTIONAL RECOGNITION OF INDIGENOUS PEOPLES

from Keith Windschuttle (Author of The Fabrication of Aboriginal History, Vols 1 and 3 (2002, 2009), The White Australia Policy (2004), and The Break-up of Australia (2016) and Editor of Quadrant magazine)

....There is a direct international precedent for all this. In 1982 Canada changed its constitution on minimalist grounds, saying merely (i) “the existing aboriginal and treaty rights of the aboriginal peoples of Canada are hereby recognized and affirmed”, and (ii) “The Aboriginal people of Canada are defined to include the Indian, Inuit and Metis (mixed race) peoples of Canada.” The Canadian political scientist Tom Flanagan points out that this minimalist amendment has effectively transferred the power to make indigenous policy from provincial and federal parliaments to the Canadian Supreme Court, which has given the more than 600 Canadian tribes, now known as “first nations”, not only land rights and fishing rights but the legal status of nations in their own right, with their own sovereignty and self-government. It has given the Canadian Inuit people a self-governing state of their own, Nunavut (the former North-West Territories). In 2000, the National Chief of the Assembly of First Nations declared, “I am not a Canadian”, and that all of Canada still belongs to the first nations. This is not a precedent that leads to reconciliation or the healing of national divisions. It only makes them much worse...

TEN STEPS TO COMMUNISE A COUNTRY

In May of 1919 at Dusseldorf, Germany, the Allied Forces obtained a copy of the Communist Rules for Revolution. Fifty years later OUR local Communists are all following these same or similar rules here quoted.

- A. Corrupt the young, get them away from religion, get them interested in sex. Make them superficial, destroy their ruggedness.
- B. Get control of all means of publicity thereby.
 1. Get the people’s minds off their government by focusing their attention on athletics, sexy books and plays and other trivialities.
 2. Divide the people into hostile groups by constantly harping on controversial matters of no importance.
 3. Destroy the people’s faith in their natural leaders by holding the latter up to contempt, ridicule and obloquy ( strong public condemnation-ed).
 4. Always preach true democracy, but seize power as fast and as ruthlessly as possible.
 5. By encouraging government extravagance, destroy its credit, produce fear of inflation with rising prices and general discontent.
 6. Foment unnecessary strikes in vital industries, encourage civil disorders and foster lenient and soft attitude on the part of government toward such disorders.
 7. By specious argument, cause the breakdown of the old moral virtues: honesty, sobriety, confidence, faith in the pledged word, ruggedness.
- C. Cause the registration of all firearms on some pretext, with a view toward confiscating them and leaving the population helpless.

Note: these rules vary slightly from those found in ‘The Communist Manifesto’ - Marx & Engels

“THE CATS THAT LICKED THE NEW HOPE CREAM...” by Betty Luks

When I read Dr. David Pascoe’s article (<https://www.facebook.com/OVHRepro/posts/1234897216638153:0>), I was again reminded of Eric D. Butler’s 1959 paper presented to the Anglican Synod, Melbourne, “The Real Communist Challenge to Christianity”.

Eric had understood that Christians in that day simply couldn’t grasp the danger of the Communist attack on the West. It was not a military attack but a psycho-political attack that has intensified since then.

At the time Eric noted:

“... The motives behind Communism are as old as man, and the real problem confronting the Christian Church is the same problem it has faced ever since the famous statement concerning Caesar and God was given social significance by outstanding Church leaders as they attempted to exercise Authority to curb Power...”

“The only thing new about Communism is the techniques it possesses for enslaving both bodies and minds. I refer not only to mechanical technological developments, but to the numerous forms of what has come to be known as brainwashing. While subversion and the various forms of sabotage are a major part of the disruptive programme of the Communists, the main, decisive work is done openly in the attack on the mind...”

- - Again, the devil took Him to a very high mountain and showed Him all the kingdoms of the world and their glory. “All this I will give You”, he said, “if You will fall down and worship me”.... Matthew 4.

Jordan Peterson re-issued the warning 50 years later:

“Friedrich Wilhelm Nietzsche, the German philosopher saw that the conflict between religious thinking, Christian thinking in particular, and Enlightenment thinking, was going to wipe out at least the ability of Christian thinking to believe the metaphysical assumptions at the base of Christian thought.”

In 1860 Nietzsche predicted the wars of the 20th century, costing many millions of lives, were linked in some way to communist ideas and the ‘will to power’. Peterson observed Empirical Science ‘had kicked the slats’ out of how people thought about Religion and even their mental picture of God the Father. He went on to insist only religious language was deep enough to explain what was happening to us.

And now back to Dr. Pascoe’s Facebook article:

THE CATS THAT LICKED THE NEW HOPE CREAM:
DEB FRECKLINGTON: SILVER DOLLAR DEB,
3 July, 2017 <https://www.facebook.com/OVHRepro/posts/1234897216638153:0>

“Politics is a strange thing. People seem attracted by its power and they lust after it as if it is the most important thing in their lives. They might be good and decent people in the beginning, and they might want to get into politics for all the right reasons, but then something happens along the way and it seems to change who they are. If you read about Hillary Clinton for instance, you are reminded that somewhere back in Arkansas there must have been a good person with high ideals and standards. Then something came along that really changed her. The despicable acts she has committed now far outweighs the good.

Those who have made a career of understanding Clinton talk of a woman without a shred of decency who would do anything to win the prize. It is impossible not to see similarities of Hillary Clinton in Queensland’s own Deb Frecklington, the member for Nanango.

These days Frecklington is Deputy Leader of the Opposition and Shadow Minister for Infrastructure, State Development, Trade and Investment.

She is a pert, small-framed woman who loves flirting around in high heels and tight fitting skirts. She talks and smiles a lot – and then you see it, that sudden shadow that falls across her face, that way her expression changes and she refuses to look you in the eye.

In fact, Frecklington is the woman being groomed by the Good Ole Boys club of the LNP as a Premier of Queensland – not because of her ability, mind you, but simply because she wears a skirt, same as Palaszczuk.

When you talk about the cats that licked the New Hope Cream, however, you come back to one small, dreadful act of deception that was carried out by Frecklington right at the very beginning, long before she was even elected to politics.

The local grassroots campaign had begun in earnest to try and save Acland from being wiped out by the Sydney Billionaire Boys Club, and suddenly, the old farmers and surrounding community were being woken up to the fact that they had all been ripped off, abused and treated very badly.

Deb Frecklington had been pre-selected by the LNP for the seat of Nanango, and she was being personally polished for the role by none other than Jeff Seeney, considered by many to be the most evil political player of them all.

Frecklington knew that the Save Acland campaign – driven by Alan Jones, Drew Hutton and a high profile group of followers - would be enough to lose the seat for her, especially since she was standing against two fine local candidates of great character and decency who were determined to save their farmland and their community from being wiped out by mining.

Frecklington then hatched a very clever plan. She wrote personal, heartfelt letters and emailed them to prominent local farmers promising them – giving her word, in fact – that there would be no extension of mining at Acland if she was elected. What she did was as clever as it was evil and as simple as it was despicable.

You see, the farming community of Acland are salt of the earth Queenslanders, good and trusting, and they took her at her word.

Frecklington then hit the hustings to spread her dreadful lie. “Assistant Finance Minister and Nanango MP Deb Frecklington said in February 2012 - a month before the election - she had successfully lobbied the LNP to “not support the proposal for Acland Stage 3 that would see the expansion of the open-cut coal mine digging up strategic cropping land”.

“We will protect farm communities from being dug up from mining,” she said at the time.
(Queensland Times 13 February 2014)

On the 19 February 2012 Frecklington increased the pressure with a widely distributed press release that was closely based on the personal letters she had already written to farmers. It was titled :
FRECKLINGTON SAYS NO TO ACLAND STAGE 3.

“After months of lobbying from local LNP candidate for Nanango, Deb Frecklington, the LNP has made it clear that it will not support the proposal for Acland Stage Three that would see the expansion of the open cut coal mine digging up strategic cropping land.

“Deb Frecklington said that fighting for locals would be her number one priority if she was elected to represent the region. If elected to Government we would quickly introduce Statutory Regional Planning Schemes to protect strategic cropping lands on the Darling Downs and in the Golden Triangle.

The fact this regional planning didn't happen a long time ago is just another sign that this 20-year-old Labor Government simply doesn't care about regional Queensland.

“This regional planning should have happened long before any mining or gas approvals were given. Only the LNP will stand up for locals and protect our very best farming land that can sustainably produce food and fibre for generations. We will protect farm communities from being dug up for mining.”

Mrs Frecklington said this was an important issue and that locals needed a strong Government to find common sense solutions.

She is a pert, small-framed woman who loves flirting around in high heels and tight fitting skirts. She talks and smiles a lot – and then you see it, that sudden shadow that falls across her face, that way her expression changes and she refuses to look you in the eye.

“Anna Bligh is hoping that locals will vote for a minor party or an Independent this election, meaning we could end up with the same mess we see in Canberra. We need a strong MP that can be part of a strong CanDo Government. It's time for change. It's time to get Queensland back on track,” she said.

During campaigning in February and March, Frecklington turned up at meetings at Felton and Gowrie Junction with Jeff Seeney and Ray Hopper and promised that New Hope Stage 3 would never go ahead. Frecklington was duly elected in March, and within a few months she was being catapulted through the party ranks as a dazzling star for the LNP.

By December 2012, Frecklington was cheerfully sending out Christmas Card newsletters featuring photographs of her standing smiling on the big mining trucks at New Hope. There was not the slightest trace of embarrassment.

For Frecklington, it was all a matter of semantics, a clever little twist of words: this was the ‘revised’ stage 3 plan that she was supporting, you understand. It wasn't the other one, the one that wasn't ‘revised’.

And that's really how easy it was.

It never mattered that both plans came to the same plundering conclusion – billions of dollars of pure profit for New Hope and the gutting of the water of the farmland of the Eastern Darling Downs.

Frecklington had managed to pull it off, and the woman who had been elected on one terrible lie really never looked back...”

NATURAL CURES by Mrs Vera West

An update for our older readers, who like me may be struggling to keep body and soul together.

First, sugar, not fat, may be the great killer: <http://www.naturalnews.com/2017-07-02-the-secret-to-longevity-may-be-as-simple-as-eating-less-sugar.html>. Cardiologist Dr. Aseem Malhotra has studied the “world’s healthiest village,” which is the village of Pioppi in southern Italy. Residents live often disease-free lives and many reach the age of 100 years. They have plenty of sleep, exercise, and avoid sugar. Fasting also had an anti-aging effect. They do not eat much meat and dairy, but consume fish, vegetables and they use olive oil. Fear of fat, is leading Western people to eat a high carbohydrate diet, which Malhottra believes is responsible for a range of diseases.

Men, there is still some good work on prostate cancer prevention: <https://www.nature.com/articles/s41698-017-0024-z>. This study found that ursolic acid from apple peels, curcumin and resveratrol, worked together to “melt away” prostate cancer cells. I imagine that there may be a capsule containing all three on the market; there certainly are plenty of high dose curcumin and resveratrol capsules available.

Best wishes to all those cancer sufferers.
Good luck and God bless you.

SALT OF THE GODLESS by James Reed

I was not surprised to find Mr Big Australia immigrationist Bernard Salt (The Weekend Australian, July 1-2, 2017, p. 17) expressing no concern about the decline of Christianity in Australia. It is a little difficult to pin down his exact position, but the article to me seems to see the rise of atheism as an expression of a positive view of humanity, and that the movement towards secular humanism is a strength, just like diversity, immigration, blah, blah, blah. Like so many of the faith of multiculturalism, he embraces relativist and humanist ideals. As noted by Jennifer Oriol, anti-Christianity is “invariably couched in the language of diversity, inclusion and minority right.” The Australian, July, 3, 2017, p. 12.

Christianity supplied the moral foundation for the free world, and the decline of Christianity will not lead to atheism replacing it. Mass immigration will bring forth, as it has in Europe the new religion of the New World order, Islam, to fill the vacuum. Atheist materialism is unstable: atheists are generally white, affluent and don’t reproduce. Hence, they will be demographically replaced by the energies of Islam. The soul of the West would be dead.

SCIENCE AND SEX DIFFERENCES

By Mrs Vera West

While the gender agenda pushes on the idea that there is no real biological basis to gender, and individuals who have gender confusion and childhood gender dysphoria should have access to corrective surgery – even though it is all a social construction: <https://quadrant.org.au/magazine/2017/05/childhood-gender-dysphoria-responsibility-courts/>, hard science continues to find an large number of biologically based sex differences.

For your interest, M. Gershoni and S. Pietrokovski, “The Landscape of Sex-Differential Transcriptome and its Consequent Selection in Human Adults,” BMC Biology, (2017), outlined 1,559 genetic difference between males and females that not only related to sex organ differences, but to other organs such as the brain, skin and muscle.

Science is still discovering what it biologically means to be male or female, so even on this basis, let alone with reference to psychological data, there should be a profound questioning of the gender agenda, which takes gender/sex, as a purely arbitrary social construction.

Rather, it is the gender agenda, which is a Leftist social construction, a product of bad social science and bad politics: <http://quadrant.org.au/magazine/2012/07-08/the-war-against-human-nature-ii-gender-studies-part-1/>.
