Race War Australian Style By James Reed	4

THOUGHT OF THE WEEK: “A significant revolution of modern times is not industrial or economic or political, but the revolution which is taking place in the art of creating consent among the governed... Within the life of the new generation now in control of affairs, persuasion has become a self-conscious art and a regular organ of popular government. None of us begins to understand the consequences, but it is no daring prophecy to say that the knowledge of how to create consent will alter every political premise. Under the impact of propaganda, not necessarily in the sinister meaning of the word alone, the only constants of our thinking have become variables. It is no longer possible, for example, to believe in the cardinal dogma of democracy, that the knowledge needed for the management of human affairs comes up spontaneously from the human heart. Where we act on that theory we expose ourselves to self-deception and to forms of persuasion that we cannot verify. It has been demonstrated that we cannot rely upon intuition, conscience, or casual opinion if we are to deal with the world beyond our reach.” – Walter Lippmann of the 'New York World' in his volume "Public Opinion, 1922" page 248.

UN PACT: PEOPLE WORLDWIDE OPPOSE IMMIGRATION By Peter West

The evil globalist UN Migration pact is now in. <https://www.cbc.ca/news/world/un-migration-conference-morocco-1.4938985>

“A majority of UN states adopted on Monday a non-binding global pact to better handle migrant flows, Morocco's foreign minister said, though fewer governments joined than had previously worked on the proposal. Foreign Minister Nasser Bourita announced the decision as host of the UN conference in Marrakesh. There was no formal vote. In July, all 193 UN members except the United States finalized the so-called Global Compact for Safe, Orderly and Regular Migration to better handle migration. Since then, the text has come under fire from mostly right-wing European politicians, who say it could increase immigration from African and Arab countries. At least six European Union members — mostly in formerly Communist Eastern Europe — have shunned the accord. It was not immediately clear how many countries were in Marrakesh. The UN had put the number of governments registered late on Sunday at more than 150.”

That's 150 nations destined to bite the dust, Germany style. But, despite this, world opposition to immigration is growing: <https://www.amren.com/news/2018/12/many-worldwide-oppose-more-migration-both-into-and-out-of-their-countries/>

“As the number of international migrants reaches new highs, people around the world show little appetite for more migration – both into and out of their countries, according to a Pew Research Center survey of 27 nations conducted in the spring of 2018. Across the countries surveyed, a median of 45% say fewer or no immigrants should be allowed to move to their country, while 36% say they want about the same number of immigrants. Just 14% say their countries should allow more immigrants. (Those who said no immigrants should be allowed volunteered this response.) In Europe, majorities in Greece (82%), Hungary (72%), Italy (71%) and Germany (58%) say fewer immigrants or no immigrants at all should be allowed to move to their countries. Each of these countries served as some of the most popular transit or destination countries during Europe's recent surge in asylum seekers. (In several countries, most disapprove of how the European Union has handled the refugee issue.) People in other countries around the world hold views similar to those in Europe. Large majorities in Israel (73%), Russia (67%), South Africa (65%) and Argentina (61%) say their countries should let in fewer immigrants. In every country surveyed, less than a third say their nation should allow more immigrants to enter. Worldwide, a record 258 million people lived outside their country of birth in 2017, up from 153 million in 1990. Their share of the global population is also up, reaching 3.4% in 2017, compared with 2.9% in 1990.”

NO CHRISTMAS IN SWEDEN By Richard Miller

Once the Swedes were Vikings, but now they just want to die. To die as a people, first get rid of one's cultural symbols, and the biological/genetic dissolution is easy:

<https://voiceofeurope.com/2018/12/christmas-called-winter-celebration-in-swedish-media-and-the-swedes-are-sick-of-it/>

“So Christmas is now called ‘winter celebration’ in Malmö? There you have it... Waiting to open my ‘winter presents’ lying under the ‘winter tree’.

The offending published report was by Sydsvenskan, and described how Malmö is preparing for Christmas celebrations amidst the need for more security than in the past. They moved the celebration from Gustaf Adolf Square to larger Stortorget Square.

The newspaper chose to call it “winter celebration” instead of Christmas and it has not gone over with members of the Swedish public.

“So Christmas is now called ‘winter celebration’ in Malmö?”, user Nätsäkerhetsexpert tweeted. “Waiting to open my ‘winter presents’ lying under ‘winter tree’”, one user said sarcastically.

“Is this the first time a newspaper non-ironically uses the word ‘Winter Celebration’ for Christmas in a news piece?”, user Alexander TixE queried.

“Who wants to celebrate Scanian winter anyway? Dark, +3C, wet snow and wind blowing at 13 m/s”.

Well, at least there is a little resistance, from individuals while institutions are much like this:

“Domestic. During the Church of Sweden’s meeting in November, the Sweden Democrats’ critical initiative on dropping calls to prayer was voted down, reports the Christian newspaper The Day. Among the arguments of the other participants was the opportunity for more people to meet the “love of Allah.” The Church committee is the highest decision-making body of the Swedish Church. Prior to the November meeting, the Sweden Democrats, who had 24 mandates, had suggested that the Church of Sweden should have a critical attitude towards the Islamic prayer call. However, the motion was voted down by a large majority. 206 voted against and 26 for. Among those who argued against the motion was Artemis Lumarker from Open Church, a nomination group within the Swedish Church.

“Imagine how amazing it would be that more people could encounter the love of Allah and God, and what we get out of the meeting with each other,” he said, according to The Day, and also claimed that SD is trying to “dehumanize” other people....

Social Democrat Isak Öhrlund explained, on the other hand, that the Church should be “a progressive and open force” in society, writes The Day, and therefore one cannot be critical of prayer calls.”

But, if these Swedes feel like this, why bother having a Christian church at all, or is that the plan? Just get it over with. ***

YET ANOTHER EUROPEAN CRISIS By Richard Miller

What has Europe done to deserve such rapid destruction, coming unstuck on all fronts?

<https://www.barrons.com/articles/europe-economic-crisis-is-coming-51545951011?>

Oh, I found a neat summary of this tale of economic woe to make life easier for our long-suffering eyes:

“Summary: Europe faces a huge future recession not because of intermediate factors like falling imports, but because its consumer spending is falling. The “yellow vests” could not wish for a better exoneration: the regulatory, class warfare based tax-and-spend welfare state ran out of money to steal from the wealthy alone, and so has begun to take from the middle class in order to support its diversity underclass (mostly Roma/Pakistanis, Muslims, Africans, Turks, Eastern Europeans). This means that people have less money and their daily expenses are higher, which drives down consumption. It took a few decades to see the results, but now we are at the point where government has dried up the well of its own citizens, who are most likely supplementing their purchases with more barter, gardening, and under-the-table cash jobs in order to avoid the dying economy. Just as in the Soviet Union, where people turned first to the black market or trades with neighbors, people in the West now know that the big shiny box stores belong to the very wealthy and the diversity underclass which has redistributed money to spend in them. It turns out that, much like both totalitarianism and democracy reveal a common principle in Crowdism, both Communism and Keynesian entitlements-based social democracies share a similar central theory in the idea of class warfare driven tax-and-spend welfare states, and that not surprisingly, they fail the same way. The coming European economic burnout will parallel the downfall of the Soviet Union in the late 1980s, paving the way for its eventual capitulation.”

The same forces that are now destroying Western Europe, and leading to the desperate protests by the French “deplorables” in the yellow vest movement will also hit sleepy Australia in the near future. It will be interesting to see how the land of the long weekend responds to the removal of the hedonism which has kept the population dumb and docile for so long. ***

MIGRATION AND THE EASE OF DISEASE By Peter Ewer

Unvaccinated children is more than enough to send the mainstream normie media into hysteria. But, what about diseases brought into countries by migrants? On this, the immigration fanatics are silent, after of course squarking "racism." But, race has nothing much to do with it, as disease organism do not discriminate.

<https://www.naturalnews.com/2018-12-29-media-buries-the-truth-about-illegal-immigrants-disease-hiv.html>

"Here's a great example of the mainstream media distorting information to promote a liberal agenda, an act that is especially pervasive when it comes to immigration coverage. A story published by NBC News, and reiterated by various other outlets, claims illegal immigrants don't bring disease into the United States. The headline reads: "Migrants don't bring disease. In fact, they help fight it, report says." The article focuses on a study commissioned by a medical journal called The Lancet and University College, London. The finished product is titled "Global patterns of mortality in international migrants: a systematic review and meta-analysis" and one of the researchers, Dr. Paul Spiegel, proclaims that migrants spreading disease is a "false argument" used to keep them out. The editor of The Lancet said; "In too many countries, the issue of migration is used to divide societies and advance a populist agenda."

Nevertheless, buried deep in the news article the reporter offers this important nugget from the study, only after writing that migrants are less likely than people in their host countries to die of heart disease, cancer, respiratory diseases and other ills: "The exceptions are hepatitis, tuberculosis and HIV." Last we checked those are deadly diseases and Judicial Watch has interviewed medical experts that confirm illegal immigrants do indeed pose a serious public health threat to the U.S. by bringing dangerous diseases into the country. This includes tuberculosis, dengue and Chikungunya. Just last month a prominent physician in a key border state warned that the caravan streaming north from Honduras will undoubtedly bring infectious diseases into the U.S. Among them are extremely drug resistant strands of tuberculosis and mosquito-borne diseases such as dengue and chikungunya that are widespread in the region. The same week Judicial Watch published the story about the caravan health threat a major newspaper reported on the health crisis created by the influx of Venezuelans fleeing to neighboring countries. The migrants are spreading malaria, yellow fever, diphtheria, dengue, tuberculosis and AIDS throughout South America. Many of the diseases had been considered eradicated in the neighboring Latin American countries, according to government officials cited in the article, which states that "contagion from Venezuela's economic meltdown is starting to spread to neighboring countries—not financially, but literally, in the form of potentially deadly diseases carried among millions of refugees." As an example, the story reveals that "measles reappeared with a vengeance" in a Brazilian city near the Venezuelan border that had declared the highly contagious airborne disease "vanquished" nearly two decades ago. "Measles is already spreading beyond the Brazilian Amazon to other Brazilian states, as well as Colombia, Peru and as far south as Argentina, according to recent Pan American Health Organization reports," the article states. "Other diseases racing through communities in Venezuela are now crossing borders and raising concerns among health authorities as far away as the U.S."

Open borders immigration, which is presently championed by the new class elites in each Western country, will open the West to these sorts of diseases and collapse the health care systems, with runaway medical expenses. Is this what the elites want? Well, they have the money to get the medical care they need, but you and me, have to hope for the best in the public health care system.

YELLOW VESTS BURN IT ALL DOWN BY Richard Miller

The yellow vest movement should be of interest to us, because it seems to be a grassroots revolt, unfortunately one involving violence, which is not our way, we being concerned with the gentle art of changing minds, not cracking heads. Nevertheless, the movement has now posed a clear and present danger to globalism, because contrary to many predictions, the yellow vests are not being hung up, and if anything, more are appearing:

"Economists in the European Union are scrambling to fix an impending economic meltdown following a shock plunge in Germany and France. The two leading EU countries suffered a dramatic economic slump after a business survey of the two countries was released. Emmanuel Macron and Angela Merkel were hit by weaker than expected figures, with fears that the two so-called "engines of Europe" could in fact drag down the bloc. France and Germany dragged down eurozone growth as the weaker-than-expected data caused the euro to plummet in value against the US dollar and GB pound. It was the eurozone's weakest quarter of growth since early 2013. According to the figures from IHS Markit, France's private sector has "ground to a halt". Economists have blamed the slump in France on the recent protests and violent riots.

RACE WAR AUSTRALIAN STYLE By James Reed

Ok, people will dismiss what I say, but what about quoting from the majestic Channel Nine News. Ah! Channel Nine, I have been with you since the days of Graham Kennedy, and I remember seeing his infamous crowd segment that caused so much controversy at the time, but is so silly and mild by today's standards, or lack of them. But, my NEWS-ravaged brain is wandering in shock mode ... oh, race war ...

<https://www.9news.com.au/2018/12/31/14/15/vietnamese-sudanese-race-war-conflict-melbourne-gang-blood-drill-killers>

"There will be huge conflict. We need to take action." That's the ominous warning from a masked Vietnamese teenager. He's among many in his Melbourne community who've vowed revenge on the Sudanese after a string of brazen daylight assaults at shopping strips. In a bombshell interview, the young man reveals what's led to the escalating tensions between the two minority groups in the suburbs. "We must mass protest right now, and band together and hurt any African youths in our way," he told A Current Affair from a secret location in the city's north-west. A Current Affair has also obtained exclusive vision of vicious assaults on the shopping strips which have stoked ethnic tensions.

BASIC FUND APPEAL FOR 2019

Another challenging year is ahead which will need to be met with dedicated action from our readers. To keep you informed of the events as they unfold, it is essential to have regular distribution of information. This is supplied, not only from our trusted journals "On Target" and the "New Times Survey" but also through the electronic media on the League website. The latter carries daily updates as well as in-depth discussions recorded for your viewing as "Forums". All of this information is there for you to further distribute.

A federal election is due in the first half of this year and the pundits are advocating a win for the Shorten ALP team. If that happens we can expect a major push to end our Constitutional Monarchy method of government which has provided a level of stability, seldom experienced in Republics. A large field of Independent candidates is likely to contest the election and it will be necessary to sort those who will best be able to bring influence on the republic and other matters, to whichever party forms government.

While the election will be a main focus of attention, there will be other issues too and the League "machine" requires financial support to continue its vital role.

The Basic Fund was launched in October last year with an aim of $60 000. Some contributions have arrived but we hope with the holiday season over and the return of regular journals, that our readers will take the opportunity to provide support. May I thank you in anticipation.

ON TARGET

Anger between minority groups has been escalating steadily in recent months, with violence repeatedly erupting in St Albans and at St Kilda and Chelsea beach.

Come the economic/social/political collapse, these will be the new warlord rulers of what was once 'Australia'. Oh, you think that I am exaggerating, or having an anxiety attack. You will talk about the milk of human kindness, and how humans as social beings ultimately cooperate and love each other. But, unlike most people calling themselves 'Christians', I believe in original sin, which cannot be cured by any diet of pseudo-socialism or flaccid liberalism. ***

LETTER TO THE EDITOR

Years ago Eric Butler wrote an article in On Target stating that if faith without works is death, James 2:26 then works without faith leads to death too. Prayer is a key part of the battle to preserve freedom, truth, justice and democracy. I urge readers to say this prayer daily:

*O Lord our God arise, Scatter our enemies
And make them fall.*

*Confound their politics, Frustrate their knavish tricks,
On Thee our hope we fix, God save us all. Amen*

This is the second verse of 'God Save the Queen', our former National Anthem. Prayer is the start of the battle, now follow up the prayer with action – write a letter, make a phone call, send an email, organise a public meeting in your local town hall once a month. There is local government, state government and federal governments to deal with. Some Social Crediters in Victoria made this last action work back in the 1970's. May your prayers and action bear much fruit this year.
